RICHARD JEFFERIES MUSEUM TRUST

FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER 2024

The trustees who are also directors of the charity for the purposes of the Companies Act 2006, present their report with the financial statements of the charity for the year ended 31st December 2024. The trustees have adopted the provisions of Accounting and Reporting by Charities: Statement of Recommended Practice applicable to charities preparing their accounts in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland (FRS 102) (effective 1 January 2019).

OBJECTIVES AND ACTIVITIES

Objectives and aims

The Trust takes responsibility for the former home of the Victorian author Richard Jefferies which is run as a museum. It will enhance the collection of his books and other items in the museum and improve public access to it. It will provide a facility for schools to visit to study literature and the Victorian way of life. It will encourage the wider knowledge of the literary works and environmental interest and concerns of Richard Jefferies through the following objects:

1. To establish and maintain a museum in respect of the life and literature of Richard Jefferies for the benefit of the public;
2. To advance the education of the public in respect of the writings of Richard Jefferies generally both in art and literature;
3. To increase the collection of books and artefacts relating to Richard Jefferies and his life and times;
4. To engage the public in celebrating the literary ideas and passion for nature bequeathed by Richard Jefferies and his works;
5. To increase the educational facilities and offerings available to schools and colleges in Swindon and elsewhere;
6. To promote the literature and art of other writers and artists contemporaneous with and complementary to Richard Jefferies;
7. To advance education in the role of the arts alongside agriculture and horticulture in preserving and enhancing the local environment.

Significant activities

This has been a very quiet year for the Trust, with no major projects. But this was a deliberate plan, to free us up for three reasons:

- Last year was a very busy time, with months of 175 events and activities on top of 'normal' museum business. The year was all about celebrating the 175th anniversary of Jefferies, with him being born in 1848. The project was designed to stretch over the year, engaging groups and individuals in all the places Jefferies would have known, via a 175 mile route that went from Swindon, via London and Crowborough, and down to the south coast around the Brighton area. With participation of hundreds of different people, of all ages and backgrounds, the project navigated the 175 miles and explored the changes in nature that may have occurred over the centuries. This year we had the important task of collating all the information we had accrued, writing everything up, and putting together a comprehensive report. This eventually turned into an eighty page glossy magazine, with writings from a number of well-known nature writers and TV/radio journalists, that the museum will continue to make available indefinitely;

- As well as this, of course there was the normal work of the volunteers, but because of the busy nature of 2023, many things needed a little more attention. With what is now a stable and consistent team of volunteers working in the gardens and on general maintenance tasks, a lot of 'invisible' jobs were done in the absence of major projects, such as mending fences, cutting and pruning unruly hedges, clearing unwanted debris, fixing garden furniture, and painting and decorating. As before, the focus for the gardeners was yet another bumper year of fruit and vegetable growth, enabling us again to share lots of food with local food banks. The gardens were also awarded, for the third year, the prestigious five star rating in the Royal Horticultural Society's 'It's Your Neighbourhood' as part of South Swindon's top prize winning In Bloom entry;

- Possibly the most important reason for not taking on any new projects, was because the Trustees decided that a dedicated effort was required towards our long standing hopes to one day have a new building on the site. This would only happen if we could first get our house in order (maintenance etc.), and be freed of the sheer effort involved in new projects. Consequently, following feedback on the planning application we submitted for the new building, we met the extra targets that arose from that, using part of our fundraising for the 175 events to cover costs for meeting those aims. These included, a surveyor's report, an archaeological assessment, and further architect's drawings of the proposed building. Importantly, we also did much of the groundwork necessary for taking our hopes and ideas and turning them into a reality. Next year, 2025, will see us launch a fully prepared business plan for engagement, fundraising, project management, and development.

Meanwhile, our regular Sunday openings ran as usual from the beginning of May to the end of September, with live music each week, and they (and our cream teas) with their popularity seemingly growing all the time. Nature Tots/Kids continued throughout the year on Tuesdays and Thursdays, but following discussions last year, this year we created a Nature Tots 'Lite' in the winter months, when attendance is naturally lower. This new approach, meant that we did not pay any freelance staff, instead relying on volunteers to simply lay things out for the children, rather than 'running' a full-on event. Of course, the café continued running as normal.

Our bigger events (Steam & Cream Teas, Apple Day etc.) were back again, as was the Wassail, which we ran for the first time last year. This will definitely now be another event in our regular calendar. As usual, school, scouts and cubs groups visited the museum, and regular talks were given at local community groups. And it goes without saying that we still enjoyed our usual fantastic Halloween and Christmas events, which were as popular as ever, tickets selling out within minutes of being available.

