Summary of the main achievements of the charity during the year

This year has been an extremely challenging one for AMOR due to the pandemic and its effects. Not only was the fundraising landscape altered dramatically, but costs also rose significantly just as the need for our services increased exponentially as Mayan communities were plunged into ever deeper poverty. At the same time, Guatemala's dramatic democratic backslide in 2021 made it a far more complicated place to work.

Your support has helped transform the lives of almost 45,000 people. Together with our trust partners, you have helped us raise almost £85,000. This enabled us to commit over £80,000 to projects to help provide education, health, food security, human rights and emergency nutritional support as well as revive traditional knowledge in Mayan communities throughout Guatemala.

Child sponsorship continues to touch the lives of over 250 members of our international family who support almost 300 children, helping them thrive where they might otherwise struggle to eat or attend school. Sponsorship represents around one-third of our funding from private donations.

AMOR is committed to accompanying these people in their moment of greatest need, and we are grateful for those who have faithfully given to these ongoing crises year after year to make this possible. Despite the immense challenges of the pandemic, which led to a sharp drop in individual giving, and the need to adapt and innovate in the face of great uncertainty, AMOR continued to have an impact far above its size and maintain its funding levels thanks to an increase in foundational grants as well as the efforts of the teams of Mayan and international volunteers who work tirelessly to restore lives and hope for Guatemala.

The situation for the Mayan people is more difficult than ever: COVID and the cost-of-living emergency has worsened the humanitarian crisis in indigenous communities, resulting in extreme poverty and forced migration, as well as increased land expropriation and threats to human rights defenders, creating a climate of fear. However, in the resilience and unity of the Mayan people there are reasons for hope. Backed by our foundational partners and supporter family, AMOR was able to have a transformational impact on the lives of almost 45,000 people.

We have experienced growth in our Health and Food Security projects, as projects have expanded through AMOR's private and trust donations. Our Human Rights projects, tackling the growing problem of human rights defender attacks and impediments to access to genocide justice, have also developed, particularly through promoting security initiatives.

I will leave our Annual Report to tell more about the life-changing difference that you have been a part of, and to say thanks once again for trusting AMOR with your generous donations.

Health, Food Security and Indigenous Climate Resistance

Our programmes work to ensure that the basic needs of Mayan communities are met with dignity using traditional Mayan health and agricultural knowledge. Having food security and access to adequate health services are fundamental human rights. However, many are deprived of these basic rights.

In the past year, almost 14,000 people benefited from AMOR's work in the area of traditional health. AMOR worked to improve the health of mothers and their children. Indigenous midwives were trained and support to equip pregnant women and mothers of infants with knowledge that helps them enjoy healthier pregnancies and breastfeeding. More than 2,000 women and their families have benefitted in this way.

AMOR helped build the capacity of 113 indigenous Community Health Volunteers (ICHVS) in Guatemala to inform, protect and serve their communities, and help build a healthy Guatemala that is prepared and resilient in the face of disaster, disease and food insecurity. Our SANA Guatemala programme helped young Mayan women from communities across Guatemala participate as traditional health builders of their community. Moreover, they held regular clinics in their communities, educating them regarding prevention of common diseases affecting indigenous communities. Finally, they trained others in these same skills, helping restore threatened traditional knowledge and creating a strong base of indigenous women's health leadership in Guatemala, and impacting 13,900 people.

Our Food for Life programme delivered emergency plant-based food parcels to 2,240 chronically malnourished children and women, including 25 AIDS orphans. HEAL Guatemala helped provide awareness of the benefits of a vegan diet to 45 young people and their communities. Moreover, community gardens created using traditional sustainable methods helped 9,200 people attain basic food security and mitigate the threats of climate change.

Human Rights and Empowerment

AMOR believes that one of the best ways to bring about positive, profound and permanent change in indigenous communities is to support the human rights education of young people and women. Our efforts also focus on supporting Mayan human rights defenders and their vital work, and campaigning for justice alongside those communities that continue to be devastated by the effects of genocide.

In the past year, 125 indigenous young people's knowledge of human rights increased, and their leadership skills improved. These young people, in turn, disseminated this knowledge to their communities, impacting 8,550 people.

As part of our justice campaign, outreach was carried out purely online and all in-person events suspended, but even so awareness of the campaign expanded. Additionally, 45 indigenous human rights defenders received vital security training, knowledge that they transmitted to their organisations and communities, impacting 4,200 people.

Education

The primary focuses of AMOR's educational programming are promoting indigenous knowledge and language revival, and girls' education.

While education was lower among our priorities this year, AMOR still managed to support access to education for children living in extreme poverty, opening up opportunities and brighter futures for them. This included supporting school access for Mayan orphans (through the provision of materials and fees). All 53 school-age children in the programme are in school, although some of their schooling happened online. Sessions on child protection were conducted to help maintain the highest levels of safeguarding.

Section E

Financial review

Brief statement of the charity's policy on reserves

Our current policy as a small charity is to hold on average five month's operating costs or one-fifth of our annual income in reserve. We predict that this will change as we continue to grow.

Details of any funds materially in deficit

None

Respective responsibilities of trustees and examiner

The charity's trustees are responsible for the preparation of the accounts. The charity's trustees consider that an audit is not required for this year under section 144 of the Charities Act 2011 (the Charities Act) and that an independent examination is needed.

It is my responsibility to:

- examine the accounts under section 145 of the Charities Act,
- to follow the procedures laid down in the general Directions given by the Charity Commission (under section 145(5)(b) of the Charities Act, and
- to state whether particular matters have come to my attention.

Basis of independent
examiner's statement

My examination was carried out in accordance with general Directions given by the Charity Commission. An examination includes a review of the accounting records kept by the charity and a comparison of the accounts presented with those records. It also includes consideration of any unusual items or disclosures in the accounts, and seeking explanations from the trustees concerning any such matters. The procedures undertaken do not provide all the evidence that would be required in an audit, and consequently no opinion is given as to whether the accounts present a 'true and fair' view and the report is limited to those matters set out in the statement below.

examiner's statement

In connection with my examination, no matter has come to my attention

1. which gives me reasonable cause to believe that in, any material respect, the requirements:
 - to keep accounting records in accordance with section 130 of the Charities Act; and
 - to prepare accounts which accord with the accounting records and comply with the accounting requirements of the Charities Act have not been met; or
2. to which, in my opinion, attention should be drawn in order to enable a proper understanding of the accounts to be reached.
