3 Objectives of the Institute

The objects of the Institute are to encourage and advance the rehabilitation of those suffering from the effects of stroke, and other brain injuries which have resulted in partial paralysis. Particularly by the physical training of patients who require recovery programmes. Such training attempts to enable those who have suffered brain injuries progressively to recover movement, balance, physical strength and confidence. The Institute also promotes awareness of the stroke and brain injuries to the public.

4 Public Benefit

The Trustees confirm that they have taken due regard to the guidance published by the Charity Commission on public benefit. The Trustees are a strong team with the necessary complementary skills to enable the Institute to be effective. Projects and the necessary funding are sought which will advance the ability for the Institute to be effective in providing methods for members of the public to attain effective rehabilitation after acquired or traumatic brain injury,

5 Review of Activities

In the UK, stroke is the biggest disabler of all and can happen to anyone at any time. 150,000 people suffer a stroke annually and there are over a million people living with the effects of stroke. The ARNI (Action for Rehabilitation from Neurological Injury) Institute Charity provides an essential national community-integration pathway and support network for people after hospital discharge, which comes sometimes after just six weeks. The Charity matches survivors with its specialist therapists and instructors who then help to rehabilitate over the long-term. The Charity has measured impact in terms of efficacy: Exeter University, Brunel University and Brighton & Sussex Medical School research teams have carried out randomised controlled trials which show that the team of over 140 ARNI professional trainers and therapists are being effective in dramatically cutting costs in terms of ambulance call-outs and hire of carers. Further, that stroke and acquired injury patients who use the ARNI service improve significantly in terms of mobility, range of movement, action control, strength, confidence and quality of life... and most often reduce the requirement for carers and physical assistants.

Independent Examiner's Report to the Trustees of The ARNI Institute
For the year ended 31st March 2024

I report on the accounts of the charity for the year ended 31st March 2024 which are set out on pages 1 to 4.

Respective responsibilities of trustees and examiner

The charity's trustees are responsible for the preparation of the accounts. The charity's trustees consider that an audit is not required for this year under section 144(2) of the Charities Act 2011 (the 2011 Act) and that an independent examination is needed.

It is my responsibility to:

- examine the accounts under section 145 of the 2011 Act
- follow the procedures laid down in the General Directions given by the Charity Commission under section 145(5)(b) of the 2011 Act; and
- state whether particular matters have come to my attention

Basis of independent examiner's statement

My examination was carried out in accordance with General Directions given by the Charity Commission. An examination includes a review of the accounting records kept by the charity and a comparison of the accounts presented with those records. It includes a consideration of any unusual items or disclosures in the accounts, and seeking explanations from the trustees concerning any such matters. The procedures undertaken do not provide all the evidence that would be required in an audit, and consequently no opinion is given as to whether the accounts present a "true and fair view" and the report is limited to those matters set out in the statement below.

Independent examiner's statement

In the course of my examination, no matter has come to my attention:

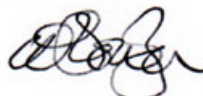

1 which gives me reasonable cause to believe that, in any material respect, the requirements:

- to keep accounting records in accordance with section 130 of the 2011 Act; and
- to prepare accounts which accord with the accounting records and comply with the accounting requirements of the 2011 Act: have not been met; or

2 to which, in my opinion, attention should be drawn in order to enable a proper understanding of the accounts to be reached.
