

ANNUAL REPORT 2021-22

FOREWORD

On behalf of all the trustees, I am delighted to offer my brief reflections on this second year of activity for The Fathom Trust. It remains a new and exciting charity, with growing evidence for the positive impact it is having on behalf of children and young people, adults experiencing mental illness, and workers suffering from chronic and excessive stress.

At our first trustees meeting we emphasised how important it would be to have a series of case studies which would tell the story of a participant's experience of attending a Fathom Trust course. We also wanted to be able to understand Fathom's methodology in more detail and to consider how we could evaluate our work in ways that never felt extractive or detrimental to the participant's experience, but which nonetheless, helped us to understand whether or not our work was proving effective. Underlying all of this, are clearly considerations of resource and governance.

I am therefore thrilled to be able to look back on the year and to acknowledge the progress that Fathom has made on all these areas, and more besides. The most notable achievement of 2021-22, it seems to me, has been the completion of a six-month pilot project called 'Making Well'. This partnership with Cardiff University's Clinical Innovation Accelerator, the Brecon Beacons National Park Authority, and Brecon & District Mind, has helped Fathom to test its model, and to create a Social Return on Investment Report, Theory of Change, Practices of Change Report, Good Practice Guide, as well as two films, all leading to favourable press in the media.

Alongside this, Fathom has been developing its work with children and young people, working with various groups from Pupil Referral Units, Sixth Formers, and Kickstart interns. It has also begun to offer retreats for medical staff at risk of burn-out, and seeks to develop this work over the next year with local Health Boards. At the same time, we have been delighted to add Dr Junaid Bajwa and Dr Niki Barbary-Bleyleben to the Board and will seek to appoint a Treasurer over the next year. Fathom has been able to use a number of kind donations wisely and as a result is now in a strong position to apply for further funding, especially since it now has a rich and rigorous set of materials with which to make its case.

It remains a privilege to be part of the team realizing this exciting vision and together, as trustees, wish Dr Will Beharrell and all the Fathom team every success in the year ahead.

Dr Iain McGilchrist, Trustee

i. INTRODUCTION FROM THE CEO

Fathom is built on the foundational idea of depth and the life-giving connexions that result from a deeper interaction with one's own body, mind, and soul, with one's community and the wider natural world. The foundations which we put in place in our first year, during the restrictions of the Covid-19 pandemic, have served us well in this, our second year of charitable activity. The website has proved to be an effective form of communication and the initial outreach amongst practitioners and makers of all kinds, has led to a series of engagements which have helped us to establish our ethos and refine our programmes.

With its focus on craftsmanship, conservation, and contemplation, Fathom has helped 227 people to discover this sense of depth and thereby to create a more soulful approach to health and healing. Alongside our work with a number of children and young people group and several retreats for NHS staff, one of our major achievements this year has been 'Making Well: Health and Healing Through Green Crafts', which was a new collaboration between local artisans with mental health service users and health and social care services, landowners and the third sector to create opportunities for community-based rehabilitation. This has been a six-month green social prescribing pilot project to understand the social value of the Making Well collaboration, funded by Accelerate, and in partnership with Cardiff University, Bangor University's Social Value Hub, Mind, the Brecon Beacons National Park and the local community.

We have been exploring how to analyse this work without losing this sense of depth and our response has been to combine a social return on investment study with an ethnographic approach with the help of a health economists from Bangor university's centre for Health Economics and Medicine's Evaluation with an academic sociologist from Cardiff University. This approach has managed to combine analysis with depth through careful fiscal analysis as well as patient observation to 'moments rather than measures' and the result is a deeper understanding of how our Making Well course is contributing towards processes of healing and renewal, both at an individual and collective level.

