B. Charitable Objects

The Dr. Rachelle Bascara Foundation (the “Charity”) is established for exclusively charitable purposes for the public benefit, worldwide, including in particular (but not limited to):

- (a) the advancement, promotion, and support of social sciences and philosophy, global development, equality, and humanities recognised as charitable under the law of England and Wales, particularly but not exclusively by:
 - (i) undertaking and/or facilitating relevant research and disseminating the useful results of that research for the public benefit and
 - (ii) providing grants, fellowships, and other financial assistance to qualified individuals and organizations;
- (b) such other related charitable purposes for the public benefit as the trustees may from time to time determine.

C. Public Benefit

The Charity aims to promote, sustain, and increase individual and collective knowledge of the social sciences and philosophy, global development, equality, and humanities. It is our belief that knowledge in these areas in itself provides a public benefit by satisfying the human need to understand the world and ourselves. Through guidance and expertise as well as grants and other forms of funding, we provide a platform to pursue these goals, including by enabling suppressed voices and marginalized perspectives to be heard.

The Charity recognizes that quality research depends on, among other factors, robust and adequate funding. We invite qualified individuals and organizations to collaborate with us on topics that result in work that is not only academically rigorous but also provides practical applications. We are further mindful that our research output is cognizant of changing social dynamics and societal concerns.

At present, the Charity is continuing discussions to provide a deep understanding of what oppression is that bridges the gap between political philosophy and contemporary social movements.

D. Vision

Our vision is to become stewards of knowledge mobilization and to foster intellectual inclusivity, enhance a sense of public enlightenment, as well as provide practical guidance on moral and philosophical issues in society.

II. Report of the Management Committee

A. Research Activities

The Charity is actively engaging in work to provide a deeper understanding of issues related to political and moral philosophy. One of the projects of the Charity involves a clear conceptual backing of oppression to contemporary emancipatory movements, cutting through the rhetoric and exposing the underlying reality of the oppressed.

B. Supporting Initiatives

The Charity continues work on the creation of a biographical literature on the life and work of Dr. Bascara aimed at encouraging the younger generations to develop an interest in socially significant topics such as social sciences and philosophy, global development, equality, and humanities.

The project is currently in progress.

C. Other Academic Efforts

In 2025, the trustees of the Charity continued efforts to identify academic institutions in Europe for potential collaboration and identifying emerging scholars whose research interests reflect the values and contributions of Dr. Bascara and the Charitable Objects of the Charity.

III. Finances

II. Report of the Management Committee

A. Publication of Essay by Dr. Rachelle Bascara

In 2024, the Charity authorized the publication of the essay, "Three Brown Babe's Complaints: Institutional Discrimination, Western Feminists, and First World Leftists," by Dr. Rachelle Bascara ("Dr. Bascara"). This essay serves as the concluding chapter in the anthology Resilience and the Brown Babe's Burden: Writings by Filipina Philosophers, edited by Tracy Llanera and published by Taylor & Francis.¹

Originally presented at the Brown Babe's Burden panel organized by Women Doing Philosophy in October 2020, Dr. Bascara's essay critically examined her personal experience with institutional discrimination when applying for a master's degree abroad, challenged Western feminist views on gender and critiqued the universal condemnation of nationalism by First World leftists.

In the book, Dr. Bascara is recognized as a Filipino philosopher, educator, and activist whose intellectual and personal legacy continues to shape critical conversations on oppression and social justice. Her academic journey was marked by distinction and depth: she earned her PhD in Philosophy from Birkbeck College, where she authored the dissertation "Towards a Unified Theory of Oppression."² She also held a Master's degree in Philosophy from University College London and a Bachelor's degree in Philosophy from the University of the Philippines Diliman. Dr. Bascara taught philosophy at the City Lit Institute in London and served as an Associate Lecturer at the University of Lincoln's School of Social and Political Sciences.

The Charity's trustees, Dr. Konstantin Rozanov and Ryssa Magee, were also acknowledged in the book for their collaboration, reflecting their active involvement in advancing the Charity's mission.

The publication of this essay aligns with the Charity's Objects to advance the social sciences, philosophy, and the humanities. By publishing Dr. Bascara's works, the Charity ensures that her research reaches a broader audience, fostering public understanding and engagement with issues of global development and equality.

