The John Smith Trust

Trustees' report for the year ended 30 September 2023

The trustees are pleased to present their annual report together with the financial statements of the charity for the year ended 30 September 2023.

The accounts have been prepared in accordance with the accounting policies set out in note 1 to the accounts and comply with the Charity's Memorandum and Articles of Association, the Companies Act 2006 and the Statement of Recommended Practice 'Accounting and Reporting by Charities' (revised 2015).

Structure, Governance and Management

Governing Document

The John Smith Trust is a charitable company limited by guarantee, incorporated on 15 June 2010 and registered as a charity on 29 September 2017. The company is governed by its Memorandum and Articles of Association.

Organisational Structure

The directors of the charitable company are its trustees for the purpose of charity law and the members of the company limited by guarantee. Throughout this report they are collectively referred to as the trustees.

The following individuals served as trustees during the year and since the year end:

The Rt Hon. Lord Alderdice
David Charters
Baron Duncan of Springbank
Stephen Gethins
Alex Just
Craig Oliphant
Baroness Smith of Gilmorehill
The Hon. Catherine Smith
Baroness Suttie (appointed 10 May 2023)

All trustees served for the full period unless otherwise stated above.

No trustees had any beneficial interest in the charity and no remuneration of trustees is paid by the charity.

The Board of Trustees is responsible for the strategic direction, policy and overall governance of the charity.

The implementation of strategy once agreed and the day to day running and management of the charity's activities is delegated to the secretariat, led by the Director.

The charitable company started trading on 24 October 2016. Prior to this, the Trust's fellowship programmes were delivered through an unincorporated charitable trust (The John Smith Trust constituted as a charitable trust under English law on 27 August 1996 and registered with the Charity Commission as charity number 1057885). After a period of in-activity the Trustees decided to re-constitute the charity's governance arrangements incorporating as a charitable company limited by guarantee. The directors of the charitable company were also the Trustees of the pre-existing charitable trust, until that trust was formally dissolved on 20 February 2019.

Recruitment and appointment of new trustees

New Trustees are recruited by the Board who consider the skills currently available and then identify the requirements of any additional or replacement trustee. Potential trustees are invited to preliminary discussions with at least two current trustees and the Director. On successful appointment of a trustee, the Director provides documentary and verbal induction material to introduce the trustee to the workings and objectives of the charity.

Objectives and principal activities

The Trust works to advance the education of the public in political sciences, in particular in relation to democratic systems of government and the rule of law.

The John Smith Trust

Trustees' report for the year ended 30 September 2023

In furtherance of its charitable objectives, the Trust carries out a range of activities which are summarised below.

Activities and Achievements

The John Smith Trust contributes to the development of sustainable, fair and inclusive societies in Eastern Europe, Russia, the South Caucasus and Central Asia. Through our fellowship programmes and network activities, we inspire and nurture a collaborative community of leaders and change-makers working on governance, social justice and climate action to improve the well-being of their societies.

Through its fellowship programmes the Trust has developed a highly successful model for building leadership capacity and a network where good governance and public service are key values. Candidates are only selected if they have demonstrated that they have the ability or are in positions where there is the potential for them to effect change through the implementation of year-long action plans/projects. This is assessed by examining the type of organisation within which they work (and its commitment to the public good), their ability to influence change within that organisation or across society more broadly and their openness to reflect on new ideas and benefit from the fellowship.

The traditional John Smith fellowship involves a year-long engagement with a four week UK based residential programme at its heart. This offers participants the chance to explore collectively and individually how politics, business, public administration and culture work (or fail) in another national environment. UK experience is a major focus yet many of the speakers (who represent all sectors of UK society) have international expertise. Crucially, each of the participants submits an Action plan – or project – which they have the chance to develop and explore during their 4 weeks in the UK. These plans are then implemented on their return. The majority of plans have a direct relevance to helping build rules-based, people-focused policy and practices.