With the absence of any major projects, the admin team have continued to deal with the day-to-day work of the museum, manage our digital presence, fundraise, and co-ordinate volunteer activity.

Volunteers

The museum is primarily looked after by volunteers recruited through the RJMT. Training, expenses and development for volunteers are important components of all funding applications.

ACHIEVEMENTS AND PERFORMANCE

Charitable activities

Through its objects, the RJMT is dedicated to use the museum and the writings of Richard Jefferies as tools for education and training in the general areas of arts, culture, heritage and science, and in the areas of the environment and conservation. The RJMT reaches a broad range of people, and makes specific efforts to reach local people, particularly from younger generations and from those groups who would normally not visit museums or have difficulties in visiting museums, as well as visitors to the area.

The museum is primarily looked after by volunteers recruited through the RJMT. Training, expenses and development for volunteers are important components of all funding applications, and where appropriate we employ members of our volunteering team for specific roles on a freelance basis.

Fundraising activities

Core fundraising is normally executed through grant applications to: National bodies such as the National Lottery Heritage Fund and Arts Council England; subject specific agencies (education, arts, environmental etc.); and local organisations (e.g. Swindon Borough Council, South Swindon Parish Council). Funds are also raised through revenue streams such as event admission costs, café, sales of small goods, fund-raising events, and more efficient seeking of charitable donations. This year also saw us raising funds through sales of our book 'Wild Life' and through crowd-sourced support for some of our 175 Wildlife Walk activities.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

Principal funding sources

Core fundraising is normally executed through grant applications to: National bodies such as the National Lottery Heritage Fund and Arts Council England; subject specific agencies (education, arts, environmental etc.); and local organisations (e.g. Swindon Borough Council, South Swindon Parish Council). Funds are also raised through revenue streams such as event admission costs, café, sales of small goods, fund-raising events, and more efficient seeking of charitable donations.

Reserves policy

Under section 13 of the constitution, Powers of Trustees, the Trustees have authority to set aside income as a reserve against future expenditure, but this will require a written policy about reserves which has still not been deemed necessary at this point.

FUTURE PLANS

The RJMT focuses on delivering arts and nature events around ideas related to, or inspired by, the life, home and works of Richard Jefferies. Since we reached a point where we can usually meet financial obligations (services bills etc.) without recourse to grants, we have continued to plan ahead in a much more structured way, although our planning has been interrupted by the rise in costs of goods and services over recent times. However, we still don't have any actual members of paid staff (despite paying for some self-employed services), so there is still some way to go, and, as a spin-off of our new building plans, we intend to have a much stronger approach to grant funding next year.

The museum is planning all of its usual activities and events into the future, with a continued emphasis on the connections between Jefferies' writings and today's important environmental matters (sustainability), following on from our successful 'Small Change' events in 2022, and, this year, with our 'Our Nature' publication emphasising today's nature issues.

The RJMT continues to operate under a rigorous management framework, complete with all documentation as required by Arts Council England's professional museum Accreditation standard. The RJMT's mission statement is:

- To create /share a unique environment of discovery that will enrich peoples' lives and inspire adults and children through the home, writing and thoughts of Richard Jefferies

The Museum's future lies with it becoming a resource that the local community not only engages with as 'consumers' (visitors, customers, audiences), but also as its owners. Ultimately the RJMT believes that if it gets its model right, the Museum will be adopted by the people of Swindon, and its sustainability will be assured. This belief continues to grow, with increased (and more regular) visitor numbers and media coverage, with audiences of different community groups: families; elders; Jefferies fans; readers and writers; nature lovers; vulnerable adults; visitors to Coate; and schools. In particular, we have focused much attention on bringing the Museum and Jefferies' appeal to local children and young people.

The RJMT is realistic about the need for a steady income, generated by a sustainable funding strategy, but it also knows that hard cash in itself is not going to be the 'engine' that drives the Museum. The underlying power of the plan lies in people, in the community that the Museum is part of, and that it creates for itself. The Museum has been kept open for many years simply through the dedication of a few people. The RJMT has taken this idea and is growing it constantly with volunteers via: local housing estates; Volunteer Action Swindon; local companies (e.g. Thames Water, Intel, Nationwide); the museum network; advertising through grant funding; the local press; and through people who come to our events and get a taste of what we do and how enjoyable it is.

