Structure, governance and management

- This is the fourth annual report for the Charitable Incorporated Organisation Re-Alliance, which registered with the Charity Commission on 6th April 2020.
- Our governing document was adopted on 30.09.19 and is a Constitution of a Charitable Incorporated Organisation. Re-Alliance has a small but stable governance of five directors (listed previously) supported by four staff members who work on a part-time basis. Re-Alliance initially formed as an informal network of humanitarian and development practitioners united by a focus on regenerative practices. Invitations were made within the network for directors and four individuals with a broad range of experience stepped up to fill the roles and were formally appointed on 30th September 2019 in accordance with section 13 of our constitution. In December 2022, Geoff O'Donoghue joined the team as our 5th Director and in August 2024 Gideon Adeyeni joined as our 6th trustee.
- Our directors come from employment backgrounds of academia, education, regenerative business and large INGOs and some have voluntary experience in charity governance and development. Our directors invested and demonstrated their skills during the establishment and growth of the organisation including initial meetings, fundraising and pursuit of charity status and recruitment of freelance staff. We have grown our original group of four directors to six, to increase the capacity of the team and ensure a diverse skill-set is represented.
- While the directors oversee the strategic direction of Re-Alliance, day-to-day responsibilities are delegated to our Coordinator and three Managers, who we refer to as the 'core team'. Financial administration is managed by the core team with all revenue and expenditure inspected and approved quarterly at directors' meetings. Our treasurer has banking access and inspects bank statements as they are made available. With the exception of one member of staff, the core team and directors have been involved with the organisation since its inception, are deeply motivated to pursue its aims and have overseen the establishment and approval of its constitution, policies and practices, ensuring that there is a thorough shared understanding of its governance and purposes.

Financial review

At the end of the period the charity held total funds of £127,123 These break down as:

Unrestricted: £35,753 Restricted: £91,370

At the close of the financial year, Re-Alliance maintained free unrestricted reserves of £30,000, equivalent to 6 months' running costs. Re-Alliance holds these reserves:

- to provide a level of working capital that protects the continuity of our core work
- to provide a level of funding for unexpected opportunities
- to provide cover for risks such as unforeseen expenditure or unanticipated loss of income.

The board of directors will review the above criteria with reference to Re-Alliance's strategy and Annual Plan and determine the target level of free reserves to meet these.

The board of directors may at times designate funds from free reserves for significant project costs or replacement of major assets.

Public Benefit, Objectives And Activities

- Our directors consider that they have complied with the duty (set out in Section 17(3) of the Charities Act 2011) to have due regard to public benefit guidance published by the Commission. In exercising their powers and duties as directors, the Board considers that the organisation's strategies, aims and activities they have put in place are for the public benefit and this is fundamental to all areas of our operation in undertaking current activities, planning future activities and measuring outcomes.
- Our organisational purpose is to advance the education of the public in general (and particularly amongst humanitarian and development professionals) on the subject of regenerative development and to promote research for the public benefit in all aspects of that subject and to publish the useful results.
- We do this by providing educational services, acting as an umbrella or resource body, making grants to other organisations, providing training, conducting research and through supplementary education.

Achievements and Performance

The major organisational activities, achievements and performance for 2023-24 follow.

All activities were undertaken to further the organisation's charitable purposes for public benefit. We have divided our activities between the following headings:

- Core Activities
- Grant Funded Projects
- Contracts and Services

In general, core activities are financed from our unrestricted funds and grant funded projects and contracts and services are financed through restricted funding.

Core Organisational Activities

MEMBERSHIP helps us to increase education, gather evidence, disseminate research, support network development and engage members in the work of the charity. Our global membership grew this year from 254 to 286 individuals and organisations from the development and humanitarian sectors. We hosted regular bimonthly community of practice meetings interspersed with storytelling workshops to examine how best to communicate and share learnings from members' work.

ONLINE MEMBERS SPACES like our members' Whatsapp group, newsletter and Facebook and Instagram sites help build communication amongst the membership.

OUTREACH AND INFLUENCING helps us reach out beyond our membership. Our core team have hosted learning events such as facilitating a workshop on integrated settlement design at the Oxford Real Farming Conference and presenting on Lime Stabilised Soil building at the UK Shelter forum.

