Wildlife Protection Society of India (UK)
For the Year Ended 31 December 2020

The trustees present their report with the unaudited financial statements of the Wildlife Protection Society of India (UK) for the year ended 31st December 2020.

CHARITABLE DEED

The Wildlife Protection Society of India (UK) is an incorporated charity governed by Charitable Deed dated 31st December 1998 and is registered with the Charity Commission, number 1074459.

TRUSTEES

The trustees during the year under review were:

	Sarah Williams (Chair)
	Rupert Wright
	Tessa Gaisman
	John Elliott

The trustees have the power to appoint suitable new members of the board by unanimous vote. New trustees must be made fully informed about the objectives and past and current activities of the charity, receive minutes of meetings, copies of the accounts, and Charity Commission guidance on how to be an effective trustee. The Trustees are responsible for preparing and approving the annual report and financial statements, which are prepared in accordance with applicable accounting standards and the Statement of Recommended Practice on Accounting by Charities. They are also responsible for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

The trustees receive no remuneration but are encouraged to visit India at their own expense to monitor work supported by the charity. The charity has no direct employees.

OBJECTIVES AND ACTIVITIES

The purposes of the Wildlife Protection Society of India (UK) (referred to hereafter as 'WPSI (UK)' or 'the charity'), is to protect the tiger and other wildlife of India and to assist in conserving the forests of India and generally to assist in the conservation of the environment of India in the interest of its people.

The main activities of the charity are to carry out fund raising and to support the charity's objective to protect wild tigers and other wildlife in India and to conserve the environment. WPSI (UK) also supports a number of forest community assistance projects, including work to mitigate human-animal conflict.

The aim of the charity is to see wild tiger numbers and tiger habitat in India grow or stabilise, to reduce poaching and the illegal trade in tiger parts, and to assist poor forest communities, including by supporting mitigation measures to reduce human-wildlife conflict. A highly respected charity registered in India under the Societies Registration Act No. S/27248, Wildlife Protection Society of India, is largely selected and funded to carry out the fieldwork in India. The projects in India are regularly monitored by WPSI (UK)'s trustees (at their own expense, the trustees receive no remuneration) to assess the money spent and successful outputs of the work funded by the charity.

In all its objectives and activities, the trustees of WPSI (UK) have paid due diligence to the Charity Commission's guidance on public benefit. The charity's activities benefit the public through education and information on wildlife conservation and environmental protection, improved security for iconic species and their habitat such as the tiger and other wildlife in India, support and information to enforcement authorities and decision makers, and improved safety and livelihood opportunities for communities that live around critical wildlife habitats in India.

For the year ended 31st December 2020, funds were raised to combat the illegal trade in tiger parts and for Project EcoFemme.

In the Financial Statements the restricted funds for "Sundarbans School", "Tiger Protection" and "Project EcoFemme" is the grouping of donations from organisations and individuals who have specified their wish for their funds to be used for the school in the Sundarbans or to save the tiger, or to help local women protect their environment by using healthy eco-friendly products, rather than for general use in protecting wildlife in India.

Except for a very modest expenditure for accounting purposes, the charity has no overheads and all the funds raised go towards supporting fieldwork to achieve its objectives. WPSI (UK)'s short-term and longer-term objectives are to pursue the purpose of the charity. The scale of work, and the achievements, will depend on the amount of funds raised.

Public Benefit

The trustees confirm that they have complied with section 4 of the Charities Act 2011 to have due regard to the public benefit guidance published by the Charity Commission.

In 2016, Belinda received the prestigious NDTV Indian of the Year 2015 award for her work in saving wild tigers.

ACHIEVEMENTS AND PERFORMANCE

In 2020 WPSI (UK)'s fundraising activities were significantly impacted because of the Covid-19 pandemic. However, a couple of unrestricted legacy payments were very gratefully received - £50,000 from the estate of the late GM Gautam and £5,000 from the estate of the late Rosemary Bagley. These funds have yet to be called for by Wildlife Protection Society of India in Delhi but as they adapt their programmes to the challenges of the pandemic, which have hit rural India particularly hard, they are expected to be drawn down soon to support field activities in the fight against wildlife crime, community conservation efforts in Tiger Reserves and in the Sundarbans.