Until 2011 the programme drew its fellows exclusively from the former Soviet Union (FSU). From 2012-2015 the Trust also worked in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region on a programme funded by the UK Government's Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO/FCDO). From 2017 to 2019, the Trust ran two annual fellowship programmes for 12 FSU countries with the support of the FCO: one for 25 fellows from Wider Europe (Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Georgia, Moldova, Russia and Ukraine); and one for 25 fellows from Central Asia (Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, and Uzbekistan).

This steady stream of approximately 50 new fellows per year reinvigorated the Trust's Alumni network. Since 2018, the Trust has also launched a programme of alumni events to harness and develop this renewed engagement. 'Alumni Ideas Exchange' events took place in Tbilisi in 2018, Bishkek in 2019 and (although originally planned to take place in Kyiv) online in March 2020. JST has put great effort into building the means for its Alumni network to connect, share and collaborate outside formal events. The intention has been to allow for greater connectivity between JST fellows, staff and the JST's wider network of supporters, to increase JST's 'offer' to its fellows and to allow JST to sustain its work and impact outside of programme periods.

During the 2020-2021 pandemic, the Trust focused its efforts solely on developing an online community of programme alumni in the FSU region by offering webinars with UK experts, practical thematic online discussions and informal networking opportunities. Through the JST's online network activities, fellows were able to access practical support, share skills, ideas and knowledge and exchange reliable information across the FSU region and the UK. The network proved an effective platform for support and communication during the early months of the pandemic and was put to good use during further crises and instability in the region. The connections built online over the last couple of years have enabled the Trust to re-establish contact with many of its past programme participants and provided a solid foundation for collaboration and joint projects addressing governance, rule of law and social justice challenges in the region.

In the post-pandemic period 2021-22, the Trust built upon these achievements further through online and face-to-face engagement, including by supporting smaller-scale alumni ideas exchange events proposed by groups of fellows, with the intention of creating new opportunities for network activities and collaborative online community-building being incorporated into future residential fellowship programmes. These were anticipated to commence in 2022. However, these plans were disrupted by Russia's full-scale invasion of Ukraine and the consequent re-direction of FCDO resources in support of Ukraine. Instead, the Trust implemented several in-person activities to develop its network further, including building on its existing Ideas Exchange format by bringing programme alumni back to the UK.

During the period under review, the Trust was finally able to re-launch its traditional regional Fellowship Programme with certain adaptations in format and participant numbers which reflect the reduced level of funding available from the FCDO. A hybrid programme was developed and implementation commenced during the reporting period with lessons learned from online activities developed during the pandemic, incorporating alumni community network building into the programme and responding to the tensions within the geopolitical context. The re-launched programme received a record number of applicants from target countries and a high level of interest from UK stakeholders.

As discussed under Organisational Structure above this is the sixth period of trading for the charitable company having replaced a pre-existing charitable trust of the same name. The decision to incorporate the Trust followed a period of uncertainty that saw the charitable trust close its office and release its staff team in response to a lull in funding. Subsequent programmes were managed initially by Trustees supported by a team of freelance staff, in 2018 the Trust started to re-build a core team of employed staff and this trajectory has continued in the current reporting period. The Trust now has five permanent staff. The Trustees remain acutely aware of the funding risks faced by the new charitable company, especially as the charity only has short-term project-based funding from one donor, but wish to balance that risk with commitment to the staff team.

Public Benefit

The Trust carries out a range of activities in furtherance of its charitable objectives, as detailed under Activities and Achievements above. Having reviewed the Charity Commission's general guidance on public benefit, the Trustees consider that these activities provide benefit both to the charity's direct beneficiaries, the John Smith fellows, and to the wider public both in the UK and abroad.

Risk Management

The Trustees regularly review the risks the charity faces and are satisfied that systems are in place to mitigate their exposure to the major risks.

