Section C Objectives and activities

Summary of the objects of the charity set out in its governing document

In accordance with the Christian principles referred to in the Statement of Faith and with a commitment to theological reflection, the Object of the CIO is to advance the education of the public in the conservation, protection and improvement of the physical and natural environment.

Summary of the main activities undertaken for the public benefit in relation to these objects (include within this section the statutory declaration that trustees have had regard to the guidance issued by the Charity Commission on public benefit)

This year has been spent developing resources and teaching Christian groups in order to advance the education of the public in conservation, protection and improvement of the physical and natural environment.

We have done this by:

- Working closely with a small number of churches in creation care implementation
- Teaching at various churches across the South West
- Planning and teaching a course for ordinands at Trinity Theological College
- Planning and delivering our largest open educational event yet (which then happened in June 2024)
- Developing our Cactus branding and networking with other groups in order to expand the reach of our work
- Being involved with and speaking at two Harvest Festivals in Devon
- Planning three 20-minute 'Food and Faith' educational videos.

All these activities above have been focused on fulfilling our charitable objectives.

Additional details of objectives and activities (Optional information)

You may choose to include further statements, where relevant, about:

- policy on grantmaking;
- policy programme related investment;
- contribution made by volunteers.

Given the many areas we have been investing in this past year with our Cactus work, it has become clear that we need to put more time into fundraising for the charity's work to develop and thrive. We have, thus far, been relying a huge amount on voluntary work, particularly the time and effort of the two founders, Pip and Will Campbell-Clause.

In view of this, and in light of the positive feedback and demand for the educational events we are offering, we plan to try and raise money to pay a part-time Project Manager and Educator. We very much hope we will be able to secure funding for this role, as the positive educational impact is likely to be significant and far reaching.

We would like this Project Manager and Educator to plan, deliver and monitor a series of education events over the next two years, aimed at encouraging, inspiring and shaping the church in caring better for creation and caring better for our neighbours.

Section D

Achievements and performance

Summary of the main achievements of the charity during the year

Many people (between 400-500) have been engaged through the courses, events and teaching we have delivered this past year through Cactus. We have been able to measure this as we received excellent feedback from participants.

We are being invited to speak at churches more regularly and there is an appetite for more of the events we have out on – particularly events similar to the large ‘Taste and See’ day we organised at Windout Farm in Devon in June. This consisted of three main teaching sessions, a panel discussion, group discussions and a feast of local produce, accompanied by a lunch time concert with songs that helped to illuminate the event themes.

The Harvest Festivals we spoke at were also received very well, with churches requesting us to journey alongside more intentionally them in implementing the creation care actions. There is a need for more pastoral support for churches to grow in this area and we hope to be able to offer more support to church communities who are wanting to engage deeply with this part of Christian discipleship.

The ‘Sustaining the World’ course we delivered at Trinity College Bristol was also well received. Students engaged deeply and the feedback was very positive. Some of the theology students requested field trips to farms to enable them to reflect theologically on farming and eating practices, as well as the just distribution of food to the hungry. We hope to be able to offer onsite visits and learning for theology student groups like this.

Another area we have been working on is developing video resources to serve church groups. We have been planning three videos, each approximately 20-minutes in length, that churches can engage with in their communities. We hope that the reach of these videos will be far and wide and make a significant impact.

We have also been working on our branding and our website, so that we can appeal to a wider variety of people and hopefully engage more of the public with these important Christian discipleship themes. This will hopefully broaden the reach of the charitable work, and seems to be effective, since we are now receiving enquiries from further afield.

You may choose to include additional information, where relevant about:

- the charity's principal sources of funds (including any fundraising);
- how expenditure has supported the key objectives of the charity;
- investment policy and objectives including any ethical investment policy adopted.

The main source of income has been through specific grants and by individuals giving to the charity this year. We received a grant from Posbury Trust to support the event we delivered in June 2024 and we received a grant from Jerusalem Trust to support us to create some short teaching videos to be used by interested groups.

Summary of the main activities undertaken for the public benefit in relation to these objects (include within this section the statutory declaration that trustees have had regard to the guidance issued by the Charity Commission on public benefit)

This year was largely spent developing resources to advance the education of the public in conservation, protection and improvement of the physical and natural environment, linking with local churches, and planning our largest open event yet (which then happened in June 2024) to fulfil our objects.

Our project coordinator also spent time planning a course for ordinands in training which then took place in April 2024.

