- trustees' consideration of major risks and the system and procedures to manage them.

Trustees are appointed to represent key professional constituencies relevant to the Society's mission. At the end of the year there were six Trustees (five in England, one in Scotland) drawn from academia, voluntary and public sector practice and research, and the non-profit sector. All are aware of and have read the guidance documents prepared by the Charity Commission (and bodies such as NCVO) on good governance and best practice for charity trustees. The Board works to and is guided by our Constitution, alongside a more detailed Terms of Reference document (available on-line). It meets online approximately every six weeks, when a brief up to date financial report is presented and financial matters are discussed and if necessary approved by Resolution. Full minutes are taken and approved and archived after each meeting. In addition the Board meet in person once annually at a full day meeting. The Board have developed and adopted written policies regarding GDPR and Safeguarding, in addition to other policies reflecting our specific mission. These are available on our website, www.ukimplementation.org.uk

Summary of the objects of the charity set out in its governing document

The advancement of the science and practice of implementation for the public benefit, by

- championing and promoting knowledge about the importance of high quality implementation for improving outcomes from services;
- building understanding of effective implementation by collating, developing and disseminating knowledge resources on implementation science, practice and policy;
- building capacity and skills by supporting, organising and hosting learning, training and education on implementation;
- establishing mechanisms, structures and networks that facilitate connections and share learning between those working in the field;
- supporting the development of the evidence base on effective implementation of services to people;

and

- supporting the mobilisation and application of implementation evidence and knowledge in policy and in practice in other appropriate ways;

where:

- Implementation refers to the process of putting a service, a policy, or a set of practices into application so that it achieves its intended outcomes to provide socially significant benefits to individuals and society;
- Implementation science is the systematic study and testing of implementation processes and innovations in order to increase knowledge about what is effective;

and

- Implementation practice is how we use that knowledge in the design and delivery of services for the public benefit on the ground.

Summary of the main activities undertaken for the public benefit in relation to these objects (include within this section the statutory declaration that trustees have had regard to the guidance issued by the Charity Commission on public benefit)

Declaration: The Trustees of the CIO conform that they have had regard to the Charity Commission's public benefit guidance when exercising any powers or duties to which the guidance is relevant.

Our main activities for the public benefit during this reporting period included:

- Administering a membership process for those individuals who wish to join the Society
- Continued work on a regularly updated website, www.ukimplementation.org.uk which is substantially open access, with news, information and knowledge resources for the public and professional audiences with an interest in implementation science across multiple sectors
- Publishing a regular bulletin for members and others with up to date news and information on implementation and improvement science-related topics in the UK and overseas
- A series of hosted 'Journal Club' on-line discussions related to published academic papers in implementation science and practice free of charge and open to members and invited guests.
- As part of Implementation Week 2021, the Society held two online events for members and non-members, one of which was in the form of a debate around the current state of the field.

Additional details of objectives and activities (Optional information)

You may choose to include further statements, where relevant, about:

- policy on grantmaking;
- policy programme related investment;
- contribution made by volunteers.

Summary of the main achievements of the charity during the year

- Carried out significant updates to our website, www.ukimplementation.org.uk, with news, information and resources for the public and professional audiences with an interest in implementation science across multiple sectors
- Publishing a regular bulletin for members with news and information on implementation and improvement science-related topics (e.g training courses, talks, conferences and other educational events, job, new publications)
- Issued monthly updates (via email) to members informing them of the latest news and information on implementation and improvement science-related topics.
- Hosted bi-monthly 'Journal Club' discussion groups on-line, free to attend, offering members the opportunity to broaden their knowledge and share stimulating discussion on implementation topics. Each meeting focused on a selected article, report or other publication, and all the pieces reflected implementation issues across a selection of topics, sectors, levels of complexity and different perspectives.
- Planned and delivered our third national 'Implementation Week', partnering with a university to support a week of special events (one conference, one masterclass, one seminar, one debate) to raise awareness of the importance of high quality evidence-informed implementation practice for improving outcomes from services to people in the UK.

Section E

Financial review

Brief statement of the charity's policy on reserves

We are a charity without substantial funds and currently we have no formal reserves, and no reserves policy. The Board is looking to develop a formal policy on finances and reserves in the coming financial year.

Details of any funds materially in deficit

None

Further financial review details (Optional information)

You may choose to include additional information, where relevant about:

- the charity's principal sources of funds (including any fundraising);
- how expenditure has supported the key objectives of the charity;
- investment policy and objectives including any ethical investment policy adopted.

There is a modest positive balance in a current account, with regular but modest income from new subscriptions.

Revenues are used to fund administration costs of supporting the membership (one freelance part-time administrator plus expenses and materials); subsidising the costs of learning and networking events for members and to non-members, and developing applications for funding.