Future Plans

Trustees held a strategic planning meeting in February 2023 to review the organisational strategy in light of geopolitical developments and agreed to focus on the following:

- Relaunch of updated and adapted residential fellowship programmes for the post-pandemic world, which incorporates the learning and opportunities opened up by our online alumni community-building activities and reflects the changing global context, including increased polarization, populism and instability as well as the climate emergency.
- Further development of opportunities for the Trust's network of senior leaders to connect and collaborate with each other as well as their counterparts in the UK on issues of mutual importance.
- Exploration of a strategic partnership with one or more prestigious universities.
- Diversification of income sources.

Financial review

In financial terms this was another challenging but ultimately successful year for the charity. The charity's income grew significantly in year up 48% to £368k (2022, £249k). This followed 4 years of decline and stagnation due to factors including the effect of the covid-19 pandemic on the charity's operating model and the fact our main donor FCO/FCDO underwent structural changes and budget cuts. The trustees remain cautiously optimistic that the new department, FCDO, will eventually provide long-term funding of our flagship fellowship programme although for now support remains short term and project-based. At the same time expenditure also increased by £125k / 55% to £351k (2022, £226k) with the main driver of increased costs the Oxford Ideas Exchange in March 2023, a welcome return to UK events featuring fellows from across the Eastern Europe and Central Asia region albeit on a smaller scale than previous years. Overall, the charity enjoyed a small surplus of £17k in year, slightly down on the previous year's £22k.

The John Smith Trust

Trustees' report for the year ended 30 September 2023

We expect a similar situation in the immediate future. Building on the income increase in the year under review we expect a further increase in the year ahead, and new funding for the government financial year starting April 2024 to March 2025 has been verbally agreed at a level sufficient to sustain the hybrid delivery model developed in recent years. In response to this the Trustees are looking to develop new leadership programmes building on our FSU geographical specialism to broaden the appeal of the trust and draw in support from other potential donors.

Reserves

The charity's income in the period was exclusively short-term project-based funding. To manage the uncertainty this causes, the Trustees' policy is to maintain reserves at a level sufficient to cover at least 6 months of salary and support costs. Based on the spend in these accounts this is equivalent to £97k.

At the balance sheet date, the charity's reserves (which are shown as unrestricted funds in the balance sheet) stood at £133k. The Trustees are pleased to note that after reducing our core spending commitments over recent years reserves are now above the target figure.

Responsibilities of the Trustees in relation to the financial statements

The trustees (who are also the directors of The John Smith Trust for the purposes of company law) are responsible for preparing the Report of the Trustees and the financial statements in accordance with applicable law and United Kingdom Accounting Standards (United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice).

Company law requires the trustees to prepare financial statements for each financial year which give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the charitable company and of the incoming resources and application of resources, including the income and expenditure, of the charitable company for that period. In preparing those financial statements, the trustees are required to:

- select suitable accounting policies and then apply them consistently;
- observe the methods and principles in the Charity SORP;
- make judgements and estimates that are reasonable and prudent; and
- prepare the financial statements on the going concern basis unless it is inappropriate to assume that the Charity will continue in operation.

The trustees are responsible for keeping proper accounting records which disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the charitable company and to enable them to ensure that the financial statements comply with the Companies Act 2006. They are also responsible for safeguarding the assets of the charitable company and hence for taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

In so far as the trustees are aware:

- there is no relevant audit information of which the charitable company's auditors are unaware; and
- the trustees have taken all steps that they ought to have taken to make themselves aware of any relevant audit information and to establish that the auditors are aware of that information.

I have completed my examination. I confirm that no matters have come to my attention in connection with the examination giving me cause to believe:

1. accounting records were not kept in respect of the Company as required by section 386 of the 2006 Act; or
2. the accounts do not accord with those records; or
3. the accounts do not comply with the accounting requirements of section 396 of the 2006 Act other than any requirement that the accounts give a true and fair view which is not a matter considered as part of an independent examination; or
4. the accounts have not been prepared in accordance with the methods and principles of the Statement of Recommended Practice for accounting and reporting by charities applicable to charities preparing their accounts in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland (FRS 102).