£8,436 was expended by WPSI (UK) to Wildlife Protection Society of India in Delhi in support of Project Ecofemme but the programme has been severely delayed because of the pandemic and will be resumed as soon as the situation on the ground improves.

Project EcoFemme is an initiative to help poor tribal women & girls living around the fringes of Kanha Tiger Reserve in central India, by distributing organic, washable and reusable, eco-friendly menstruation pads. Because of the stigma attached to this issue, rural women often use unsanitary and potentially harmful methods, such as old rags and even mud. Cervical cancer and other infections are widespread. By helping to address this problem we will not only be helping the women, but also gaining their support for wildlife conservation initiatives. It will also help stop the spread of potentially dangerous waste in tiger habitat.

£921 was provided this year for office costs and travel expenses to the Wildlife Protection Society of India.

ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Accounting convention

The financial statements have been prepared under the historical cost convention and are in accordance with applicable accounting standards and the Statement of Recommended Practice on Accounting by Charities.

ACTIVITIES

During the period WPSI (UK) continued to carry out fund-raising activities in support of the Charity's activities. A total of £56,160 of donations were received, and £8,436 was expended in support of the Wildlife Protection Society of India and the Environmental Investigation Agency for tiger and other wildlife conservation efforts.

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE

As at the 31 December 2020, the charity has unrestricted reserves of £93,588 and restricted reserves of £25,078. The charity does not intend to change its aims and objectives. The trustees believe that the activities that the charity supports are achieving the purpose of the charity, and that funds raised are being effectively used to help protect the tiger and other wildlife of India, to assist in conserving the forests and environment of India in the interest of its people, and to help safeguard local forest communities from human-animal conflict.

STATEMENT OF TRUSTEES' RESPONSIBILITIES

The trustees are responsible for preparing the Trustees' Report and the financial statements in accordance with applicable law and United Kingdom Accounting Standards including Financial Reporting Standard 102 The Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland (United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice). The law applicable to charities in England requires the trustees to prepare financial statements for each financial year which give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the charity and of the income and expenditure of the charity for that period. In preparing these financial statements, the trustees are required to:

- select suitable accounting policies and then apply them consistently;
- observe the methods and principles in the Charities SORP;
- make judgments and accounting estimates that are reasonable and prudent;
- state whether applicable accounting standards have been followed, subject to any material departures disclosed and explained in the financial statements, and
- prepare the financial statements on the going concern basis unless it is inappropriate to presume that the charity will continue in business.

The trustees are responsible for maintaining proper accounting records which disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the charity and enable them to ensure that the financial statements comply with the Charities Act 2011, the Charity (Accounts and Reports) Regulations 2008 and the provisions of the trust deed/constitution. They are also responsible for safeguarding the assets of the charity and hence for taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities

2. the accounts do not comply with these records; or
3. the accounts do not comply with the applicable requirements concerning the form and content of the accounts set out in the Charities (Accounts and Reports) Regulations 2008 other than any requirement that the accounts give a "true and fair view" which is not a matter considered as part of an independent examination.

Creditors and provisions are recognised at their settlement amount.

Taxation

The Charity is exempt from tax to the extent that income and gains are used in advancement of charitable objects.

Funds

General funds are unrestricted funds receivable or generated for the objects of the Trust without further specified purpose and are available as general funds.

Notes to restricted funds:-

- American Himalayan Foundation have funded joint field operations between WPSI and the Environmental Investigation Agency actively combating and disrupting the illegal trade in tigers and tiger parts from India through Nepal and China in conjunction with local and national law enforcement agencies. The remaining funds are historic foreign exchange gains as the initial grant was paid in USD, and therefore these funds have been transferred to unrestricted funds as the project had finished in previous years.
- Sundarbans School is an initiative to improve the early years learning of the local community around WPSI's Tiger Conservation Centre in the Sundarbans region and to educate them to actively embrace and protect their wildlife and habitats rather than harming them in the course of development.
- Tiger Protection is the grouping of donations from organisations and individuals who have specified their wish for their funds to be used to save the tiger rather than for general use in protecting wildlife in India.
- Project EcoFemme is an initiative to help poor tribal women living around the fringes of Kanha Tiger Reserve in central India, by distributing eco-friendly, washable and reusable menstruation pads. This initiative will help gain the support of local women for critical wildlife conservation efforts, and stop the spread of potentially dangerous waste in tiger habitat.