Grant Funded Project: Regenerative Settlements

The Regenerative Camps and Settlements Project is our largest current piece of work, spanning at least four years. It includes regranting to local groups in the global South for the piloting of regenerative innovations in displacement settings. Using the results of these pilots, Re-alliance produces educational materials for grassroots community groups and NGOs in multiple languages. The guidebooks have been made freely available online via Practical Action Publishing. The work will culminate in the production of an online course, which is currently under development.

We successfully funded a further 7 innovation and research projects this year, implemented by grantee locally-led organisations during this period:

- Biointensive Agriculture in Zimbabwe
- Water retention agriculture in Kenya
- Mushroom growing in Uganda
- Integrated settlement design for displacement settings
- Research into food growing in Cox's Bazar
- Micro Wind turbine designs for refugee camps
- Regenerating people: Trauma healing in Cameroon

We decided to focus on energy, connectivity and social cohesion in this second funding round as well as continuing our support for regenerative agriculture. We carried out research into the costs and benefits of community gardens in Cox's Bazar in a joint action research project with the Asian Women's University and the Food Security Cluster. Our integrated settlement design work brought together academics, local partners and representatives from UNHCR to look at the future of settlement design in displacement settings.

Contracts and Services

PUBLICATIONS

We have continued to produce articles for the Permaculture Magazine on our work. During this period we published an article about rooftop gardening in Gaza.

FISCAL SPONSORSHIP

We have welcomed the opportunity to incubate groups who align with our charitable purposes through fiscal sponsorship. This year we completed our fiscal sponsorship with RAIN CLC.

Structure, governance and management

- This is the fourth annual report for the Charitable Incorporated Organisation Re-Alliance, which registered with the Charity Commission on 6th April 2020.
- Our governing document was adopted on 30.09.19 and is a Constitution of a Charitable Incorporated Organisation. Re-Alliance has a small but stable governance of five directors (listed previously) supported by four staff members who work on a part-time basis. Re-Alliance initially formed as an informal network of humanitarian and development practitioners united by a focus on regenerative practices. Invitations were made within the network for directors and four individuals with a broad range of experience stepped up to fill the roles and were formally appointed on 30th September 2019 in accordance with section 13 of our constitution. In December 2022, Geoff O'Donoghue joined the team as our 5th Director and in August 2024 Gideon Adeyeni joined as our 6th trustee.
- Our directors come from employment backgrounds of academia, education, regenerative business and large INGOs and some have voluntary experience in charity governance and development. Our directors invested and demonstrated their skills during the establishment and growth of the organisation including initial meetings, fundraising and pursuit of charity status and recruitment of freelance staff. We have grown our original group of four directors to six, to increase the capacity of the team and ensure a diverse skill-set is represented.
- While the directors oversee the strategic direction of Re-Alliance, day-to-day responsibilities are delegated to our Coordinator and three Managers, who we refer to as the 'core team'. Financial administration is managed by the core team with all revenue and expenditure inspected and approved quarterly at directors' meetings. Our treasurer has banking access and inspects bank statements as they are made available. With the exception of one member of staff, the core team and directors have been involved with the organisation since its inception, are deeply motivated to pursue its aims and have overseen the establishment and approval of its constitution, policies and practices, ensuring that there is a thorough shared understanding of its governance and purposes.

Financial review

At the end of the period the charity held total funds of £127,123 These break down as:

Unrestricted: £35,753 Restricted: £91,370

At the close of the financial year, Re-Alliance maintained free unrestricted reserves of £30,000, equivalent to 6 months' running costs. Re-Alliance holds these reserves:

- to provide a level of working capital that protects the continuity of our core work
- to provide a level of funding for unexpected opportunities
- to provide cover for risks such as unforeseen expenditure or unanticipated loss of income.

The board of directors will review the above criteria with reference to Re-Alliance's strategy and Annual Plan and determine the target level of free reserves to meet these.

The board of directors may at times designate funds from free reserves for significant project costs or replacement of major assets.

