Section B Structure, governance and management

Description of the charity's trusts

Type of governing document (eg. trust deed, constitution)	Constitution
How the charity is constituted (eg. trust, association, company)	Charity
Trustee selection methods (eg. appointed by, elected by)	Trustees are selected by a resolution passed at a special meeting of the existing trustees. When choosing new trustees, the current trustees must consider the skills, knowledge, and experience needed to run the charity effectively. Charity trustees hold a vital role in ensuring an organisation fulfils its purpose and serves its beneficiaries effectively. They are responsible for the overall governance and strategic direction of the charity, making sure it operates legally and in line with its founding principles. A key part of this involves safeguarding the charity's assets and resources, managing risks, and maintaining financial stability. Ultimately, trustees must act in the best interests of the charity, a duty that requires careful consideration and a commitment to its mission.

Additional governance issues (Optional information)

You may choose to include additional information, where relevant, about:

- policies and procedures adopted for the induction and training of trustees;
- the charity's organisational structure and any wider network with which the charity works;
- relationship with any related parties;
- trustees' consideration of major risks and the system and procedures to manage them.

The charity ensures the effective induction and training of new trustees through a formal process that includes providing a welcome pack with all essential governance and financial documents. Regular training sessions are also provided on topics such as charity law, fundraising, and safeguarding to ensure the board remains knowledgeable.

The charity's organisational structure is designed to support clear governance and management. The board of trustees oversees a small team of paid staff and volunteers, and specific sub-committees may be established for areas like finance and projects. The charity also works collaboratively within a wider network, partnering with other local and national community groups to enhance its services.

To maintain transparency and prevent conflicts of interest, all trustees and key staff are required to disclose any related party relationships. A formal register of interests is maintained, and anyone with a declared conflict must recuse themselves from relevant discussions and decisions.

Finally, the trustees actively manage major risks through a comprehensive risk register that is reviewed annually. Key risks, including financial and safeguarding issues, are identified, and specific procedures are in place to mitigate them. This ensures the charity can continue its work effectively while safeguarding its assets and reputation.

Section C

Objectives and activities

Summary of the objects of the charity set out in its governing document

The charity aims to:

1. Promote the Islamic faith – mainly for young people (ages 3 to 25) in Lancashire, based on the teachings of the Holy Quran.
2. Support education – helping those young people build skills and grow into responsible, independent adults.
3. Offer recreational activities – for people in need (due to age, health, ability, or social/economic reasons) to improve their quality of life.
4. Relieve poverty, illness, and distress – both in the UK and abroad.

The charity must only carry out activities that are legally recognised as charitable.

Summary of the main activities undertaken for the public benefit in relation to these objects (include within this section the statutory declaration that trustees have had regard to the guidance issued by the Charity Commission on public benefit)

The charity undertakes a wide range of activities to fulfil its charitable aims. The trustees believe these activities benefit both those who attend the mosque and the wider community in Pendle and surrounding areas.

These activities include the provision of congregational prayers, including Jumu'ah (Friday) prayers, Eid prayers, funeral prayers, as well as Nikah (marriage) and funeral services.

The charity also runs regular Islamic educational sessions and organises holiday clubs for young people to engage in positive, active learning and recreational activities.

The primary objective of the charity is to promote and spread the knowledge of Islam (Deen) by providing accessible religious and moral education to both the Muslim community and the wider public. In doing so, the charity aims to foster peace, mutual respect, and social cohesion among all communities.

Additional details of objectives and activities (Optional information)

You may choose to include further statements, where relevant, about:

- Policy on grantmaking.
- Policy programme related investment.
- Contribution made by volunteers.

Volunteers play a vital role in supporting the charity's activities and the smooth running of the Madrasah and Masjid. Their contributions include:

- Assisting with the day-to-day operations of the Madrasah and Masjid.
- Helping with the cleaning and general maintenance of the premises.
- Designing and distributing leaflets and posters to promote local events, talks, and community initiatives.
- Managing and updating the Masjid's social media platforms, such as Facebook and Instagram, to help engage the community and share important information.

Section D

Achievements and performance

Summary of the main achievements of the charity during the year

During the year, the trustees of Naik Trust have made significant progress in strengthening community engagement and supporting wider social initiatives. We have actively facilitated the use of the Madrasah and Mosque building as a community hub, allowing various local organisations and charities — including DWP and One Voice — to deliver services, events, and outreach programs, careers fair that benefit the local community.

In addition, we have introduced holiday clubs to provide young people with safe, structured, and engaging activities during school holidays. These clubs have played an important role in supporting families, promoting positive learning, and keeping children actively involved in their community.

The trustees remain committed to building strong relationships with local partners and ensuring that our facilities continue to serve both the religious and social needs of the wider community.

Section E

Financial review

Brief statement of the charity's policy on reserves

The free reserves are held to secure the long-term financial security of the charity.

The trustees consider that this level of reserves is required to enable the charity to fulfil its obligations and commitments.

Details of any funds materially in deficit

Further financial review details (Optional information)

You may choose to include additional information, where relevant about:

- the charity's principal sources of funds (including any fundraising);
- how expenditure has supported the key objectives of the charity;
- investment policy and objectives including any ethical investment policy adopted.

Naik Trust's income is primarily generated through a combination of the following sources:

- Monthly tuition contributions from students attending the Madrasah.
- Annual membership donations, which support the general upkeep and running costs of the organisation.
- Voluntary contributions from members of the local community.
- Support from local businesses, who regularly contribute towards the Trust's charitable activities.
- Weekly collections, particularly during Friday congregational prayers, which provide a consistent stream of donations.

These income streams have allowed the Trust to continue delivering its core services, support community initiatives, and maintain the running of the mosque and educational facilities.

Section FOther optional information

The charity has now evolved with a renewed focus on healthy active lifestyle as a core priority. Recognising the importance of nurturing both the minds and well-being of young people, we are committed to expanding our Islamic and community education programmes, while also creating more opportunities for physical activity and personal development.

As part of this vision, we aim to invest in resources, facilities, and programmes that will help keep children active, engaged, and connected to positive environment, both inside and outside the classroom. This includes plans for structured holiday clubs, recreational activities, and educational workshops designed to support the physical, mental, and spiritual growth of our youth.
