Structure, governance and management

Originally established in 1975 as Berkshire Family History Society, Berkshire Family History Society CIO is registered with the Charity Commission (Registered Charity Number 1204390) as a Charitable Incorporated Organisation.

Constitution

The Society's constitution was written in 2023 to reflect the change to a CIO. This new constitution was adopted in June 2023 by the membership. Trustees will keep the constitution under active review and are satisfied that it remains fully consistent with contemporary requirements and that it properly guides what the charity does and how it operates.

Executive Committee, Officers and Trustees

An Executive Committee, comprising no more than 15 Society members, manages the Society's affairs. There are four designated officer posts — chairman, vice-chairman, secretary and treasurer. These officers and the additional Trustees form the Society's Executive Committee.

Society members elect the officers and other Trustees at the Annual General Meeting. Each Trustee serves a term of one year and, if eligible, retiring Trustees may be re-elected for a further year. No Trustee may serve more than five consecutive terms without then taking a break from office.

The combination of direct election and set limits to length of Trustee service safeguards continuity and integrity of Society management. It also serves to re-energise it, introducing a small number of new Trustees into the management group each year.

In the year ending 30 April 2025, the Executive Committee met on eight occasions, including a special meeting to approve full year accounts before the Annual General Meeting and once to discuss the Society's relocation.

Sub-committees

The Society constitution permits the Executive Committee to delegate certain functions to sub-committees. In every case, such sub-committees contain at least one Trustee in their permanent membership together with other Society members. All sub-committees are responsible to the Executive Committee and report to it regularly on their activities and discussions. They also have clearly defined Terms of Reference which are regularly reviewed.

Projects and Publications Sub-committee (PPC)

Project work represents a major part of the Society's charitable activity. The purpose of this committee is to manage and direct the Society's project work to agreed standards. Key tasks of the PPC include setting project priorities and overseeing the indexing and transcribing of original Berkshire records, the checking of those indexes and transcriptions against original records and bringing project outputs to timely publication in an appropriate form for the benefit of members and the wider public.

Research Zone Sub-committee (RZC)

The Society's premises at The Centre for Heritage and Family History in Reading Central Library, provides Berkshire's foremost facility for family history research. The Centre provides a wide range of online and traditional resources that are regularly used by members of the public and Society members and it also serves as an educational facility.

The Research Zone Committee is responsible for ensuring the efficient day-to-day operation of the services and facilities of the Centre to ensure that the needs and expectations of present-day family historians are recognised and satisfied effectively.

Education and Events Sub-committee

This group focuses on the organisation and delivery of events that promote understanding of social, local and family history through regular series of talks, walks, workshops and courses. This group also arranges for Berkshire Family History Society to be represented at fairs and open days. The group reports its activities and plans to the Executive Committee.

Marketing and Communications Sub-committee (incorporating the Website Team)

This group oversees the design and functionality of the Society's signage and promotional material. The group feeds back to the Executive Committee regularly. The Website Team, originally raised to create the Society's new website and one for its shop (run by its subsidiary – Berkshire Family History Enterprises), now continues to develop the websites. It also, within its part of the Marketing and Communications Group, continues to produce regular email newsletters to members.

IT Working Group

This group manages the IT purchases and infrastructure for the Society including AV, telephony and connectivity into The Centre, with the exception of the website, which is managed by the Marketing and Communications Group (above). It also identifies, tests and costs the implementation of third party software; and manage the Society's email delivery systems. The Group will develop policies, practices and procedures and how-to-guides relative to the Society IT equipment, including security of data. The Group reports its activities and findings to the Executive Committee.

Branches and Branch Sub-committees

The constitution empowers the Executive Committee to set up Branches to further the objectives of the Society. The Society has six local branches that are active across the historic Royal County of Berkshire. Branch Committees – nominated and elected by local members at their respective annual meetings – run these branches and report to the Executive Committee on their activities. From their Branch Committee members, each branch proposes a representative for election at the Society AGM to serve as a Society Trustee and to represent that branch on the Executive Committee for the next year. Each Branch Committee thus contains at least one Trustee member.

