Objectives and Public Benefit

The charity's objects are to advance the Christian faith and to provide charitable support for the public benefit. In pursuing these objects, the charity carries out worship, prayer, discipleship, leadership development, community outreach and practical support activities in the United Kingdom and overseas.

The trustees confirm that they have had due regard to the Charity Commission's general guidance on public benefit when planning and reviewing the charity's activities. The trustees consider that the charity's programmes provide public benefit by offering pastoral support, training, outreach, advice and practical assistance to individuals and communities, including people experiencing hardship or social disadvantage.

Achievements and Performance

During the year, Called to Love carried out a range of activities in the United Kingdom and overseas in furtherance of its charitable objectives. These activities included public worship, faith-based teaching, pastoral support, training, outreach and practical assistance intended to benefit individuals, families and local communities.

- Sunday Services: Held weekly three-hour services across the charity's venues for preaching, worship and prayer. These services were open to the public and were supported by a range of volunteer teams, including worship, hospitality, ushering, security, pastoral care and church leadership.
- Men of Valour: Organised regular meetings and wider events to support men in their roles within families, the church and the wider community. Topics covered during the year included health, family life, finances, careers and service within the church.
- Women of Valour: Delivered regular activities, including regional and national conferences, aimed at supporting women through teaching, prayer and fellowship. Topics included parenting, health and social care, family life, faith and community participation. Weekly Thursday prayer meetings were also held for women, including prayer for children and families.
- Youth Ministry: Held regular meetings for young people and young adults to support faith development, personal growth and positive engagement in family, church and community life. Young people also participated in wider events and supported church outreach through volunteering and children's ministry activities.
- Children's Ministry: Provided Sunday classes for children, supporting faith development through age-appropriate teaching and activities. Children also took part in regional and national programmes, including music activities and opportunities to learn musical instruments.

The trustees are grateful to the Church Board, departmental leaders and volunteers for their contribution to the delivery of the charity's activities during the year.
