Structure, Governance and Management

Living Potential Foundation is a Charitable Incorporated Organisation (CIO). The charity hires the services of 1 part-time bookkeeper and is supported by 5 volunteers.

Trustee appointment method: There must be a minimum of three trustees. Trustees are appointed by resolution of the trustees and can serve for a three-year term. They may apply for re-election after three years but after the second term they must wait 12 months before applying for a third term of office.

Reserves policy: The charity's policy is to hold at least £15,000 in reserves to cover three months of core operating costs and grant commitments.

Organisational structure: The trustees are responsible for the overall management of the charity and are assisted by a number of volunteers who raise donations and promote courses that are in accordance with the charity's objectives.

Objectives and Activities

The objectives of the charity are:

(1) to advance the education of the general public, by providing and assisting in the provision of courses, workshops, lectures, events, and other learning opportunities including residential courses and retreats on topics that will help advance them in life and develop their skills, capacities and capabilities to enable them to participate in society as mature and responsible individuals; and

(2) to preserve and protect physical and mental health, particularly, but not exclusively of women and young people by providing activities and holistic programmes.

Main activities during the year:

As a new charity the trustees have had to focus on setting up the legal and administration requirements for the charity, including establishing a better bookkeeping system.

The charity succeeded in obtaining several generous grants for LPF's building project's capital fund, known as the LPF Build fund (see note 4), and others that have enabled LPF to offer on-going residential programmes for women's health, wellbeing and self-development.

In accordance with our charitable purposes for the public benefit, residential, day and on-line courses have been held in UK. Topics included a range of health issues, art and life, relationships and emotions, our relationship with creation – a modern and ancient perspective, free will and determinism, yoga and meditation for health and wellbeing, etc. We have had very good feedback from these courses and currently have over 370 people registered on our mailing list. Although the courses were promoted and provided by personnel acting on behalf of LPF, the finances were operated by other charities with similar objects to LPF.

Public Benefit Statement

The trustees confirm compliance with the Charities Act 2011 guidance on public benefit.