As the Museum moves into the future, the RJMT is always aware that it will need considerable investment, of both time and money. The following list outlines some of the activities that it has identified will require investment and is constantly working towards:

- To eventually employ a Director/Manager to ensure that high business and curatorial standards are met for the future. A museum management fund is also required to support the staffing and administration of the Museum;

- Ongoing recruitment, development and training of a strong volunteer cohort to be actively engaged in the work of the Museum. This requires well managed and motivated volunteer support to carry out the majority of administrative and managerial activities required to sustain the Museum, to support events and deliver a vibrant and enjoyable experience for visitors. And, of course, to do the 'hard graft' behind the scenes.

- Continue to secure funds to develop high curatorial standards, including the conservation and display of the collections that will help the Museum to attract more visitors. This work includes high standards of interpretation to inform and excite visitors' interests in Richard Jefferies;

- The preparation of guide books and other important printed material to promote Jefferies and the museum, enhance our interpretation, and support our visitors;

- Ensure support for the preservation and conservation of the historic fabric of the Grade II Listed Museum Building; (SBC is responsible for the management of the building fabric, but not its internal decoration and gardens, which includes important historic treatments that need careful protection);

FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER 2024

- Constantly improve catering and retail activities, upgrading toilets and other visitor facilities and creating appropriate retail space of a high quality and conforming to appropriate accessibility, H & S and other visitor management standards - the RJMT has again been awarded a five star hygiene rating;

- Our slowly rising ambition for a new building which will provide a flexible space (e.g. classroom, café, theatre, event or activity venue), opening up possibilities for more secure event planning, plus rental income opportunities.

STRUCTURE, GOVERNANCE AND MANAGEMENT

Governing document

The charity - the Richard Jefferies Museum Trust (RJMT) - is controlled by its governing document, a deed of trust with a full constitution created through the template supplied by the Charities Commission. The RJMT also constitutes a company limited by guarantee, as defined by the Companies Act 2006.

Recruitment and appointment of new trustees

Recruitment of trustees is conducted through an ongoing programme of outreach, including lectures/talks within local business and organisations where potential trustees may be recruited, liaison with local organisations, and targeting of people with specific skills. Appointment and election is through the Board of Trustees and governed by Section 16 of the constitution: Officers and Trustees, which outlines the qualifications required, numbers of Trustees, and regulations for their appointment.

Organisational structure

The RJMT and its property are managed and administered by a committee comprising the officers and other members elected in accordance with this constitution. The officers and other members of the committee are the trustees of the RJMT and in the constitution are together called "the Trustees". Trustee meetings also include an invited member of the Richard Jefferies (Literary) Society which provides a number of volunteers for the Museum, as well as the local regional Museums development Officer. The activity of the RJMT is subject to lease and service delivery agreements with Swindon Borough Council, and to loan agreements with Swindon Borough Council and the Richard Jefferies (Literary) Society.

Induction and training of new trustees

Induction is through informal meetings, demonstrations and discussion of needs, then through formal presentation at the Board of Trustees and agreement on appropriate training where necessary.

Related parties

Benefits for all trustees and/or members are limited in Section 4 of the constitution: Application of the Income and Property which states that none of the income or property of the RJMT will be paid or transferred directly or indirectly by way of dividend bonus or otherwise by way of profit to any member of the RJMT. This does not exclude normal transactions (such as employment, expenses etc.) but these areas are also limited/governed by clauses and requirements in the constitution.

Risk management

The trustees have a duty to identify and review the risks to which the charity is exposed and to ensure appropriate controls are in place to provide reasonable assurance against fraud and error. This is covered through adhesion to the Constitution and also through the relationships with Swindon Borough Council and funding bodies, which have their own structures and requirements for ensuring risks are managed sufficiently.

Fund name	Purpose and restrictions
Arts Council	Fund which represents grants received by the Arts Council England to aid the museum in achieving it's objectives.
Drop-In and Grow	Fund which represents grants received by the National Lottery in relation to running regular sessions in order to help local people after a period of hardship or illness.
Wild Escape	This Arts Council funded work was part of a national project to encourage children to engage with nature through museum collections. As a small museum devoted to the natural world, we were keen to introduce local children to our own natural history collections and wild gardens, and watch as they let their creative ideas loose through workshops and the arts, on ideas for making helping the wildlife all around us.
Wildlife Walk	Our 175 Wildlife Walk project, funded by National Lottery Heritage Fund, was to celebrate the 175th anniversary of Jefferies, with him being born in 1848. The project was designed to stretch over the year, and into 2024, engaging groups and individuals in all the places Jefferies would have known, via a 175 mile route that went from Swindon, via London and Crowborough, and down to the south coast around the Brighton area. With participation of hundreds of different people, of all ages and backgrounds, the project navigated the 175 mile route and explored the changes in nature that may have occurred over the centuries.
