Management

The Association is managed by the Board of Directors acting in consultation with the Committee formed by members and which meets on a regular basis. The Show is managed by the Board of Directors acting in accordance with decisions made by the Association.

Strategic Policy

The strategic policy of the company is for it's subsidiary undertaking to hold an agricultural show.

The Past Year's Activities

Dear committee members,

After being given the chance to be your chairman for a third year, after the unprecedented circumstances that covid raised, I had high hopes for the 2022 show.

Planning started later than we would normally like to, but we soon had a steady stream of caterers, traders and exhibitors lining up ready for the Show. Main ring attractions were booked along with the marquees and all the other bits that go into putting on a show and very quickly July was upon us.

For the 2022 Show the decision was made to sell tickets online with Ticketsrv. Advanced ticket sales were initially relatively slow, but as July progressed and the weather looked to be favourable, then there was a last minute rush for advance tickets.

Show day saw what could only be described as record numbers of visitors. Unfortunately we had problems out on the roads trying to get the visitors in, but once in the field the carparking team had them parked up in short order and the benefits of the e-ticketing soon became obvious

Once on the field all the visitors seemed to have a very enjoyable day as did the members of the committee that I spoke to. It became apparent that people were very keen to support their local show and I for one was glad we made an effort to put on a very good show for them to enjoy.

I'd like to extend my thanks to all the visitors, volunteers and members of the committee that make the show possible. We managed to put on an amazing show in short order this year and hopefully we can build off the good feeling into 2023.

Risk Management

The Charity actively reviews the major risks on a regular basis and maintains a reasonable level of reserves to ensure continuance, where feasible, of the annual show. Systems are in place to annually review these risks.

Financial Review

The intention of the Directors is to accumulate sufficient funds to assure the continuing financial viability of the Association.
