Section C Objectives and activities

Summary of the objects of the charity set out in its governing document

LPHR works on a range of projects with the aim of protecting and promoting Palestinian human rights. We exclusively take a legal and human rights perspective in our work.

Our primary aim is to contribute towards achieving a positive transformation of the urgent and critical human rights situation for Palestinians. We work towards this through a combination of legal advice and support; human rights and international law education and advocacy; research, monitoring and urgent actions on human rights violations; policy engagement; and utilising human rights complaint mechanisms of domestic and international institutions.

Where possible we co-ordinate our work with human rights organisations in the region.

This year, the main activities undertaken for the public benefit in pursuit of the aforementioned objects, were:

- We continued to work on legal accountability in regard to the military attacks in Gaza in 2014. This included currently confidential work in the context of the Office of the Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court recently opened full investigation into the situation in Palestine.
- We continued work pursuant to our comprehensive human rights complaint under the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises against JCB, a world-leading construction equipment company headquartered in Britain, in regard to its apparent involvement in human rights violations against Palestinians in the occupied Palestinian territory. Specifically, this involves the material use of JCB machines in the demolition of Palestinian homes in vulnerable communities, and construction of illegal Israeli settlements, in the occupied West Bank. The UK National Contact Point for the OECD Guidelines completed its further examination in November 2021 and significantly determined that JCB is in breach of specific human rights responsibilities contained within the OECD Guidelines. The UK National Contact Point subsequently issued recommendations to JCB that it should implement within a time-frame of 12 months. The Final Statement of the UK National Contact Point and LPHR's response was covered in the Guardian by its Diplomatic Editor. LPHR has since been engaged in monitoring JCB's compliance with the UK National Contact Point's recommendations for the purpose of providing its own report on JCB's implementation to the UK National Contact Point at the end of 2022.
- We continued our constructive engagement with UK Government officials and parliamentarians on legal and human rights issues affecting Palestinians. We also continued our constructive ongoing collaboration with other UK charities that work on issues affecting the Palestinian people, including Christian Aid and Save the Children.
- We are in the ninth year of our successful LPHR Student Network programme engaging students from London's top law schools and universities.

Summary of the main activities undertaken for the public benefit in relation to these objects (include within this section the statutory declaration that trustees have had regard to the guidance issued by the Charity Commission on public benefit)

Additional details of objectives and activities (Optional information)

You may choose to include further statements, where relevant, about:

- policy on grantmaking;
- policy programme related investment;
- contribution made by volunteers.

Section D Achievements and performance

Summary of the main achievements of the charity during the year

The main achievement of the charity this year has been to continue making progress in all aspects of our work to meet our primary aim of contributing towards achieving a positive transformation of the urgent and critical human rights situation for Palestinians.

Our progress in the last year is outlined below:

Business and Human Rights:

LPHR continued work pursuant to our comprehensive human rights complaint under the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises against JCB, a world-leading construction equipment company headquartered in Britain, in regard to its apparent involvement in human rights violations against Palestinians in the occupied Palestinian territory. Specifically, this involves the material use of JCB machines in the demolition of Palestinian homes in vulnerable communities, and construction of illegal Israeli settlements, in the occupied West Bank.

The UK National Contact Point for the OECD Guidelines completed its further examination in November 2021 and significantly determined that JCB is in breach of specific human rights responsibilities contained within the OECD Guidelines. The UK National Contact Point subsequently issued recommendations to JCB that it should implement within a time-frame of 12 months.

The Final Statement of the UK National Contact Point and LPHR's response was covered in the Guardian by its Diplomatic Editor. LPHR has since been engaged in monitoring JCB's compliance with the UK National Contact Point's recommendations, for the purpose of providing its own report on JCB's implementation to the UK National Contact Point at the end of 2022.

Respecting Children's Rights:

LPHR began substantive work with Save the Children on the critical human rights and child protection issue of the systemic maltreatment of Palestinian children in Israeli military detention.

LPHR continued to publish our bi-monthly Child Rights Bulletin, which aims to document and raise awareness of the serious violations of children's rights that take place in the occupied Palestinian territory and to emphasise the applicability of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child. LPHR gives special thanks to its Student Network for their excellent work supporting the preparation of the bulletins.

Gaza Accountability:

LPHR continued to work on legal accountability in regard to the military attacks in Gaza in 2014. This included currently confidential specific work in the context of the Office of the Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court recently opened full investigation into the situation in Palestine.

As part of LPHR's ongoing public affairs engagement, LPHR's Director has continued to pursue the issue of the need for credible investigations and legal accountability with the Foreign Office, including raising it during meetings with policy officials.

UN Special Rapporteur engagement:

LPHR usefully engaged with the UN Special Rapporteur for the human rights situation in the occupied Palestinian territory, on a range of relevant legal and human rights issues.

Government and Parliamentary engagement:

LPHR continued to focus on building its engagement with government and parliamentarians on key legal and human rights issues affecting Palestinians. This engagement has been constructive in the last year.

LPHR's Student Network:

The ninth year of the LPHR Student Network was very productive. LPHR's Student Network has been instrumental in preparing LPHR's Child Rights Bulletins. LPHR gives special thanks to everyone who participated with the Student Network this year.

LPHR Urgent Actions:

LPHR continued preparing its Urgent Actions addressed to the Foreign Office, with several letters submitted on discrete and serious issues in the last year.

LPHR Human Rights Blog, Legal Q&As, and Briefings:

LPHR continued to publish our educational human rights blog, legal Q&As and briefings, so as to provide accessibly written, evidence-based and legally accurate analysis to the public, parliamentarians and relevant officials on current critical issues.

LPHR Website and Social Media:

LPHR continued to use its website to provide accessibility to our work. We are also active on a daily basis on social media and continue to have a growing following on Twitter, which now exceeds 3,500.

LPHR Membership:

LPHR continued to grow its membership in the last year and we are ever thankful for their vital support.

LPHR Executive Committee:

LPHR Trustees recognise the high quality and dedicated work of its exceptional Executive Committee who are integral to the effective functioning of LPHR's work and activities.