B. Research Activities

The Charity is actively engaging in work to provide a deeper understanding of issues related to political and moral philosophy. One of the projects of the Charity involves a clear conceptual backing of oppression to contemporary emancipatory movements, cutting through the rhetoric and exposing the underlying reality of the oppressed.

As outlined in the Charity's annual report (April 2024), a grant was awarded to two research fellows to expand on Dr. Bascara's dissertation on oppression (the "Grant"). The aim of the Grant was to produce academic papers for submission to peer-reviewed journals. Research Fellow 1 explored the normalization of oppression, while Research Fellow 2 critiqued liberalism and structural injustice.

As of date, four academic papers resulting from this Grant are currently under review, incorporating feedback from philosophy journals.

C. Supporting Initiatives

The Charity has embarked on the creation of a biographical literature on the life and work of Dr. Bascara aimed at encouraging the younger generations to develop an interest in socially significant topics such as social sciences and philosophy, global development, equality, and humanities.

The project is currently in progress.

D. Other Academic Efforts

In 2024, the trustees of the Charity initiated efforts to identify academic institutions in Europe for potential collaboration and identifying emerging scholars whose research interests reflect the values and contributions of Dr. Bascara and the Charitable Objects of the Charity.

Your Company Tax Return

If we send the company a 'Notice' to deliver a Company Tax Return it has to comply by the filing date or we charge a penalty, even if there is no tax to pay.

A return includes a Company Tax Return form, any supplementary pages, accounts, computations and any relevant information. The CT600 Guide tells you how the return must be formatted and delivered. It contains general information you may need to deliver your return, links to more detailed advice and box-by-box guidance for this form and the supplementary pages.

The forms in the CT600 series set out the information we need and provide a standard format for calculations.

Dr. Ekaterina Rozanova

B. Charitable Objects

The Dr. Rachelle Bascara Foundation (the “Charity”) is established for exclusively charitable purposes for the public benefit, worldwide, including in particular (but not limited to):

- (a) the advancement, promotion, and support of social sciences and philosophy, global development, equality, and humanities recognised as charitable under the law of England and Wales, particularly but not exclusively by:
 - (i) undertaking and/or facilitating relevant research and disseminating the useful results of that research for the public benefit and
 - (ii) providing grants, fellowships, and other financial assistance to qualified individuals and organizations;
- (b) such other related charitable purposes for the public benefit as the trustees may from time to time determine.

C. Public Benefit

The Charity aims to promote, sustain, and increase individual and collective knowledge of the social sciences and philosophy, global development, equality, and humanities. It is our belief that knowledge in these areas in itself provides a public benefit by satisfying the human need to understand the world and ourselves. Through guidance and expertise as well as grants and other forms of funding, we provide a platform to pursue these goals, including by enabling suppressed voices and marginalized perspectives to be heard.

The Charity recognizes that quality research depends on, among other factors, robust and adequate funding. We invite qualified individuals and organizations to collaborate with us on topics that result in work that is not only academically rigorous but also provides practical applications. We are further mindful that our research output is cognizant of changing social dynamics and societal concerns.

At present, the Charity is actively engaging in discussions to provide a deep understanding of what oppression is that bridges the gap between political philosophy and contemporary social movements.

D. Vision

Our vision is to become stewards of knowledge mobilization and to foster intellectual inclusivity, enhance a sense of public enlightenment, as well as provide practical guidance on moral and philosophical issues in society.

II. Report of the Management Committee

A. Research Activities

The Charity is actively engaging in work to provide a deeper understanding of issues related to political and moral philosophy. One of the projects of the Charity involves a clear conceptual backing of oppression to contemporary emancipatory movements, cutting through the rhetoric and exposing the underlying reality of the oppressed.

Per our previous duly submitted annual report (April 2022), we have offered a grant ("Grant") for a period of 6 months to two research fellows to build on the academic work of Dr. Rachelle Bascara. In particular, the paper "Towards a Unified Theory of Oppression" on oppression served as a basis to complete at least two academic working papers on the topic directed at publication in an internationally recognized, peer-reviewed journal in philosophy or a related field. The Grant's aim was to further clarify, by analysis, the meaning of statements and concepts, providing for quality and rigor in arguments.