Policies and Procedures Sub-committee

This group is tasked with ensuring that all our policies and procedures are rigorous and current. They look at the formation of new policies or procedures should they be necessary to the effective and lawful work of the Society. The Group reports directly to the Executive Committee.

Volunteers

Day-to-day activities, such as staffing The Centre for Heritage and Family History, assisting researchers, and indexing and transcribing of records — to give three examples — are all undertaken by volunteers, none of whom receive remuneration for their work. There are no employees or paid staff.

Like many voluntary organisations, the Society finds increasing difficulty in attracting and retaining a sufficiently large core of committed helpers to ensure that it continues to function effectively and, more importantly, to tackle the multiple challenges of today's operating environment. The Society, its membership and the wider public are all indebted to that small group of volunteers that continues to take responsibility for a disproportionate number of the tasks that the Society has to address if it is to remain a meaningful and successful organisation.

Berkshire Family History Enterprises Ltd (BFHE)

BFHE was a trading company wholly owned by the Society and registered with Companies House, Number 04733795. As of 1 April 2024, Berkshire Family History Enterprises was reincorporated back into Berkshire Family History Society CIO. From that date it became a subgroup of the Society, reporting to the Executive Committee 6 times a year.

Any stock and monies have been incorporated into the Society accounts.

Risk Assessment

Financial and other major risks to which the Society and its operations could be exposed are subject to regular and ongoing assessment. Established procedures are in place to manage those risks and these are kept under active review.

During the year under review the Trustees have continued to monitor the handling and storage of personal information (UK General Data Protection Regulation 2021). This led to a review of our procedures and updating of our current policies regarding Data Protection.

In addition to this we took the opportunity to review all our policies regarding health and safety, and risk assessed our premises to ensure a safe environment for our volunteers and visitors.

Public benefit

The Trustees give full and careful consideration to their obligations under the Charities Act, 2011 (consolidating earlier legislation) and the Charities (Protection and Social Investment) Act 2016, to report on public benefit, and to do so in accordance with current Charity Commission guidance.

The principal benefits provided by Berkshire Family History Society fall within two primary descriptions contained in Section 3 of the Charities Act, 2011:

- ❖ advancement of education — in the fields of genealogy and family history; and
- ❖ advancement of the arts, culture, heritage or science — and particularly the advancement of related heritage issues

Its activities also contribute to improvement of the historic environment and to heritage conservation. The Society's first objective (see below) addresses public education. Family history research remains one of the most popular interests for people of all ages, backgrounds and nationalities. Many who set out to research their family's ancestry do not always have the understanding, research expertise, perspectives and skills that are needed to conduct research effectively. The skill set and experience required to find and to prove family links and connections are not easily acquired without ready access to traditional and online resources, and to informed help, support and advice — all of which Berkshire Family History Society is well positioned and able to offer.

The Society's second objective addresses public benefit directly, for present and future generations. That benefit derives from all that the Society does to help and to support the preservation, care and responsible use of the archival heritage of the historic Royal County of Berkshire.

This report illustrates how the Society has delivered public benefit in the past year.

- ❖ benefits are readily available to all members of the public — in Berkshire and further afield
- ❖ benefits are easy to access for many — at The Centre for Heritage and Family History, centrally located in Reading
- ❖ benefits are delivered actively to local Berkshire communities, through an extensive programme of branch meetings, events at The Centre for Heritage and Family History and outreach events
- ❖ benefits are made available, wherever practicable, free of charge at the point of delivery*

* Where the Society has paid to subscribe to key products and services from outside organisations, a user fee may be payable. Such fees are nominal and make only a modest contribution towards offsetting the costs incurred in providing the service.

Central and local government funding continues to fall for local and national archive services, libraries (including local studies), heritage events and continuing adult education. The Trustees seek to ensure that, whenever practicable, services provided by the Society take due account of the ramifications of local changes in levels of public funding and support. The Society seeks to deliver services of good value to all family historians — wherever their research interests may lay, whatever the extent of their research experience and whether or not they are Society members.