Public Benefit, Objectives And Activities

- Our directors consider that they have complied with the duty (set out in Section 17(3) of the Charities Act 2011) to have due regard to public benefit guidance published by the Commission. In exercising their powers and duties as directors, the Board considers that the organisation's strategies, aims and activities they have put in place are for the public benefit and this is fundamental to all areas of our operation in undertaking current activities, planning future activities and measuring outcomes.
- Our organisational purpose is to advance the education of the public in general (and particularly amongst humanitarian and development professionals) on the subject of regenerative development and to promote research for the public benefit in all aspects of that subject and to publish the useful results.
- We do this by providing educational services, acting as an umbrella or resource body, making grants to other organisations, providing training, conducting research and through supplementary education.

Achievements and Performance

The major organisational activities, achievements and performance for 2023-24 follow.

All activities were undertaken to further the organisation's charitable purposes for public benefit. We have divided our activities between the following headings:

- Core Activities
- Grant Funded Projects
- Contracts and Services

In general, core activities are financed from our unrestricted funds and grant funded projects and contracts and services are financed through restricted funding.

Core Organisational Activities

MEMBERSHIP helps us to increase education, gather evidence, disseminate research, support network development and engage members in the work of the charity. Our global membership grew this year from 254 to 286 individuals and organisations from the development and humanitarian sectors. We hosted regular bimonthly community of practice meetings interspersed with storytelling workshops to examine how best to communicate and share learnings from members' work.

ONLINE MEMBERS SPACES like our members' Whatsapp group, newsletter and Facebook and Instagram sites help build communication amongst the membership.

OUTREACH AND INFLUENCING helps us reach out beyond our membership. Our core team have hosted learning events such as facilitating a workshop on integrated settlement design at the Oxford Real Farming Conference and presenting on Lime Stabilised Soil building at the UK Shelter forum.

Grant Funded Project: Regenerative Settlements

The Regenerative Camps and Settlements Project is our largest current piece of work, spanning at least four years. It includes regranting to local groups in the global South for the piloting of regenerative innovations in displacement settings. Using the results of these pilots, Re-alliance produces educational materials for grassroots community groups and NGOs in multiple languages. The guidebooks have been made freely available online via Practical Action Publishing. The work will culminate in the production of an online course, which is currently under development.

We successfully funded a further 7 innovation and research projects this year, implemented by grantee locally-led organisations during this period:

- Biointensive Agriculture in Zimbabwe
- Water retention agriculture in Kenya
- Mushroom growing in Uganda
- Integrated settlement design for displacement settings
- Research into food growing in Cox's Bazar
- Micro Wind turbine designs for refugee camps
- Regenerating people: Trauma healing in Cameroon

We decided to focus on energy, connectivity and social cohesion in this second funding round as well as continuing our support for regenerative agriculture. We carried out research into the costs and benefits of community gardens in Cox's Bazar in a joint action research project with the Asian Women's University and the Food Security Cluster. Our integrated settlement design work brought together academics, local partners and representatives from UNHCR to look at the future of settlement design in displacement settings.

Contracts and Services

PUBLICATIONS

We have continued to produce articles for the Permaculture Magazine on our work. During this period we published an article about rooftop gardening in Gaza.

FISCAL SPONSORSHIP

We have welcomed the opportunity to incubate groups who align with our charitable purposes through fiscal sponsorship. This year we completed our fiscal sponsorship with RAIN CLC.

Structure, governance and management

- This is the third annual report for the Charitable Incorporated Organisation Re-Alliance, which registered with the Charity Commission on 6th April 2020.
- Our governing document was adopted on 30.09.19 and is a Constitution of a Charitable Incorporated Organisation. Re-Alliance has a small but stable governance of five directors (listed previously) supported by four staff members who work on a part-time basis. Re-Alliance initially formed as an informal network of humanitarian and development practitioners united by a focus on regenerative practices. Invitations were made within the network for directors and four individuals with a broad range of experience stepped up to fill the roles and were formally appointed on 30th September 2019 in accordance with section 13 of our constitution. In December 2022, Geoff O'Donoghue joined the team as our 5th Director.
- Our directors come from employment backgrounds of academia, education, regenerative business and large INGOs and some have voluntary experience in charity governance and development. Our directors invested and demonstrated their skills during the establishment and growth of the organisation including initial meetings, fundraising and pursuit of charity status and recruitment of freelance staff.
- While the directors oversee the strategic direction of Re-Alliance, day-to-day responsibilities are delegated to our Coordinator and three Managers, who we refer to as the 'core team'. Financial administration is managed by the core team with all revenue and expenditure inspected and approved quarterly at directors' meetings. Our treasurer has banking access and inspects bank statements as they are made available. With the exception of one member of staff, the core team and directors have been involved with the organisation since its inception, are deeply motivated to pursue its aims and have overseen the establishment and approval of its constitution, policies and practices, ensuring that there is a thorough shared understanding of its governance and purposes.

