The Andrew Rodger Trust

Trustees Annual Report April 2024/2025

Charity Commission Registration 1160141

Context

Formed in 2014, The Andrew Rodger Trust aims to improve end of life care given by generalist frontline care-providers in low to middle income countries (LMIC) with a focus mainly on Africa. It is named after Andrew Rodger, who died aged 24 in 1982 in South Africa following a car accident in Botswana. He was exploring ways of supporting people and churches at the height of the Apartheid regime with plans for work there in the future. He was married to Keri Thomas, who later became the founder of the Gold Standards Framework (GSF) charity used extensively in the UK. See <https://www.gsfindernational.org.uk/gsf-founders-story>.

Most care for most people at the end of life is given by generalist frontline care-providers, staff or family carers and yet most do not receive training in this important area. Everyone who provides care for people in their final years might benefit from some training and support. There is recognition of the need to train and enable more people caring for those nearing the end of their life across the world, with a rising need in poorer LMIC countries. Access to specialist palliative care is limited in most countries; therefore mobilising the frontline generalist workforce in resource poor countries is of particular importance, i.e. through training, enabling and support for specialists.

The burden of serious health-related suffering is rising fastest in low/middle-income countries (LMICs) and is escalating (Prof Katherine Sleeman Kings EAPC 2019 ). It is estimated that in future there will be increased demand for palliative and end of life care. As predicted deaths in LMICs rise 80% of the need for palliative care is thought to come from resource poor / low and middle income (LMIC) countries in the future .See <https://www.gsfindernational.org.uk/andrew-rodger-trust-charity> For previous work in Africa see <https://www.gsfindernational.org.uk/gsf-africa>.

What we do

The objective of this work is mobilising the frontline generalist workforce to provide 'gold standard' care for people nearing the end of life.

This is broadly focussed on enabling the generalist workforce to provide high standards of generalist palliative care, supporting and working closely with palliative care specialists, to enable better experience of care and quality of life for those nearing the end of life.

We seek to enable care that is proactive through earlier recognition of decline, personalised to meet clinical needs and personal needs by offering advance care planning discussions, and coordinated to ensure the right care at the right time given by all care providers- a gold standard of care. We therefore use our 'GSF UK 1,3,5,7 model' © GSF to include the three key pillars of identify, assess and plan and 7 key tasks to fulfil this that are the basis of GSF accreditation. This is adapted for various settings and situations according to the local context.

We seek to play a role in relieving serious health-related suffering (SHRS) and improve palliative and end of life care either directly or by enabling others, supporting more people to have a better experience of care and quality of life, and to live well until they die.

To do this we share and adapt the expertise and lessons learnt from over 25 years of GSF in the UK and worldwide to their local context and co-design programmes of support to help mobilise and motivate the frontline generalist workforce. This includes use of tools and resources, academic and research experience, advocacy at national policy levels, as well as an integration of spiritual values.

Outline of the charity's work in:

1. Training programmes and mentoring for generalists in palliative/ end of life care, sharing lessons from the UK's GSF (Gold Standards Framework UK)
2. Gold Care pilot preparation, recruitment and planning
3. Research, evaluation studies and academic collaborations
4. Spiritual and religious support and training

The trustees, who remain the same as last year, continue to explore how to support resource-poor countries particularly in Africa provide better care for people nearing the end of their lives. This builds upon the expertise and experience in this area of the UK's Gold Standards Framework Centre (GSF) in End of Life care, from its founder and Chairman Professor Keri Thomas OBE, seeking ways that this work, resources, energy and experience can be applied and adapted for work within the context of resource poor countries.

How we do it

We work closely with those involved in palliative care in Africa, notably the African Palliative Care Association (APCA), through the APCA International Conference and webinar series, and others involved in palliative care there to map out potential collaborations and pilots in several African countries. For example, the possible development of a Palliative/Supportive Care Register of identified patients in one area that could lead to spread in other African countries. Prof Keri Thomas spoke at the APCA International Conference in Aug 2022 (see website), and there were discussions of offering small grants for early pilots, called 'Planning Early, Going for Gold' pilots, working with interested palliative care leads. Prof Keri Thomas received an invitation to speak at the APCA International Conference due in Aug 2022, which was followed up with discussions of offering small grants for an early pilot programme, Gold Care Africa, working with interested palliative care leads. This laid the ground work for the pilot programme of Gold Care Africa from May 2025 onwards, with details, application forms and supported training workshops on line.