Throughout the past year we have continued to run face-to-face activities, as well as maintaining, and even expanding, our online activities for the public benefit. This has enabled us to continue to attract a new audience from all over the UK and overseas, as well as re-engaging with previous audiences who were not able to access online offerings.

Objectives and Activities

Objectives

The objectives of the Society are:

To advance education of the public in research into family history and genealogy, primarily but not exclusively within the boundaries of the pre-1974 Royal County of Berkshire;

and

To work to promote the preservation, transcription, indexing and ready public accessibility of related records and information.

Activities: Public benefit

This section summarises where the Society's efforts have been directed in the year under review:

- ❖ managing The Centre for Heritage and Family History in Reading to ensure that Berkshire's foremost facility for family history research remains compliant with any prevailing guidance regarding public health issues
- ❖ facilitating the continuation of one out of four of our paid for family history website subscriptions to be available to members from their homes, outside of our Centre for Heritage Family History opening hours, enabling personal family history research on a local, national and international scale
- ❖ benefits are made available, wherever practicable, free of charge at the point of delivery*
- ❖ organising meetings each month either online or face-to-face, covering our six branches in the historic county of Berkshire — at Abingdon, Bracknell, Newbury, Reading, Windsor and Computer — open to all
- ❖ monthly evening informal sessions online to discuss and enlighten on particular topics
- ❖ holding online and face-to-face advice sessions (all free-of-charge events)
- ❖ supporting community organised events, including Heritage Open Days
- ❖ giving talks and presentations on family history research to community organisations
- ❖ producing and publishing a 44-page quality quarterly journal — Berkshire Family Historian
- ❖ publishing a bi-weekly email newsletter for our members and on alternate weeks a bi-weekly events newsletter for members and non-members
- ❖ maintaining an online forum, to host a valuable interchange of questions, answers, news and ideas for Society members worldwide
- ❖ continuing activities in an online format as well as running face-to-face events, thus maintaining the accessibility to those living at a distance from Berkshire.

Activities: Public education

- ❖ providing, maintaining and pro-actively developing a website berksfhs.org. This was constantly under review to ensure that it was up to date, made full use of the latest technology and provided a pleasant and easy user experience. It offers substantial free content on general research principles, research in Berkshire, and on Society activities
- ❖ utilising social media (X (formerly Twitter) and Facebook) to reach family and local historians
- ❖ maintaining the Berkshire pages of GENUKI (UK and Ireland Genealogy) a virtual reference library for Berkshire local and family history research interests
- ❖ providing online workshops, courses, talks, and special interest groups designed to increase knowledge of family, local and social history

- ❖ answering questions and providing one-to-one online and in-person advice session, as well as via telephone or email or on social media

Activities: Preservation, transcription, indexing, public accessibility of information

This section summarises where the Society's efforts have been directed in the year under review:

- ❖ indexing and transcribing of original records, including parish register data and historic newspaper articles, for publication in CD format, downloaded PDF, and online; this greatly reduces the need for frequent or direct access to fragile original documents, and enables wider and improved access to such records
- ❖ recording, photographing and mapping memorial inscriptions, including war memorials, across the county, and publishing this information so as to preserve details for future generations; this is important as many monuments and inscriptions are unlikely to survive due to headstones being moved, eroded by weather and pollution, or vandalised
- ❖ securing online publication of the Society's transcriptions on findmypast (previously DC Thomson Family History) website, with support from the Royal Berkshire Archives (formerly Berkshire Record Office)
- ❖ maintaining The Centre for Heritage and Family History, run by Society members, where visitors may access worldwide online resources, CD datasets, microfilm records, and a library of printed material
- ❖ providing a general source of advice on family history matters to all
- ❖ representing family history and genealogical interests on local bodies, including the Standing Conference on Archives for Berkshire
- ❖ providing an online shop retailing Society publications and specialist items from other sources
- ❖ maintaining and continually improving a digital service (YourTrees) for our members to upload their family trees for viewing by other members
- ❖ providing free replacement baptism registers to Berkshire's smaller churches, in conjunction with the Royal Berkshire Archives (formerly Berkshire Record Office), to enable them to deposit their longstanding, but not yet full, registers for safekeeping with the Royal Berkshire Archives

Achievements in the year ending 30 April 2025

The achievements of the Society during the past year are set out below:

- ❖ retaining our Society President, who has immense standing within the Berkshire, and national, community

The Trustees would like to record their recognition and appreciation of the contribution made by those volunteers and of the level of support they bring to the Society, its products and services.