Public Benefit, Objectives And Activities

- Our directors consider that they have complied with the duty (set out in Section 17(3) of the Charities Act 2011) to have due regard to public benefit guidance published by the Commission. In exercising their powers and duties as directors, the Board considers that the organisation's strategies, aims and activities they have put in place are for the public benefit and this is fundamental to all areas of our operation in undertaking current activities, planning future activities and measuring outcomes.
- Our organisational purpose is to advance the education of the public in general (and particularly amongst humanitarian and development professionals) on the subject of regenerative development and to promote research for the public benefit in all aspects of that subject and to publish the useful results.
- We do this by providing educational services, acting as an umbrella or resource body, making grants to other organisations, providing training, conducting research and through supplementary education.

Achievements and Performance

Illustration from recent booklet on composting toilets

The major organisational activities, achievements and performance for 2022-23 follow.

All activities were undertaken to further the organisation's charitable purposes for public benefit. We have divided our activities between the following headings:

- Core Activities,
- Grant Funded Projects
- Contracts and Services

In general, core activities are financed from our unrestricted funds and grant funded projects and contracts and services are financed through restricted funding.

Core Organisational Activities

MEMBERSHIP helps us to increase education, gather evidence, disseminate research, support network development and engage members in the work of the charity. Our global membership grew from 179 to 254 individuals and organisations from the development and humanitarian sectors, education and policy. We hosted a regular programme of bimonthly members' meetings or themed communities of practice, interspersed with webinars providing examples of members work

PUBLISHING learning materials, all freely available on our website, have built a body of evidence and stories to communicate the effectiveness, authenticity and value of regenerative work. We launched our Guidelines series with booklets on Grey Water Recycling, and are piloting a range of technologies as small research projects that will eventually be turned into booklets on other innovations that can be reproduced in different settings.

ONLINE LEARNING was facilitated through monthly meetings and webinars open to all via free registration on our website. We ran our second podcast series and hosted a new webinar series on 'Designing Regenerative Change'.

Grant Funded Projects

Our Guidelines Project is our largest current piece of work, spanning three to four years. Funding the piloting of innovations in regenerative response, and producing guidelines from them it will fund up to 15 pilot projects over this period resulting in small publications for community groups in multiple languages. which will be made available free of charge.

We successfully funded 9 separate innovation research projects, implemented by our grantee organisations during this period:

- 3 WASH related projects (Uganda, Lebanon and Kenya)
- 3 in urban agriculture (Cameroon, Gaza and Athens)
- 1 in natural building (Cox's bazaar) 1 in camp composting (Uganda)
- 1 in hydroponics (Iraq) [postponed to the spring due to camp closure.

We decided to focus on energy, connectivity and social cohesion in our second call for projects and looked to select 7 new projects in 2023. We also began to carry out research into the costs and benefits of community gardens in Cox's Bazaar in a joint action research project with the Asian Women's University and the Food Security Cluster

Contracts and Services

We are now producing regular articles for the Permaculture Magazine on our work. During this period we published one on Compost Toilets, taken largely from our work in East Africa and Lebanon. New articles have been promised from our guidelines work.

We were contracted by the Catholic Agency for Overseas Development to produce a scoping report of agro ecology organisations and activity as part of their South East Asia and Middle East work to connect partners in this area. We also ran peer learning circles as part of a partner exchange initiative

We finished our contract with aligned organisation Regenerosity during this period which culminated with a visit to partners in Uganda in February 2023.

This visit enabled us to make stronger contacts with members and film some valuable video footage which has since been edited into short films for our website.