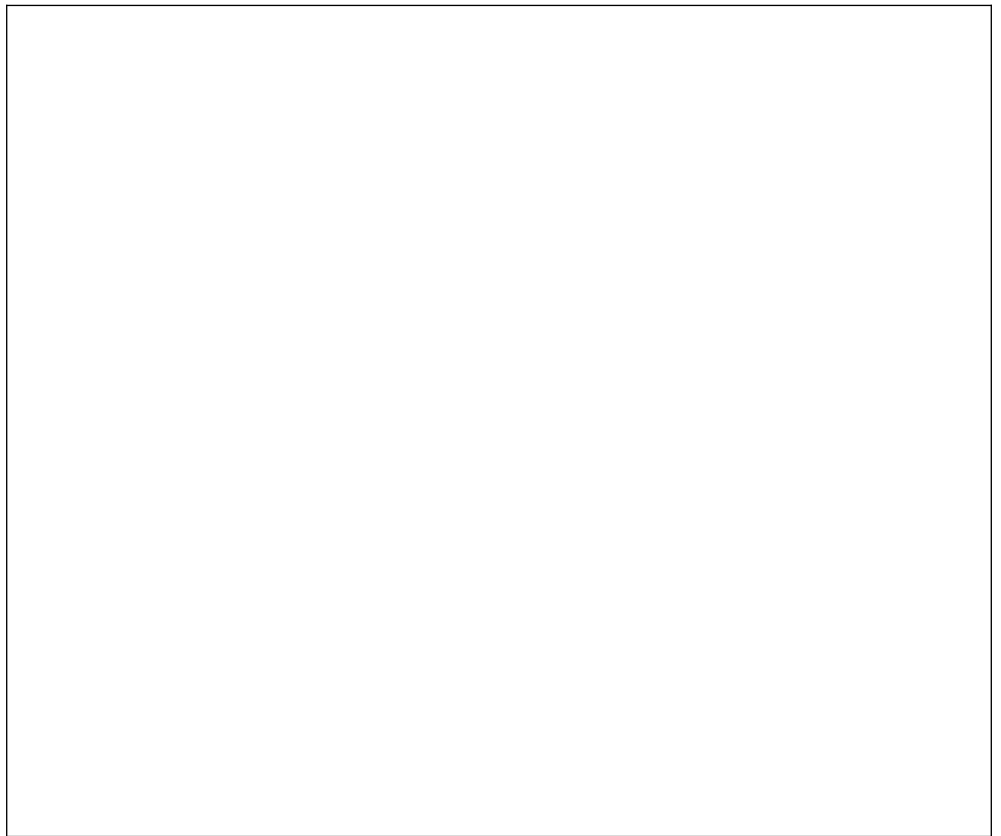

During the year we also engaged with church groups, and other groups with the teaching materials we have produced.

The charity's website and branding was commissioned in August 2023 to provide information on and advertise our work to others. This has led to further engagement with our work and more opportunities to teach using the resources we have developed.

Summary of the main achievements of the charity during the year

Many people were engaged through the courses and events we delivered. We received excellent feedback from participants.

The bulk of the year was spent planning and developing resources to be delivered outside of this annual reporting period, so the impacts of these events will be noted in next years Annual Report.

The website was clearly a good step to have achieved as it has widened the reach of the charitable work, with enquiries now coming in from further afield.

Summary of the objects of the charity set out in its governing document

In accordance with the Christian principles referred to in the Statement of Faith and with a commitment to theological reflection, the Object of the CIO is to advance the education of the public in the conservation, protection and improvement of the physical and natural environment.

Summary of the main activities undertaken for the public benefit in relation to these objects (include within this section the statutory declaration that trustees have had regard to the guidance issued by the Charity Commission on public benefit)

The main events in this year involved our work with Mullers School of Practical Theology (SPT). In May 2022 we hosted a group of students at Jubilee House in Bristol to explore biblical teachings on creation care, food and farming, and to encourage practical action in these areas. During the latter part of 2022 and up to March 2023, our project coordinator completed a 12 part online series for Mullers SPT, titled "Creation, Agriculture and Technology". This series will be used by the students to deepen their understanding of the ecological impacts of food production, and to encourage the protection of the natural world, in the ways we eat, farm and use technology. It also provides the basis for other online resources we can produce in the future.

Our project coordinator, also took on the role of convener for a course for ordinands in training. Sadly this course had to be cancelled that year, but the work done in preparation will be helpful for when she convenes the course again in future.