Financial review

Incoming resources

Total Society income in the year to 30 April 2025 was £47,310 (LY£48,403).

Our overall total income decreased from the 2023/2024 figure, this change is attributable to a decrease in the income from donations.

A small income from Gift Aid came through in the year in question. There was no donation (LY £2,680) from Berkshire Family History Enterprises. Interest in print publications has continued to show a slight downturn during the year.

Royalty income from online publication of Society transcriptions has reduced slightly.

Income from events has notably increased by nearly 28%.

Resources expended

Overall, Society income was less than the operating costs of £49,811 (LY £64,726) to generate a loss of £2,501 (LY £16,323). This is primarily due to reduced spending on our IT equipment as upgrades were completed in 2023/2024. There was a decrease in the cost of subscription packages for use within The Centre for Heritage and Family History. Since the last report we have continued to be settled in our premises at The Centre for Heritage and Family History, within Reading town centre. Unfortunately, we are aware that we will need to move premises within the next year.

The objectives remain to cover all forecast management, administrative and support costs incurred by the Society and to replace or upgrade Society assets when indicated.

Financial Reserves

It is Society policy to maintain a general reserve that is at least equivalent to a minimum of twelve months' unrestricted fund expenditure at prevailing levels.

In addition, the Society seeks to generate sufficient income to enable support to be given to deserving local archival initiatives and projects at the Trustees' discretion and to allow for support of specific educational projects.

The Trustees consider this to be the proper level at which to preserve the Society's financial integrity.

Trustees actively review all elements of the Society's cumulative financial performance, including expenditure against annually agreed pre-approval limits, on a bi-monthly basis.

The Trustees appreciate the current reserves are maintained at 33 months expenditure. As we have to look at relocating in the next financial year, due to closure of the building in which we lease space, we are maintaining extra high reserves to help cover additional costs such as solicitors and surveyors fees. We are also aware that going forward our expenditure on premises will be higher.

Looking forward

As the UK economy continues to suffer in uncertain times, the Trustees recognise the scale of the challenge to maintain or, better still, to increase income from membership fees, donations, and the provision of educational events available to all.

The Trustees appreciate that family history research is not an inexpensive pastime. They accept that the Society must invest more in effective, wider-reaching public and member promotion to create and raise awareness of its services. The Society has also to work to counter a mistaken belief among many researchers that online publishers now offer all that they need for successful research.

The skill mix required by family history societies from their volunteers is widening steadily, particularly in applications of information technology in the research process itself and in the Society's management. Where such skills cannot be found readily from within the Society's volunteer group, the Trustees acknowledge that they may well have to consider non-member volunteers or paying to acquire necessary technical skill sets.

The Trustees have consciously held back from giving major financial support to archival initiatives in the year in question. Future potential projects are regularly discussed in outline with Royal Berkshire Archives.

The Trustees are aware that the Society will need to move premises, most likely within the next year, due to the closure of the building we currently occupy. The aim is that this will not impact a majority of the Society's activities, but it is anticipated there will be a significant financial impact.

Not least, Trustees recognise that returns from the Society's investments are likely to remain at very modest levels in the near to medium term. Any realistic opportunities to improve on those returns will be kept under active review.

Looking forward, the Berkshire Family History Society will seek to broadly maintain current levels of income, at the same time continuing to explore wider applications of technology to contain increases in costs likely to be seen in traditional areas of expenditure.