This focus on the processual understanding of craft practices helped us to observe phenomena such as the reality of subjective time and the resulting experience of 'flow'. The seemingly inconsequential nature of the tasks at hand, and the learning to hold the materials and tasks lightly, introduced a sense of play, and return to innocence; and movement, gesture, and other forms of bodily expression were all brought into focus in a way which brought us closer to appreciating the transformative potential in craft-as-care. In terms of conservation, this work pointed to a consistent finding of increased nature-connection amongst all participants and to a range of different habits with regard to peoples' relationship with nature. This is an aspect of the work to be developed but the potential for practical conservation and life-giving habits that come from a closer affinity with the natural world is striking. This is one of the reasons why Fathom also focuses on contemplation and the spiritual dimension to human experience. The metaphors observed in the various exchanges between crafter and participant - with their literal sense of 'carrying across' - give us a sense of how spiritual connexions are made on the basis of physical experience. These connexions serve to situate individuals in a web of life-giving bonds to body, soul, nature and society, and help us to cultivate a sense of contentment through an exchange of gifts with nature, with food, water, fire and shelter on the one hand, and gratitude, protection, creativity and restraint on the other.

The Making Well programme was also evaluated using a Social Return On Investment (SROI) methodology, incorporating qualitative, quantitative, and financial methods to analyse its social, psychological and emotional value to stakeholders. The evaluation included the use of robust, academically validated health measures such as the Short Warwick-Edinburgh Mental Wellbeing Scale (SWEMWBS) and estimated the social value generated by the Making Well programme in a similar way to Cost-Benefit Analysis, providing the ratio of social value generated per £1 invested. This SROI evaluation ran alongside the ethnography of the programme, which outlined the Practices of Change through which participants achieved wellbeing. Findings from the SROI evaluation and the ethnography have fed into the development of a Theory of Change of Making Well. The first two cohorts of twenty participants, who were largely referred from the community mental health team and local GP surgeries, have completed an eight-week course focused on green woodwork, willow weaving, and horticulture. Participants came with experience of brain aneurysm, anorexia, schizophrenia, bipolar-affective disorder, depression, anxiety, psychosis, substance abuse and domestic violence. Data from the pilot demonstrated average individual improvements in wellbeing of 40% with three out of eight Making Well programme participants improving by more than 50%. HACT mental health social value analysis suggests a £4.80 social return for every £1 invested. 90% of our expenditure has gone directly into the local community to support local artisans.

We have therefore gained a clearer understanding both of what we are seeking to offer but also of how effective this is in terms of wellbeing and health. With this proof-of-concept and with a greater sense of confidence in our work, we are looking forward to developing our team and our capacity to extend this work to a greater number of groups in the next year.

ii. MISSION

Our mission is to promote physical, mental and spiritual wellbeing using traditional crafts, harnessing physical work to restore life-giving connections to body, soul, nature and society. We use craftsmanship, conservation and contemplation to restore health and allow healing, through activities which nurture wellbeing, for example in adults living with long-term physical and psychological conditions, children and young people not in mainstream education, and for exhausted workers: anyone in need of rest and rehabilitation. 'Fathom' alludes to depth. It signals the importance of a sense of rootedness in community and landscape, with a spiritual foundation, that can provide a framework from which to address life's challenges. It is to do with connection with the deepest aspects of our inner selves, that often suffer in the rush, chaos or noise of twenty-first century life, and healing the damage done when that connection is broken. 'Fathom' is an invitation to experience deep peace

iii. OBJECTIVES

- To assist in the treatment and care of persons suffering from mental or physical illness of any description or in need of rehabilitation as a result of such illness, by provision of facilities for work, therapy, and recreation.
- To promote and protect the physical and mental health of sufferers of mental illness in Wales through provision of therapy, support, education, and practical advice.
- To advance the education of the general public in all areas relating to mental illness

iv. ACTIVITIES

"I have felt safe at Fathom for the first time in my life."

"I have struggled with Anorexia all my life. I never thought I'd be able to eat in public but lunch is one of the things I look forward to at Fathom."

"Fathom is my lifeline and it has become my extended family. Since starting, I am now talking to my family again."

"I have been suicidal with anxiety and have felt I was too ugly to leave the house. Since starting Fathom, I have stopped wearing make-up and have developed the confidence to apply for a job and I am now working in a coffee shop".

