- relationship with any related parties;
- trustees' consideration of major risks and the system and procedures to manage them.

Section C Objectives and activities

Summary of the objects of the charity set out in its governing document

To relieve and preserve and protect good health in any part of the world for the benefit of the public by:

1. providing the means to improve water supplies particularly but not exclusively by promoting the use of hypochlorous acid (HOCl) and
2. educating the public in standards of hygiene and in particular as to the use of HOCl and any other means of controlling water-borne diseases and environmental contamination.

Summary of the main activities undertaken for the public benefit in relation to these objects (include within this section the statutory declaration that trustees have had regard to the guidance issued by the Charity Commission on public benefit)

The Trustees have throughout have had regard to the guidance issued by the Charity Commission on public benefit.

The HOCl Trust is dedicated to the furtherance of the very considerable benefits in the application of HOCl technology to a diverse range of health issues.

The HOCl Trust provides balanced, independent, high quality information on the use and benefits of HOCl in health care through our expanding web site, which is open to the public, irrespective of geographical location or any other criteria of individuals.

Resources on the web site include

- independent authoritative information on HOCl and its properties
- access to summarised academic and other relevant scientific publications
- use of a “forum” to discuss and debate relevant issues associated with HOCl and its use
- supply of HOCl generating tablets
- a “blog” on current news and technical developments

Additional details of objectives and activities (Optional information)

You may choose to include further statements, where relevant, about:

- policy on grantmaking;
- policy programme related investment;
- contribution made by volunteers.

Summary of the main achievements of the charity during the year

The emergency measure of HOCl tablet supply to health workers continued but became less intensive demand subsided following the reduction in Covid virus prevalence. The trust decided to sell our remaining stock of HOCl generating tablets to provide an income stream, and this has had some success.

The revision and development of the Trust's website, initiated in 2022, continues. In order to clarify and more effectively define and communicate the ambitions of the Trust, time was spent developing new mission statements. The trust is now working to make a clearer statement in our public facing profile through our website.

The Trust changed the site's host service in 2022 and embarked on a re-design of its appearance and content. An additional web site resource was added by the provision of a "forum" which facilitates a dialogue between the Trust and interested parties on the science, use, action and applications of hypochlorous acid. The change and upgrade in web site resources has been successful and gives us enhanced interaction with both individuals and groups.

A change of banking provider was also initiated, with the intention of making more efficient use of the Trust's financial resources, and to more effectively harmonise funding with new website content and operation. The Trust continues to hold weekly management meetings throughout the year via Zoom communication. These have proven to be most effective in the management of the Charity. A short break in the schedule was made at the time of the Trust Founder's (Charles Cocking) death in August. The Trust remains firmly committed to his vision.

The first of what the Trust hopes will be a series of interviews with leading scientific voices was conducted. Further such interviews with HOCl Trust supporters and users is currently being planned to add as informative videos to our web site resources.

The Trust continues to develop and maintain its status as an independent science based source of information on HOCl, and looks forward to further developments in the coming year.

Section E Financial review

Brief statement of the charity's policy on reserves

The Trust aims to maintain sufficient reserves to run our web site and to sustain its further development.

Details of any funds materially in deficit

No funds are in deficit.

Further financial review details (Optional information)

You may choose to include additional information, where relevant about:

- the charity's principal sources of funds (including any fundraising);
- how expenditure has supported the key objectives of the charity;
- investment policy and objectives including any ethical investment policy adopted.

Our principal source of funds is public donations.

Sufficient income has been raised to sustain activity as described in our mission statement (described as objects in our constitution).

The Trust has no formal policy on investments.