Planning for 2025/2026

The Trustees have identified ten key tasks and initiatives for the coming year:

- ❖ to seek and secure future premises for the Society actively
- ❖ to maintain current rates of indexing and transcribing of original Berkshire records and, consistent with high quality data standards, publishing further transcriptions of Berkshire baptisms, marriages and burials as 'state of the art' CDs, data downloads and also online
- ❖ to continue developing the Society website, by extending content, developing online membership services, and embracing access implications for mobile devices. Also strengthening evaluation techniques to make increased use of traditional and electronic media to raise awareness of the Society and its products and services in order to increase public support and sustain membership numbers
- ❖ to build on the programme of regular outreach activities across the historic Royal County of Berkshire to increase the Society's public visibility and public interaction, while striving to maintain and bolster online alternatives for those who are out-of-county
- ❖ to continue to develop education and information services that can facilitate greater engagement between the Society, other family historians and other historians
- ❖ to secure additional volunteers, some of whom will have particular specialist skills, and all of whom have a genuine commitment to help to drive forward the next stages of the Society's development
- ❖ to continue supporting a sub-committee structure which helps establish the expectations of family historians and prepare to meet those expectations, incorporating and developing in detail some of the initiatives described above
- ❖ to review the structure and scope of the sub-committees supporting the Trustees Executive Committee
- ❖ to organise and host more online Berkshire Heritage Fairs in association with the Berkshire Local History Association
- ❖ to organise a one day conference and series of associated visits to celebrate the Society's 50th anniversary

BERKSHIRE FAMILY HISTORY SOCIETY

Independent examiner's report

I report on the accounts of Berkshire Family History Society for the year ended 30 April 2025, which are set out on the following seven pages.

Respective responsibilities of trustees and examiner

The charity's trustees are responsible for the preparation of the accounts. The charity's trustees consider that an audit is not required (under section 144 of the Charities Act 2011 (the 2011 Act) and that an independent examination is needed.

It is my responsibility to:

- examine the accounts (under section 145 of the 2011 Act)
- follow the procedures laid down in the General Directions given by the Charity Commission (under section 145(5)(b) of the 2011 Act)
- state whether particular matters have come to my attention.

Basis of independent examiner's report

My examination was carried out in accordance with the General Directions given by the Charity Commission. An examination includes a review of the accounting records kept by the charity and a comparison of the accounts presented with those records. It also includes consideration of any unusual items or disclosures in the accounts, and seeking explanations from you as trustees concerning any such matters. The procedures undertaken do not provide all the evidence that would be required in an audit and consequently no opinion is given as to whether the accounts present a 'true and fair view' and the report is limited to those matters set out in the statement below.

Independent examiner's statement

In connection with my examination, no matter has come to my attention:

1. which gives me reasonable cause to believe that in any material respect the trustees have not met the requirements
 - to keep accounting records in accordance with section 130 of the 2011 Act
 - to prepare accounts which accord with the accounting records and comply with the accounting requirements of the 2011 Act
- or 2. to which, in my opinion, attention should be drawn in order to enable a proper understanding of the accounts to be reached.

1.6 Tangible fixed assets and depreciation

1.7 Interest Receivable

Interest on funds held on deposit is included when receivable and the amount can be measured reliably by the charity; this is normally upon notification of the interest paid or payable by the bank.

1.8 Debtors

Prepayments are valued at the amount prepaid net of any trade discounts due.

1.9 Cash at bank and in hand

Cash at bank and in hand includes cash and short term highly liquid investments with a short maturity of three months or less from the date of acquisition or opening of the deposit or similar account.

Liabilities are recognised when there is an obligation at the balance sheet date as a result of a past event, it is probable that a transfer of economic benefit will be required in settlement, and the amount of the settlement can be estimated reliably. Liabilities are recognised at the amount that the charity estimates it will pay to settle the debt or the amount it has received as advanced payment for goods or services it must provide.

1.11 Financial Instruments

The charity only has financial instruments of a kind that qualify as basic financial instruments. Basic financial instruments are initially recognised at transaction value and subsequently measured at their settlement value.