Structure, governance and management

- This is the second annual report for the Charitable Incorporated Organisation Re-Alliance, which registered with the Charity Commission on 6th April 2020.
- Our governing document was adopted on 30.09.19 and is a Constitution of a Charitable Incorporated Organisation. Since establishment, Re-Alliance has had a small but stable governance of four directors (listed previously) supported by four freelance staff members who work on a part-time basis. Re-Alliance initially formed as an informal network of humanitarian and development practitioners united by a focus on regenerative practices. Invitations were made within the network for directors and four individuals with a broad range of experience stepped up to fill the roles and were formally appointed on 30th September 2019 in accordance with section 13 of our constitution.
- Our directors come from employment backgrounds of academia, education, regenerative business and large INGOs and some have voluntary experience in charity governance and development. Our directors invested and demonstrated their skills during the establishment and growth of the organisation including initial meetings, fundraising and pursuit of charity status and recruitment of freelance staff.
- While the directors oversee the strategic direction of Re-Alliance, day-to-day responsibilities are delegated to our Coordinator and three Managers, who we refer to as the 'core team'. Financial administration is managed by the core team with all revenue and expenditure inspected and approved quarterly at directors' meetings. Our treasurer has banking access and inspects bank statements as they are made available. With the exception of one member of staff, the core team and directors have been involved with the organisation since its inception, are deeply motivated to pursue its aims and have overseen the establishment and approval of its constitution, policies and practices, ensuring that there is a thorough shared understanding of its governance and purposes.

Financial review

At the end of the period the charity held total funds of £87,770 These break down as:

Unrestricted: £19,408 Restricted: £68,362

At the close of the financial year, Re-Alliance maintained free unrestricted reserves of £6,648, equivalent to 4 months' running costs. Re-Alliance holds these reserves:

- to provide a level of working capital that protects the continuity of our core work
- to provide a level of funding for unexpected opportunities
- to provide cover for risks such as unforeseen expenditure or unanticipated loss of income.

The board of directors will review the above criteria with reference to Re-Alliance's strategy and Annual Plan and determine the target level of free reserves to meet these.

The board of directors may at times designate funds from free reserves for significant project costs or replacement of major assets.

Public Benefit, Objectives And Activities

- Our directors consider that they have complied with the duty (set out in Section 17(3) of the Charities Act 2011) to have due regard to public benefit guidance published by the Commission. In exercising their powers and duties as directors, the Board considers that the organisation's strategies, aims and activities they have put in place are for the public benefit and this is fundamental to all areas of our operation in undertaking current activities, planning future activities and measuring outcomes.
- Our organisational purpose is to advance the education of the public in general (and particularly amongst humanitarian and development professionals) on the subject of regenerative development and to promote research for the public benefit in all aspects of that subject and to publish the useful results.
- We do this by providing educational services, acting as an umbrella or resource body, providing training, conducting research and through supplementary education.

Achievements and Performance

The major organisational activities, achievements and performance for 2021-22 follow.

All activities were undertaken to further the organisation's charitable purposes for public benefit. We have divided our activities between the following headings:

- Core Activities,
- Grant Funded Projects
- Contracts and Services

In general, core activities are financed from our unrestricted funds and grant funded projects and contracts and services are financed through restricted funding.

Core Organisational Activities

Image from our case study: Creating Food Gardens In Syrian IDP Camps using Recycled Water

- MEMBERSHIP helps us to increase education, gather evidence, disseminate research, support network development and engage members in the work of the charity. Our global membership grew from 105 to 179 individuals and organisations working in the development and humanitarian sectors, education and policy, many with experience implementing regenerative principals in their work. We hosted bimonthly members' meetings to facilitate peer-to-peer learning for regenerative practitioners working throughout the world. We continued an existing contract to facilitate learning circles for an aligned organisation, sharing knowledge between practitioners implementing regenerative projects.
- PUBLISHING learning materials, all freely available on our website, have built a body of evidence and stories to communicate the effectiveness, authenticity and value of regenerative work. Case studies included topics such as 'Making every drop count with grey water; Reusing water in times of drought' and Changing the Flow by Regenerating with Water - Rainwater Lakes in Rajasthan'. We launched 'Re-Alliance Radio', our podcast series and published six episodes covering topics such as "Integrating Regeneration into Humanitarian and Development Intervention" and 'Shifting Sands: the Changing Priorities in the Humanitarian Sector'.
- ONLINE LEARNING was facilitated through monthly meetings and webinars open to all via free registration on our website. Topics included 'Introducing Water harvesting guidelines for food growing in camps' and 'Regenerative women of India'. Webinars were recording and uploaded to our website to increase their reach. Peer to peer learning was encouraged through our facilitated learning circles, convened online for practitioners funded by aligned organisation Regenerosity.