I have no concerns and have come across no other matters in connection with the examination to which attention should be drawn in this report in order to enable a proper understanding of the accounts to be reached.

Notes to the accounts for the year ended 30 September 2023

1 Principal accounting policies

The principal accounting policies adopted in the preparation of the financial statements are set out below;

(a) Basis of accounting

These financial statements have been prepared under the historical cost convention in accordance with the Statement of Recommended Practice 'Accounting and Reporting by Charities' effective January 2019 (the Charities SORP (FRS 102)), UK accounting standards, including 'Financial Reporting Standard 102 The Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland' (FRS 102) and the Companies Act 2006. The charity is a public benefit entity and has therefore applied the relevant public benefit requirements of FRS 102.

The financial statements are prepared in Sterling which is the functional currency of the charity.

(b) Fund accounting

- (i) Unrestricted funds are available for use at the discretion of the trustees in furtherance of the general objectives of the charity.
- (ii) Restricted funds are subject to specific conditions imposed by the donor as to how they may be used. The purposes and uses of the restricted funds are set out in the notes to the accounts.

(c) Income

All income is included in the statement of financial activities when the charity is entitled to it and the amount can be quantified with reasonable accuracy. The following specific policies are applied to particular categories of income.

- (i) Grants and donations are included in full in the Statement of Financial Activities when receivable. Grants, where entitlement is not conditional on the delivery of a specific performance by the charity, are recognised when the charity becomes unconditionally entitled to the grant.
- (ii) Incoming resources from grants, where related to performance and specific deliverables, are accounted for as the charity earns the right to consideration by its performance.
- (iii) Donated services and facilities are included at the value to the charity where this can be quantified.
- (iv) The value of services provided by volunteers has not been included in these accounts.
- (v) Investment income is included when receivable on an accruals basis.

(d) Expenditure

Expenditure is recognised on an accruals basis as a liability is incurred, and includes any VAT which cannot be fully recovered.

- (i) Fundraising costs comprise the costs associated with attracting voluntary income and the costs of trading for fundraising purposes.
- (ii) Charitable expenditure comprises those costs incurred by the charity in the delivery of its activities and services for its beneficiaries. It includes both costs that can be allocated directly to such activities and those costs of an indirect nature necessary to support them.
- (iii) Support costs relate to those functions that assist the work of the charity but do not directly undertake charitable activities. Support costs include back office costs, finance, personnel and governance costs. These costs have been allocated to fund raising and specific areas of charitable activity on a basis consistent with the use of resources.

(e) Tangible fixed assets and depreciation

Tangible fixed assets costing over £500 (including any incidental expenses of acquisition) are capitalized. Depreciation is provided at rates calculated to write off the cost on a straight line basis over their expected useful economic life. The rate of depreciation is 33.33% per annum for all assets.

(f) Foreign currency

Transactions in foreign currencies are initially recorded in the entity's functional currency, which is pound sterling, by applying the spot exchange rate on the date of the transaction.

Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated at the rate of exchange on the balance sheet date. All differences are taken to the statement of financial activities.

EECA

A hybrid fellowship programme designed to nurture a collaborative community of leaders and change-makers working on governance, social justice and climate action across Eastern Europe, the Caucasus and Central Asia (EECA) and the UK. A pilot programme was run between November 2022 and March 2023 with funding from the FCDO and toward the end of the year a further round of funding from the FCDO was confirmed.

Wider Europe & Central Asia Programme

A fellowship programme featuring fellows from 12 FSU countries (7 in Europe and 5 in the Central Asia region). The programme ran as a traditional fellowship from October 2016 to March 2020 with funding and logistic support from the FCO. After a hiatus due to Covid the programme restarted in June 2021 initially adopting an online format developed as part of the Covid response project.
