Description of the Charity's Trusts

Type of Governing Document: Constitution

How the Charity is Constituted: Charitable Incorporated Organisation

Objectives & Activities

Summary of the Objects of the Charity as set out in its Governing Document

The objects of the charity are:

The advancement of health and education, saving of lives and the relief of those in need by reason of ill-health or financial hardship.

- (a) To advance the education of the general public in all areas relating to infertility and Pregnancy, by creating awareness as evidenced on our website, flyers, handbook, and posters. Organizing outreach and health talks in different communities to improve their knowledge on these issues.
- (b) To educate young people on matters of sex and contraception (family planning) and to develop amongst them a sense of responsibility in regards to sexual behaviours with the aim of preventing the suffering caused by teenage or unwanted pregnancy, and seeing teenagers focusing more on education to enable them have better and happier adult lives.
- (c) To preserve and protect the physical, emotional and psychological health of poor people with infertility and pregnancy in Africa by the provision of financial assistance, material things, quality health care and practical advice (which they cannot afford or access due to poverty), to ensure safe and healthy pregnancy and childbirth are achieved; and for people with infertility to come out of the depression caused by unending abuse and maltreatment given to them by the society due to their conditions.
- (d) To encourage women empowerment in rural areas of Africa by initiating projects which - empower women to work and develop skills that allow them to find their way out of poverty; and one that provides them with opportunities to develop a sense of independence and a respected voice within their communities. Means of achieving these include the provision of small grants, loans, goods or services which they could not otherwise afford through lack of means. These will help them raise money and take care of themselves and their families, improve their life standards and better their societies and the world at large.

Summary of the Main Activities Undertaken for the Public Benefit in Relation to the Charity's Objects

BBO delivered health education and awareness activities to support informed decision-making among communities of African background in the United Kingdom and in the Eastern part of Nigeria. The organisation engaged young people across local educational and community settings, including universities, providing culturally sensitive information on reproductive health, healthy relationships, and personal responsibility.

Safe and inclusive spaces were created for open discussion, with participants encouraged to ask questions and signposted to appropriate health services where necessary. These activities supported youth wellbeing, informed life choices, and positive long-term educational and health outcomes.
