ANNUAL REPORT

UK MMI

2022

Charity number: 1192608

2022

UK MMI was set up with an ideology to provide financial support to meet the medical needs of the general public who are unable to meet the cost of good quality health care, after a realisation that people from all walks of life are unable to access timely medical care.

Structure, Governance and Management

The Charity operates in the UK, with its headquarters based in central London.

The Charity is governed by Articles of Association, and a Board of Trustees is being sought to commence in 2023/4. The Trustees will be supported by a Fundraising Committee and an Audit Committee.

The Board of Directors will contain two Trustees of UK MMI and at least three external members. Trustees met virtually four times during the year. Since the coronavirus pandemic, the Trustees have agreed to bring in a CEO and COO and from time to time to review the evolving impact on the plan and financial results and determine what actions to take.

New Trustees are nominated by existing Trustees and selected by majority vote. All new Trustees are inducted; the programme covers:

- A meeting with the Chairman,
- The role of a Trustee including a copy of the articles of association,
- A meeting with the Chief Executive,
- Charity goals, strategy, and main activities,
- How UK MMI assesses and manages risk,
- Financial reporting and current performance of the Charity including reserves policy

Chairman's Message

Few could have anticipated the ongoing impact of the pandemic and increased cost of living crisis that we see across the UK. Something that has affected everyone, with its ripple effect into Europe and its neighbours.

And whilst for the most part, people have braved this period and continue to do so with a smile, everyday living costs and the continued effects of the Ukraine war have hit the charity sector hard with donations decreasing and a hesitation on a committal to donate.

With businesses still adjusting to the state of the economy and the banking sector dealing with a backlog in account openings for charities, we found ourselves still on a waiting list.

We realised during this period as we approached the Private Sector to support our mission, that there very much needed to be a support ecosystem to help people, employees of companies and communities to share what they were going through, how they were feeling and vent out their frustrations – if anything for their own health & wellbeing. So we sought to establish relationships to reflect on our mission and vision and the whole new set of challenges that will impact local communities and integrate this need for wellbeing into our outreach to private sector donors.

And as we engaged, we found that we shared a common simple underlying principle behind Doing Good.

So we looked at where we could do better.

Our entire approach to running the charity had always been about two things, our impact and doing things the right way.

In collaborating with Corporate Partners through Podcasts and Webinars on wellbeing and by participating in events or signposting or by signposting people to the relevant local expertise where they can find the advice they need, we found we were able to establish better ties that also served our fundraising ambitions. And although the fundraising programme we envisaged took a pause during the period, this pivot has since served to improve the outlook, the residual impact on aspects such as mental health and wellbeing, we believe those Private Sector Partners may remain with us for some time. We used this period to strengthen relationships, build future fit partnerships and build a strong charity through operations, risk mitigation and building a great team which we should be ready for duty in early 2024.

We're also conscious that we'll need to seek to diversify our income streams and balance the risk inherent to each channel, and as such our fundraising activities via challenge events and major gifts and corporate partnerships will look to include sustainability and the UN's 2030 agenda.

The Charity has been smart with its resources and whilst we have had no income in this period (The Charity is awaiting a bank account opening) we have not expended any funds either. The Goodwill of our Partners has been invaluable. UK MMI is not involved in telemarketing or direct-mail donor recruitment or fundraising.

And as we approach the end of a year that has seen many face challenges, I look forward to a bright 2024.

Tech 4 Good

IT Governance & using Technology 4 Good

The Charity realised that it needed to respond to a revolution of digital technology by reviewing and adopting technology that can be used for good. With the fast paced technology transformation that is becoming part of everyday people's lives, technology systems could enable people to access information & support. The Charity is reviewing how best, where and through what platforms tech can be integrated into its operations.

Strategic

- Integrate Technology through clearly defined outcomes, roles, responsibilities and accountabilities.
- Ensure technology are selected on their potential value add and low or no risk to the Charity.

Risk Management

- Ensure close linkage to the Charity's risk management activities
- Identification and management of IT risks and identification of potential opportunities to improve IT practices.
- Review and approve IT security policies related to the security of IT assets & privacy of critical business and donor/customer data.

Internal Financial Control and Risk Assessment

2022

Internal Financial Control and Risk Assessment

The Trustees confirm that the Charity's internal financial controls conform to guidelines issued by the Charity Commission.

The systems of financial control are designed to provide all reasonable but not absolute assurance against material misstatement or loss. They include:

- A fundraising plan and annual budget approved by the Trustees,
- Regular consideration by the Trustees of actual financial results compared with budgets and forecasts,
- Authority to spend within defined limits,
- Segregation of duties,
- Consideration of risks by Trustees and line managers, and
- Compliance reviews.