Grant Funded Projects

The Radio & Non-digital Communications Project, started in 2020 was completed. The project had funding of £11,520 and promoted regenerative food growing practices in refugee camps, piloting the use of radio and non-digital forms of communication to promote permaculture in the Philippines and Kenya. In Kenya, we worked with partners at Kajulu Hills Ecovillages, to design and trial a radio programme. The programme told stories of the benefits of growing food with a permaculture approach, advertised a demonstration site in the camp and invited listeners to join an established indigenous seed sharing programme. With Green ReLeaf in the Philippines we worked towards creating a game with emergency food growing information which could be shared with people in remote, disaster-prone locations.

In 2022 we received funding of £80,650 for the first year of our regenerative camps and settlements project. The project funds action research pilot projects in refugee and IDP settings. The research will inform the production of guideline documents detailing how to implement regenerative approaches. The first round of 9 pilots were selected as follows:

- Ecosan toilets in Nakivale, Uganda
- Treebogs in Kakuma, Kenya
- Vermicomposting in Zahle, Lebanon
- Community vermicomposting, Nakivale, Uganda
- Rooftop Gardening in Gaza, Palestine
- Regenerative Community Hydroponics, Iraq
- Urban gardening, Athens, Greece
- Urban gardening in Cameroon
- Lime Stabilised soil building, Cox's Bazar, Bangladesh

Farming with a heart was a partnership with US based organisation Regenerosity and strengthened our ongoing relationship with this aligned organisation.

This £5000 grant supported part of a larger Regenerosity project where our role was to conduct the scoping and planning for a film about regenerative farming. The film will illustrate a healthy relationship with land and food systems and show methods of creating health for farmers, consumers, biodiversity and communities.

Contracts and Services

We were contracted by Lush Cosmetics to deliver training materials for their staff development course reJUNeration.

The contract, for £5000, funded the creation of video interviews and photographs from within our membership, showcasing regenerative practices in action.

Following the success of the workshop series 'Regenerative Practices', produced for staff at Malteser International, a further programme was contracted; 'Regenerative Design; Greywater and Home, school and community gardens'.

We managed the teaching of regenerative design practices for creating home, school and community gardens in Syrian IDP camps and the publication of guidelines for growing food using greywater in camps.

The contract's operational budget was £32,718 and all elements were successfully completed.

We continued our contract with aligned organisation Regenerosity to host peer-to-peer learning circles for their Regenerative Changemakers series.

The skilled facilitation from our core team promoted participatory learning and reflection and has enabled a growth and development of practitioners' work.

Financial review

At the end of the period the charity held total funds of £17,620 These break down as:

Unrestricted: £6,648, Restricted: £10,972

At the close of the financial year, Re-Alliance maintained free unrestricted reserves of £6,648, equivalent to 4 months' running costs. Re-Alliance holds these reserves:

- to provide a level of working capital that protects the continuity of our core work
- to provide a level of funding for unexpected opportunities
- to provide cover for risks such as unforeseen expenditure or unanticipated loss of income.

The board of directors will review the above criteria with reference to Re-Alliance's strategy and Annual Plan and determine the target level of free reserves to meet these.

The board of directors may at times designate funds from free reserves for significant project costs or replacement of major assets.

Public Benefit, Objectives And Activities

- Our directors consider that they have complied with the duty (set out in Section 17(3) of the Charities Act 2011) to have due regard to public benefit guidance published by the Commission. In exercising their powers and duties as directors, the Board considers that the organisation's strategies, aims and activities they have put in place are for the public benefit and this is fundamental to all areas of our operation in undertaking current activities, planning future activities and measuring outcomes.
- Our organisational purpose is to advance the education of the public in general (and particularly amongst humanitarian and development professionals) on the subject of regenerative development and to promote research for the public benefit in all aspects of that subject and to publish the useful results.
- We do this by providing educational services, acting as an umbrella or resource body, providing training, conducting research and through supplementary education.

