Summary of the main achievements of the charity during the year

During the year the Board has held seven meetings, some via Zoom and some in person, generally at The Studio in Lathom.

Liaison with churches has continued. A 57fourteen member gave his testimony at an Ormskirk church in October 2022, raising the vision of 57fourteen. The charity is promoting a play, "If prison walls could speak", due to be performed by the Artless Theatre Company at St John's Church, Burscough in October 2023. Churches across the north-west will be invited to attend. This will be an opportunity to relaunch the connection with churches already affiliated to 57fourteen and to make new connections.

Liaison with Junction 42, a Newcastle-based charity with similar aims has continued. 57fourteen members visited Newcastle to see at first-hand how Junction 42 operated. They are in touch with the majority of UK prisons and each year issue over 130,000 "prison packs" containing scriptures, crafts, prayer journal, worship CD, etc. A Zoom meeting was held in September 2022 with its director, John O'Connor, which explored ways in which we might work in partnership together. This included the possibility of setting up a local "Missional Community" for ex-offenders.

Discussions have been held with local prisons, including Risley, Hindley, Thorncross and Liverpool regarding resettlement of ex-offenders in local churches.

Following this, a map of north-west prisons and a strategy document were drawn up showing how this partnership may proceed. It included topics relating to identifying prisons and partnering churches, training, operational manuals, etc.

A meeting was held with Paul Brown, formerly of The Message Trust, who is working in Altcourse Prison. Paul invited us to visit Altcourse and keeps us informed of activities there via WhatsApp.

57Fourteen has previously received several grants to assist in setting up the work. All the grants have been handled as restricted although only the grant from WO Street has restrictions specified, namely, to deliver courses in Prison and to ensure best practice, particularly with regard to safeguarding issues, in supporting those returning from the Criminal Justice System by maximising the proper use of available resources to local faith-based communities. Although it has not been possible to progress these activities, these funds are carefully maintained for this use in future.

There remains a need to appoint a Liaison Officer who might further promote 57fourteen and continue the liaison with partnering organisations.