The Charity has funded two researchers ("Researcher 1" and "Researcher 2"), each building on Dr. Bascara's work. To recall, Researcher 1 focused on the normalization of oppression and examined privileges within oppressed groups, and Researcher 2 delved into liberalism, exploitation, and structural injustice, critiquing prevailing notions and proposing redefinitions.

As of date, the four academic papers prepared pursuant to the Grant are undergoing a thorough review and revision per feedback received from internationally recognized journals in philosophy.

B. Supporting Initiatives

The Charity has embarked on the creation of a biographical literature on the life and work of Dr. Rachelle Bascara aimed at encouraging the younger generations to develop an interest in socially significant topics such as social sciences and philosophy, global development, equality, and humanities.

The project is currently in progress.

III. Finances

A. Overview

The Charity received financing through donations. During its first financial year, three donations were received totaling GBP 20,000.00. The donations were sourced from Dr. Konstantin Rozanov as well as ACED Global Solutions Ltd in accordance with the Charity's rules and procedures for accepting donations.

The Charity used its capital to conduct academic research, fund supporting projects, and acquire and protect intellectual property.

The net result of the Charity's operations for the second financial year ending on 30 June 2023 is a deficit of GBP 4,959.88.

II. Report of the Management Committee

A. Research Activities

The Charity is actively engaging in work to provide a deeper understanding of issues related to political and moral philosophy. One of the projects of the Charity involves a clear conceptual backing of oppression to contemporary emancipatory movements, cutting through the rhetoric and exposing the underlying reality of the oppressed.

In February 2022, we have offered a grant ("Grant") for a period of 6 months to two research fellows to build on the academic work of Dr. Rachelle Bascara. In particular, the paper "Towards a Unified Theory of Oppression" on oppression served as a basis to complete at least two academic working papers on the topic directed at publication in an internationally recognized, peer-reviewed journal in philosophy or a related field. The Grant's aim was to further clarify, by analysis, the meaning of statements and concepts, providing for quality and rigor in arguments.

The first research fellow was a PhD candidate at the Doctoral School of Political Science, Public Policy, and International Relations, Central European University, Vienna ("Researcher 1"). The focus of the work of Researcher 1 is on the inter-generational transformation of the colonized body, with a passion for probing the roots of social, political, and economic inequalities.

As work for the Charity, the first paper of Researcher 1 investigated the concept of normalization of oppression. Researcher 1 looked into the desire of human beings to find some form of normalcy in certain situations that force them to adopt routines that may transform the abnormal into the normal. Moreover, Researcher 1 examined the difference between normalization and internalized oppression.

For the second paper, Researcher 1 dealt with different kinds of privileges associated with groups of people in terms of oppression; there are groups of people who can be regarded as ontologically privileged and then there are people who have the epistemic privilege. Researcher 1 argued that the ontological and epistemological privileges overlap with each other at certain junctures and are not always mutually exclusive within oppressive settings. In other words, within the oppressed groups, there is often a standpoint of epistemic privilege rooted in the everyday experiences of the oppressed. While ontological privilege is often associated with the oppressors who have the means, resources, and entitlement to arbitrarily interfere and harm other groups, within the oppressed groups there can exist some form of ontological privilege.

Our second research fellow earned his PhD in Political Theory at the Central European University in Vienna ("Researcher 2"). The doctoral research of Researcher 2, "Liberalism and Exploitation", articulates three axes, a critique of the dominant concept of exploitation as price disequilibrium; an address of the analytic Marxist critique of capitalism; and a redefinition of liberal anticapitalism through the concept of exploitation.

The main approach of Researcher 2 is analytic philosophy. For the first paper, Researcher 2 explored the duties of the oppressors when facing oppression and injustice given coordination problems and epistemic limitations.

For the second paper, Researcher 2 investigated the concept of structural injustice. Researcher 2 argued that structural injustice may give some results in understanding what oppression is, however, the concept is ill-suited in various economic cases because it is built on the misguided assumption that poverty is evidence for injustice or oppression.
