

Adbaston Community Concert Society CIO

Charity number 1181880

Report for year ending Dec 2021

Activities - how the charity spends its money

Each year, ACCS puts on four high-standard, usually classical concerts [occasionally jazz] in the mediaeval Adbaston church, which has very good acoustics.

Our aim is to make professional concert level music available in the Staffs/Salop border region at an affordable price of £10: audience around 60 – 80 people, sometimes more. We try to give a platform to regional professionals and to developing talents who will benefit from the exposure and in building their concert CVs.

There are several local patrons and most concerts are subsidised by Stafford District Arts Council and/or others e.g. Manchester Camerata, Keyboard Charitable Trust.

In 2021, there was only one concert due to the Covid pandemic. This was held on Sunday October 3rd, a recital by a pianist from the Keyboard Trust.

Data for financial year ending 31 December 2021:

Total receipts: £2441

Bank transfer incentive £1250

Grant from the Stafford District Arts Council (SDAC) £ 366

Ticket income for the concert mentioned above. £675

Donations for refreshments £150

Total payments: £1404

Church hire £100

Artist's fee £500

Grand piano hire £375

Printing £131

Refreshments £135

Sundries inc, public liability insurance, SDAC membership
£162.80

Cash funds 31.12.2019 £5160

Cash funds 31.12.2020 £5354

Cash funds 31.12.2021 £6392

We maintain this level of reserves as we expect the grants from SDAC will cease to be available in the near future. Our only asset is an upright Yamaha piano, over 10 years old.

4 Trustee(s)

For 2021, the Trustees were as listed currently, plus Duncan Dickson who resigned in August 2021 and Pauline Savage (Treasurer) who resigned as trustee in August 2022. The Trustees then and now are Clive Kerridge (Chair), Roger Savage (Secretary), Dr. Andrew Brooks, Jennifer Muddimer. There were six committee meetings held remotely via Zoom.

Roger Savage,

Secretary