Trustees' Annual Report

For the year ended 31 May 2025

Objectives and Activities

The Gallery of Living History exists to preserve, interpret and promote social and cultural history through exhibitions, artistic collaborations and community engagement. The charity seeks to increase public understanding of diverse histories and lived experiences by creating accessible exhibitions and educational opportunities.

The trustees have had due regard to the Charity Commission's public benefit guidance when planning the charity's activities and are satisfied that the work undertaken during the year furthered the charity's charitable purposes for the public benefit.

Achievements and Performance

During the year ended 31 May 2025, the Gallery of Living History focused its resources on the delivery of Black Sound Coventry, a major heritage project exploring more than a century of Black British music and its contribution to the social and cultural history of the United Kingdom.

The project was delivered in partnership with Coventry University and curated by Scott Leonard, founder of the Gallery of Living History, together with music historian and author Lloyd Bradley. Building on the success of previous exhibitions in London, Black Sound Coventry represented the first presentation of the exhibition outside the capital, extending its reach to new audiences and creating a model for future regional partnerships.

Hosted in Coventry University's Delia Derbyshire Gallery between January and February 2025, the exhibition explored over 100 years of Black British musical innovation, from the arrival of the Southern Syncopated Orchestra in 1919 through to contemporary artists. The Coventry edition was expanded to include material documenting the city's own internationally significant contribution to Black British music, sound system culture and the development of Two Tone.

In line with the charity's mission to recover and share overlooked histories, Black Sound Coventry celebrated musicians, promoters, producers, venue owners, community organisers and audiences whose contributions have often been absent from mainstream historical narratives. The exhibition demonstrated how Black music has shaped Britain's cultural, social and creative life and encouraged visitors to view this history as an integral part of the nation's shared heritage.

The exhibition formed part of a wider programme of public engagement including panel discussions, film screenings, question-and-answer sessions and live performances examining Coventry's sound system heritage, pirate radio, the underground Black recording industry and the importance of community spaces in nurturing musical innovation.

A particular highlight was the Heritage Collection Day, where members of the public brought photographs, records, concert tickets, posters and other objects connected with Coventry's Black music history. These items were digitally captured together with the personal stories behind them, creating a lasting digital archive for future generations and enabling local communities to play an active role in preserving their heritage.

The project attracted significant public and media interest, raising awareness of the Gallery of Living History and demonstrating the value of collaborative partnerships between charities, universities, cultural organisations and local communities. Trustees believe the project successfully advanced the charity's objectives through education, heritage preservation and community engagement.

Financial Review

The charity's income during the year was applied principally towards the planning, production and delivery of the Black Sound Coventry exhibition together with the administrative costs required to support the charity's operations. The trustees monitored expenditure carefully to ensure that charitable funds were used efficiently and in accordance with the charity's objectives.

Reserves Policy

The trustees aim to maintain sufficient unrestricted reserves to meet ongoing governance and administrative commitments while providing flexibility to develop future projects. The level of reserves is reviewed annually.

Plans for Future Periods

Following the successful delivery of Black Sound Coventry, the trustees are reviewing the possibility of developing further exhibitions and collaborative projects that promote underrepresented histories and widen public engagement with living history. However, the lack of sufficient funding to engage any staff have put an undue burden on volunteers to deliver projects and the trustees are also considering the orderly closure of the charity if sufficient funding cannot be obtained.

Trustees' Responsibilities

The trustees are responsible for preparing the Trustees' Annual Report and financial statements in accordance with applicable law and United Kingdom Accounting Standards. They are responsible for maintaining adequate accounting records, safeguarding the assets of the charity and taking reasonable steps to prevent and detect fraud and other irregularities. The trustees confirm that they have paid due regard to adopted policies and to all relevant regulations and legislation.

Approved by the trustees.

Set out on pages

I report to the trustees on my examination of the accounts of the above charity ("the Trust") for the year ended 31 / 05 / 2025

Responsibilities and basis of report

As the charity's trustees, you are responsible for the preparation of the accounts in accordance with the requirements of the Charities Act 2011 ("the Act").

I report in respect of my examination of the Trust's accounts carried out under section 145 of the 2011 Act and in carrying out my examination, I have followed all the applicable Directions given by the Charity Commission under section 145(5)(b) of the Act.

examiner's statement

I have completed my examination. I confirm that no material matters have come to my attention in connection with the examination which gives me cause to believe that in, any material respect:

- the accounting records were not kept in accordance with section 130 of the Charities Act; or
- the accounts did not accord with the accounting records; or
- the accounts did not comply with the applicable requirements concerning the form and content of accounts set out in the Charities (Accounts and Reports) Regulations 2008 other than any requirement that the accounts give a 'true and fair' view which is not a matter considered as part of an independent examination.

I have no concerns and have come across no other matters in connection with the examination to which attention should be drawn in this report in order to enable a proper understanding of the accounts to be reached.