"The Fathom Trust is an organisation to watch. They are offering creative and thoughtful approaches to personal development and organisational growth that appeal to the whole person. This is what so many of us need after the trials of the last eighteen months. "

Prof Dame Clare Gerada DBE
MBE FRCP FRCGP FRCPsych

"Our retreat with the Fathom Trust was magical. Using craft, in this case, whittling, allowed each person to reflect individually, to pause and to allow themselves to be in the moment. The group was then able to bring creative thoughts together for the benefit of the charity. This would not have been possible without the skilful facilitation of Will Beharrell and The Fathom Trust. The power was in using craft to enable recovery and then refocus. "

Ann Paul, CEO, Doctors in Distress

1. Fathoming (Adults)

- Awarded funding from The Brecon Beacons National Park Sustainability Development Fund and the "Accelerate" Clinical Innovation Accelerator to run a six-month Social Value pilot with Cardiff and Bangor Universities called "Make Well: Health & Healing through Green Craft". Two cohorts of ten people referred from primary care and mental health services as well as the third sector. The Centre for Health Economics and Medicines Evaluation will produce a theory of change and a social return on investment report, and Cardiff University will prepare a practices of change report.

Fingertip Philosophy (Children and Young People)

- We have run a number of courses for the Coleg Sir Gar Further Education College in Carmarthen and the Ty Dysgu Pupil Referral Unit in Merthyr Tydfil.
- We have run five sessions for the Kickstarter Programme in Cardiff & Vale University Health Board, offering a health and wellbeing away day to unemployed young people.

- Powys Pupil Referral Unit

3. Workforce

- We ran a retreat for the senior leadership and Board of the charity Doctors in Distress
- We ran an away day for an NHS Wales team
- We have delivered five Health & Wellbeing days for the Kickstarter Scheme

v. FUTURE PLANS

- Produce a range of academic outputs based on the Making Well pilot and extend this pilot to several courses throughout the year.
- Extend our retreats to a greater number of medics at risk of burn out
- Establish a Folk School based on our Fingertip Philosophy programme, aimed especially at children in caring roles
- Secure funds for three years of operating costs
- Board Development.

I report to the trustees on my examination of the accounts of the above charity ("the Trust") for the year ended 31/03/2022.

Responsibilities and

As the charity's trustees, you are responsible for the preparation of the accounts in accordance with the requirements of the Charities Act 2011 ("the Act").

I report in respect of my examination of the Trust's accounts carried out under section 145 of the 2011 Act and in carrying out my examination, I have followed all the applicable Directions given by the Charity Commission under section 145(5)(b) of the Act.

examiner's statement

I have completed my examination. I confirm that no material matters have come to my attention in connection with the examination (other than that disclosed below *) which gives me cause to believe that in, any material respect:

- the accounting records were not kept in accordance with section 130 of the Charities Act; or
- the accounts did not accord with the accounting records; or
- the accounts did not comply with the applicable requirements concerning the form and content of accounts set out in the Charities (Accounts and Reports) Regulations 2008 other than any requirement that the accounts give a 'true and fair' view which is not a matter considered as part of an independent examination.

I have no concerns and have come across no other matters in connection with the examination to which attention should be drawn in this report in order to enable a proper understanding of the accounts to be reached.

I report to the trustees on my examination of the accounts of the above charity ("the Trust") for the year ended 31/03/2022.

Responsibilities and

As the charity's trustees, you are responsible for the preparation of the accounts in accordance with the requirements of the Charities Act 2011 ("the Act").

I report in respect of my examination of the Trust's accounts carried out under section 145 of the 2011 Act and in carrying out my examination, I have followed all the applicable Directions given by the Charity Commission under section 145(5)(b) of the Act.

examiner's statement

I have completed my examination. I confirm that no material matters have come to my attention in connection with the examination (other than that disclosed below *) which gives me cause to believe that in, any material respect:

- the accounting records were not kept in accordance with section 130 of the Charities Act; or
- the accounts did not accord with the accounting records; or
- the accounts did not comply with the applicable requirements concerning the form and content of accounts set out in the Charities (Accounts and Reports) Regulations 2008 other than any requirement that the accounts give a 'true and fair' view which is not a matter considered as part of an independent examination.

I have no concerns and have come across no other matters in connection with the examination to which attention should be drawn in this report in order to enable a proper understanding of the accounts to be reached.