Risk Management

The Trustees have a risk management strategy which comprises:

- An annual review of the principal risks and uncertainties that the Charity may face.
- Subsequent, regular review of identified risks by the CEO, COO, (once appointed and in place) and key staff, with actions documented for follow-up.
- The establishment of policies, systems, and procedures to mitigate those risks identified in the annual review; and
- The implementation of procedures designed to minimise or manage any potential impact on the Charity should those risks materialise.

Key risks have been identified as:

Income Risk

The risk that budgeted income will not be raised is mitigated by the diversification of revenue streams to ensure that the Charity is not dependent upon any one large supporter. Budgets are conservative, and are scrutinised and challenged by the Trustees, prior to their sign off, to confirm that they are reasonable. Management accounts, along with a reforecast of the expected year-end position, will be reviewed by senior management monthly, with Trustees receiving regular updates on progress at the quarterly Trustees meetings. The Charity also intends to have a prudent reserves policy to ensure that activity can continue if income does not meet expectations and in the event of major impacts such as the coronavirus pandemic.

In response to the pandemic the Trustees are working on developing new sources of income.

Reputational Risk

The Charity doesn't undertake project management or planning for new projects that it engages in, both in its charitable and fundraising activities, this to help prevent poor outcomes that could negatively impact on public perception. Of course, caution is exercised in the appointment of any fundraising partners, who must be able to demonstrate that they abide by the rules established by the Fundraising Regulator. Systems and controls have been established within the Charity to ensure that its finances are stable and transparent. Public relations support is also in place to assist the Charity to manage any event that may result in negative publicity

Risk of Business Interruption

The Charity is headquartered in the City of London but due to ongoing coronavirus pandemic took the decision to not take on new staff until early 2024 and offer flexible & remote working for the foreseeable future following government advice. The Trustees have seen the value of moving to software that is a cloud-based platform.

GDPR

The Charity will recruit a senior manager in 2024 to ensure all policies are reviewed appropriately and embedded into practice across the organisation.

Sustainability

Playing a better role in society

All parts of our society are being encouraged to think about environmental sustainability, and the expectations on charities to address these issues are growing.

So we looked at our entire approach to running the charity and made it about two things, our impact and doing things the right way. We wanted to do what we could with local communities, international Humanitarian & development Agencies as much as support our footprint and the impact of our operations so we worked out a way to do both.

We also have pledged a commitment to do our part in progressing Gender Equity and promoting balance, and in becoming signatories to the UN Women's Women Empowerment principles, we're clear that as a charity we have an important role to play in society. And as we grow our team, we're fully supportive of equal pay at work and we've already reviewed where we need to be to ensure that we have Women in leadership roles.

As people, we can amplify and advocate that more needs to be done and we're doing just that.

Our Climate Commitment

In recognising that climate change poses a threat to the economy, nature and society-at-large, we have committed to take action immediately in order to:

- Halve our greenhouse gas emissions before 2030
- Achieve net zero emissions before 2050
- Disclose our progress on a yearly basis

COLLABORATION.

IT'S CREATING SUSTAINABLE FUTURES.

Our partnerships are helping to cut greenhouse gases, reduce waste and educate young people about sustainability.

We are conscious that our eco-footprint doesn't stop by simply recycling.

We have also taken additional measures to minimise our overall footprint, from sustainable procurement to including teaming up with organisations that know what they are doing and can impart their specialist knowledge to us. We will continue to look at ways to improve our environmental credentials.

Building Trust - establishing relationships

The public's trust that a charity is delivering public benefit is fundamental to its reputation and success, and by extension, the success of the wider sector. Making accountability real, through genuine and open two-way communication that celebrates successes and demonstrates willingness to learn from mistakes, helps to build this trust and confidence and earn legitimacy.

We've sought to establish relationships built around openness, transparency and trust and are based upon a set of core principles that include commitment, integrity and inclusiveness. These are guiding principles on which our vision and mission stands.

We believe it's important to engage at a one to one level, where we can, and since our stakeholders are known to us, where relationships pre exist or they have been introduced because they subscribe to the same values we have and our mission or that they are aligned with the UN's Sustainability 2030 agenda, we believe that works better to ensure a common connection, deliver with meaningful impact and manage risks.

We interact with a selected range of trusted stakeholders. Building strong relationships with them involves listening and working in collaboration. Here is a summary of how we engage with some of our largest stakeholder groups

The charity does not raise funds from the public.
