| Summary of the purposes of the charity as set out in its governing document                                                                                          | Para 1.17          | To advance the education of the general public in the field of philosophy in the classical tradition. To educate students in the comparative study of arts, philosophy, religion and science in order to preserve mankind's heritage and to disseminate the results of such study and research to the public. To promote racial harmony for the benefit of the public. To promote good citizenship. To promote the education of the public in order that they may achieve their full physical, intellectual, social and spiritual potential.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Summary of the main activities in relation to those purposes for the public benefit, in particular, the activities, projects or services identified in the accounts. | Para 1.17 and 1.19 | Activities in the field of Philosophy: We continued to provide our weekly classes throughout the pandemic. Within a week of the first lockdown in March, we were able to teach all the courses via zoom. Our members expressed their gratitude regarding the consistent quality and the regularity of the classes throughout a very challenging time, and commented that they provided a dependable virtual community at a time when many were feeling isolated or uncertain. Since most people were unable to go on holiday, we extended the length of our termly teaching period and taught about 680 hours of classes on comparative philosophy within the framework of our Programme of Studies. We continued to celebrate UNESCO's World Philosophy Day this year. We organised an online event with the title "Philosophy for a VUCA world", where 4 speakers gave presentations on how philosophy can help us deal with Volatility, Uncertainty, Complexity and Ambiguity in our times. This year we had to give all of our talks and seminars online. Amongst our talks in the field of philosophy we would like to highlight the following: "Philosophy for Living", "Stoicism – Philosophical Remedies for Life's challenges", "The Art of Making Wise Choices", "The Theory of the Imprisoned Soul", "Nikola Tesla and his vision of an ethical science" and "Science, Technology and the Future of Humanity". Activities in the field of Culture: We organised a wide range of online talks and seminars, including: a talk on Beethoven (2020 being the 250th Anniversary of his birth), a seminar on Dante's Divine Comedy, a talk on Ubuntu (this was only for our members | and friends, by a guest speaker from South Africa) and a talk and Q&A session on Bees for World Bee Day in May.

In January and February 2021 we organised online 'Creative Evenings' presented by each of our members groups, which brought out some amazing presentations of poetry recitals, singing, photography and the sharing of things that 'made our hearts sing'.

We also published 6 digital issues of our magazine "New Acropolis – Philosophy and Education for the Future" and 1 paper issue (normally we would print 3 issues but due to COVID there was not many possibilities of distributing the paper issues). This year more of our members contributed to the magazine by writing articles, making use of the increased time spent at home.

Activities in the field of Volunteering:

All the activities in our School of Philosophy (teaching, cleaning and maintenance of the school, advertising, design of leaflets and course notes, etc.) are done on a voluntary and honorary basis and there are no paid positions in our charity. Every task is used as a practical exercise and application of philosophy in action. This year, our members were hardly able to use our premises but during the summer we managed to give the whole school a deep clean by working in small teams and organising the tasks well in advance.

Despite the lockdowns we could organise 7 out of the planned 11 Compton Terrace Garden Volunteering Days (this is a joint project with neighbours, volunteers from the general public and the support of Islington Council), with 62 volunteers in total at these 7 days, plus an additional Bulb Planting Day with 12 people in December.

We also decided to give our support to the Homeless Charity Margins, which is next door to our premises.

In May we collected a wide range of things they told us they needed (from clothes, to bedding, to food, etc.) – this involved in total 16 volunteers.

In December we raised £800 for Margins amongst our members, made a collection of winter clothes and sent Christmas messages to the homeless.

In September and October we joined the activities for World Cleanup Day and organised 2 litter picks in London (in various areas around our premises in Islington, but also at other London sites where our members noticed a huge amount of rubbish - Hackney Fields, Homerton, near the Castle at Manor House, etc). We were 33 volunteers in total at these 2 events and we must have collected at least 200 kg of rubbish in total.

| Summary of the main achievements of the charity, identifying the difference the charity's work has made to the circumstances of its beneficiaries and any wider benefits to society as a whole. | Para 1.20 | As already stated elsewhere in this report, we have benefitted our members by continuing to provide our educational services despite the difficult circumstances. Throughout a very challenging year, we managed to maintain the offer of the wide range of public (online) activities that we have developed over the last 20 years and were able to reach an even wider audience through zoom, although our primary goal remains to 'think globally and work locally', to build relationships and community, shared values and a shared vision. We also continued to give grants to members who were unable to pay their subscriptions. Our volunteering activities for the homeless charity Margins, our litter picks and our garden volunteering benefitted society as a whole. However, the most important benefits are not only seen in measurable outcomes but also in the spirit of active citizenship, generosity and resilience that we try to transmit through all our activities. Several of our members expressed the view that they could see more clearly the positive effects of the kind of education we are trying to provide and the importance of and need for timeless values in times of crisis. |

Independent Examiner's Report

Report to the trustees/members of

Charity Name

NEW ACROPOLIS CULTURAL ASSOCIATION

On accounts for the year ended

29 February 2021

Charity no
(if any)

Set out on pages

(remember to include the page numbers of additional sheets)

Respective responsibilities of trustees and examiner

The charity's trustees are responsible for the preparation of the accounts. The charity's trustees consider that an audit is not required for this year under section 144 of the Charities Act 2011 (the Charities Act) and that an independent examination is needed.

It is my responsibility to:

- examine the accounts under section 145 of the Charities Act,
- to follow the procedures laid down in the general Directions given by the Charity Commission (under section 145(5)(b) of the Charities Act, and
- to state whether particular matters have come to my attention.

Basis of independent
examiner's statement

My examination was carried out in accordance with general Directions given by the Charity Commission. An examination includes a review of the accounting records kept by the charity and a comparison of the accounts presented with those records. It also includes consideration of any unusual items or disclosures in the accounts, and seeking explanations from the trustees concerning any such matters. The procedures undertaken do not provide all the evidence that would be required in an audit, and consequently no opinion is given as to whether the accounts present a 'true and fair' view and the report is limited to those matters set out in the statement below.

Independent
examiner's statement

In connection with my examination, no material matters have come to my attention (other than that disclosed below *) which gives me cause to believe that in, any material respect:

- accounting records were not kept in accordance with section 130 of the Charities Act or
- the accounts do not accord with the accounting records

I have come across no other matters in connection with the examination to which attention should be drawn in order to enable a proper understanding of the accounts to be reached.
