- the charity's organisational structure and any wider network with which the charity works;
- relationship with any related parties;
- trustees' consideration of major risks and the system and procedures to manage them.

MILA has in place a conflict of interest policy – this may be found at <https://mila.org.uk/wp-content/uploads/2025/08/MILA-conflict-of-interest-policy.pdf>

Section C Objectives and activities

Summary of the objects of the charity set out in its governing document

The objects of MILA are for the public benefit to advance the education of the public (including marginalised and under-represented groups) on the subject of media and information literacy in particular, but not exclusively, by (a) furthering their skill and ability to access and engage with media and information and developing their understanding of media and information literacy, and (b) promoting collaboration and research on all aspects of the subject and publishing the useful results.

Summary of the main activities undertaken for the public benefit in relation to these objects (include within this section the statutory declaration that trustees have had regard to the guidance issued by the Charity Commission on public benefit)

MILA's activities undertaken for the public benefit are structured around three broad strands, as set out in its Mission and Strategy (<https://mila.org.uk/about-us/>):

1. Advocacy for media and information literacy, including partnership-building; public/media engagement; political engagement and influencing; contributing to policy development.
2. Capacity-building, including building a knowledge hub; practitioner training; embedding media and information literacy into school and college curricula; networking.
3. Research, including systematic review; bringing the evidence base together; mapping existing activity; alignment of existing models and approaches; participating in or facilitating targeted research projects; developing evaluation and/or impact frameworks for media and information literacy.

For these activities, MILA serves as an enabler and facilitator. It focuses on fostering dialogue between the large number of organisations and initiatives in the UK with and interest in media and information literacy, and on generating collaborations covering the three strands.

Additional details of objectives and activities (Optional information)

You may choose to include further statements, where relevant, about:

- policy on grantmaking;
- policy programme related investment;
- contribution made by volunteers.

None.

Section D

Achievements and performance

Summary of the main achievements of the charity during the year

MILA was registered as a charity on 04/12/ 2023, so this report covers its first full year from 01/04/2024 to 31/03/2025 as well as the four-month period between its registration and the start of the year in April 2024.

This has been a foundational period, during which MILA started to establish itself by gradually building up its network of contacts and partnerships, making itself known and offering its expertise as outlined in section C. On that basis, initial achievements have included:

- Establishing a database of organisations and individuals with which MILA is developing relationship (over 300 names by the end of the reporting period), including third sector organisations, public agencies, universities and commercial undertakings.
- Running a webinar as part of UNESCO's Global Media and Information Literacy week in November 2024, and a stakeholder event in January 2025 with around thirty organisations.
- Developing a draft framework to illustrate how media and information literacy is relevant to people's aspirations.
- Collaborating with Bournemouth University on an evaluation framework for media literacy interventions.
- Commissioning and overseeing a study on the impact of information literacy on society (NB this project was funded by some of our partners).
- Undertaking an evaluation of media literacy teaching resources/lesson plans for Parent Zone (NB income for this project was not generated until FY 2025-2026).
- Responding to public consultations on Ofcom's Media Literacy Strategy and on the Department for Education's review of the school curriculum.

During the reporting period, MILA has operated solely on volunteer basis, without paid staff, relying on the pro bono effort and time put in by its trustees and other partners. Inevitably, this has meant that progress has sometimes been slow and hampered by the lack of financial resources. MILA has not raised any funds during the reporting period, although that is changing for the following reporting period in 2025-2026.

Section D Achievements and performance

Section E Financial review

Brief statement of the charity's policy on reserves

MILA does not hold any reserves and does not have a reserves policy.

Details of any funds materially in deficit

Not applicable

Further financial review details (Optional information)

You may choose to include additional information, where relevant about:

- the charity's principal sources of funds (including any fundraising);
- how expenditure has supported the key objectives of the charity;
- investment policy and objectives including any ethical investment policy adopted.

MILA did not engage in any financial activity during the reporting period, nor did it have any assets or liabilities. In future, MILA expects to raise funds through project grants and consultancy work. It does not raise funds from the public.