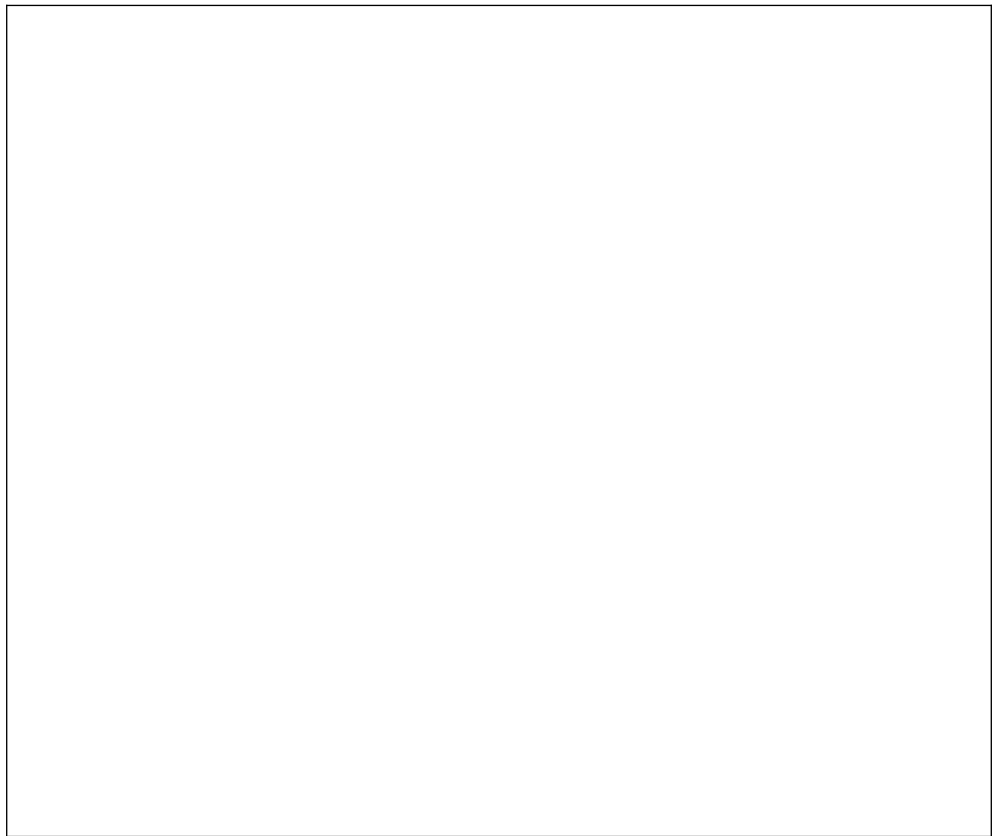

We also engaged with church groups, and other groups with the teaching materials we have produced.

Finally we also began the process of setting up a website to advertise our work to others.

Many people were engaged through the courses and events we delivered, and the 12 part online sessions provided students with a greater depth and scope for understanding and action. We received excellent feedback from the participants.

The promotion of the project coordinator to role of convening courses for ordinands will also help to increase the impact of the work of the charity.

Section C Objectives and activities

Summary of the objects of the charity set out in its governing document

In accordance with the Christian principles referred to in the Statement of Faith and with a commitment to theological reflection, the Object of the CIO is to advance the education of the public in the conservation, protection and improvement of the physical and natural environment.

Summary of the main activities undertaken for the public benefit in relation to these objects (include within this section the statutory declaration that trustees have had regard to the guidance issued by the Charity Commission on public benefit)

Thanks to a large one-off gift and some regular monthly giving we were able to apply much more time to the development of course materials in this time period. Due to the on going impact of Covid19 some of these continued to be held online, but we were able to meet in person for some of the courses too.

We contributed to an online conference about ecology and church matters, we delivered some workshops online for various church groups across the country, and also hosted a group of ordinands on a farm in Somerset to explore the teaching on food and faith.

All in all we engaged with close to 300 people through these events and courses.

You may choose to include further statements, where relevant, about:

- policy on grantmaking;
- policy programme related investment;
- contribution made by volunteers.

Section D

Achievements and performance

Summary of the main achievements of the charity during the year

About 300 people engaged through the courses and events we delivered. We received excellent feedback from the participants.

We also further developed the material for the courses and look forward to increasing them again as time allows in the coming year.

Summary of the objects of the charity set out in its governing document

In accordance with the Christian principles referred to in the Statement of Faith and with a commitment to theological reflection, the Object of the CIO is to advance the education of the public in the conservation, protection and improvement of the physical and natural environment.

Summary of the main activities undertaken for the public benefit in relation to these objects (include within this section the statutory declaration that trustees have had regard to the guidance issued by the Charity Commission on public benefit)

Due to the impact of Covid19 the CIO had only a few events aimed at meeting our objectives again this year. These were held online:

We delivered courses on theology and sustainability with Trinity College, and other groups of interested students. The courses were online presentations.