Key Purposes and Aims for the year

Create and facilitate spaces of mutual learning and support for regenerative practitioners (And those transitioning to regenerative process and practices)

Build a body of evidence and stories to communicate the effectiveness, authenticity and value of regenerative work

Leverage support from larger organisations to help deliver regenerative development education and research

Achievements and Performance

The major organisational activities, achievements and performance for 2020-21 follow. All activities were undertaken to further the organisation's charitable purposes for public benefit.

MEMBERSHIP helps us to increase education, gather evidence, disseminate research, support network development and engage members in the work of the charity. Our global membership grew to 105 individuals working in the development and humanitarian sectors, education and policy, all with experience implementing regenerative principals in their work. We continued to run bimonthly members' meetings to facilitate peer-to-peer learning for regenerative practitioners working throughout the world. We started an ongoing contract to facilitate learning circles for an aligned organisation, sharing knowledge between practitioners implementing regenerative projects.

PUBLISHING learning materials, all freely available on our website, has built a body of evidence and stories to communicate the effectiveness, authenticity and value of regenerative work. Case studies were produced on the following topics:

- Can Permaculture Play a Positive Role in International Development?
- Regenerating Soil, Land and Food Systems in Kenya
- Nepal's First Strawbale House
- Integrating Compost Toilets, Tree Planting & Soil Building in Rural Senegal
- Home Garden Competitions in Domiz Refugee Camp
- Kitchen Gardens, Composting and Organic Farming in a Ugandan Refugee Settlement
- Building Community Preparedness through Puppetry
- Alam Santi's Water Harvesting Design

Building Nepal's first strawbale house.

● COLLABORATION with students from LSE led to the production of a report titled “Regenerative Approaches Explained: Introducing MET – an Evidence-Based Toolkit for Regenerative Programmes”. Created by five LSE graduate students and Re-Alliance, the aim of the report was to understand regeneration, and highlight some beneficial characteristics when applied within the disaster relief field. The purpose of the report was to produce an evidence-based toolkit that can easily adapt to the flexibility of regenerative approaches.

● RESEARCH was conducted into the adoption of regenerative practices in refugee and IDP camps and settlements. The research identified key gaps in guidelines and literature where further research and educational materials are needed, informing the focus of our activities in the future.

● ONLINE LEARNING was facilitated through bimonthly webinars open to all via free registration on our website. Topics included ‘Refugee Led Permaculture Education’, ‘What is agroecology’ and ‘Designing for Resilience and Regeneration’. Webinars were recording and uploaded to our website to increase their reach. Short videos introducing the theme of regenerative development were also produced and posted on our website and Youtube channel.

Grant Funded Projects

The Radio & Non-digital Communications project promoted regenerative food growing practices in refugee camps, piloting the use of radio and non-digital forms of communication to promote permaculture and food growing in the Philippines and Kenya. In Kenya, we worked with partners at Kajulu Hills Ecovillages, to design and trial a radio programme, broadcasting 8 episodes of a soap using local actors. The soap told stories of the benefits of growing food with a permaculture approach, advertised a demonstration site in the camp and invited listeners to join an established indigenous seed sharing programme. With Green ReLeaf in the Philippines we worked towards creating a game with emergency food growing information which could be shared with people in remote, disaster-prone locations.

A webinar and workshop series 'Regenerative Practices' was produced for staff training at a large international aid agency. The series focused on the themes of: The Principles of Regenerative Response; Regenerative Design; Patterns and Tools for Settlements; Permaculture, Home and Community Gardens and Harvesting; Recycling Water for Food Growing and Integrative Approaches. The webinars were well received by staff and led to a further programme managing the teaching of regenerative design practices for creating home, school and community gardens in Syrian IDP camps.

The Re-Alliance film competition advanced the awareness of regenerative approaches. The project seed-funded the production of 12 short films showcasing inspirational examples of regeneration from eight different countries. These powerful stories of community-based approaches spread messages of hope around the world. It also acted to build the evidence of the effectiveness of regenerative practices.