The charity received donations from individuals in previous years and a donation from the asset lock of the UK's GSF Centre CIC, when it became a subsidiary of Hospice UK and later an independent charity. There is a good will relationship between both charities.

The charity has now developed a very comprehensive website www.gsfindernational.org.uk, through which examples from the UK, from Africa and from other countries can be shared, with access to training resources and the GSF Virtual Learning Zone. This will be the platform for further communication and development going forward. Donations to the Andrew Rodger Trust are registered for Gift Aid. Some of the previous work is detailed in the GSF Africa section.

Trustees Annual Report April 2021/2022

Outline of the charity's work – What we can provide;

- 1. Training programmes for generalists in palliative/ end of life care, based on GSF (Gold Standards Framework UK) .
- 2. Research, evaluation studies and academic collaborations
- 3. Spiritual and religious support and training

The trustees, who remain the same as last year, continue to explore how to support resource-poor countries particularly in Africa provide better care for people nearing the end of their lives. This builds upon the expertise and experience in this area of the UK's Gold Standards Framework Centre (GSF) in End of Life care, from its founder and Chairman Professor Keri Thomas OBE, seeking ways that this work, resources, energy and experience can be applied and adapted for work within the context of resource poor countries.

The objective of this work in enabling 'gold standard' care for people nearing the end of life is broadly focussed on enabling and supporting generalists caring for people in any setting whilst working closely with palliative care specialists. The GSF training and resources aim to support frontline care providers to give better care for people in the last phase of life, to reduce the burden of care on over-pressed hospitals and enable a better experience of care and quality of life and quality of dying for those nearing the end of life.

We work closely with those involved in palliative care in Africa, notably the African Palliative Care Association (APCA), based in Kampala, Uganda, their Executive Director Dr Emmanuel Luyrika, Dr Christian Ntimizira, Executive Director of The Center of Research on End of Life Care, based in Kigali, Rwanda, through the APCA International Conference and webinar series, and others involved in palliative care there to map out potential collaborations and pilots in several African countries and possible development of a Palliative/Supportive care register of identified patients in one area that could lead to spread then in other African countries. Prof Keri Thomas received an invitation to speak at the APCA International Conference due in Aug 22, and there were discussions of offering small grants for early pilots, called 'Planning Early, Going for Gold' pilots, working with interested palliative care leads. This would continue in 2022-3 onwards, with further details, application forms and supported training workshops on line.

In July 2020, the charity received £70k from the asset lock of the UK's GSF Centre CIC, when it moved to become a subsidiary of Hospice UK.

The charity has now developed a very comprehensive website www.gsfindernational.org.uk, through which examples from the UK, from Africa and from other countries can be shared, with access to training resources and the GSF Virtual Learning Zone. This will be the platform for further communication and development going forward. There is a description of the origin, history and purpose of the charity, see

The trustees, who remain the same as last year, continue to explore how the expertise developed within the UK by The Gold Standards Framework CIC and its founder and Chairman Professor Keri Thomas OBE can be applied within the context of resource poor and primarily African countries. Monthly discussions with The African Palliative Care Association, based in Kampala, Uganda, and their Executive Director Dr Emmanuel Luyrika were undertaken , to map out potential collaborations and pilots in several African countries. This has now led to negotiations with Dr Christian Ntimizira, Executive Director of The Center of Research on End of Life Care, based in Kigali, Rwanda. The aim of these discussions is to develop a pilot project in Rwanda in 2022, of which the first step would be to develop a Palliative/Supportive care register of identified patients in Rwanda (and then in other African countries).

In July 2020 , the charity received £70k from the asset lock of the UK's GSF Centre CIC , when it moved to become a subsidiary of Hospice UK.
