Section B Structure, governance and management

Description of the charity's trusts

Type of governing document (eg. trust deed, constitution)	Trust deed & constitution
How the charity is constituted (eg. trust, association, company)	Company
Trustee selection methods (eg. appointed by, elected by)	Elected By Management Team

Additional governance issues (Optional information)

You may choose to include additional information, where relevant, about:

- policies and procedures adopted for the induction and training of trustees;
- the charity's organisational structure and any wider network with which the charity works;
- relationship with any related parties;
- trustees' consideration of major risks and the system and procedures to manage them.

Given the charity's small scale and limited operations to date, trustee induction has been informal. New trustees are provided with the charity's governing document, Charity Commission guidance (including CC3 – The Essential Trustee), and a briefing on the charity's objectives and legal duties. No formal training programme has been adopted, but trustees are encouraged to access external resources as needed

The charity is governed by a board of trustees who meet periodically to oversee activities and ensure compliance. There are no paid staff or operational subcommittees. The charity does not currently work within a wider network or umbrella organisation, but remains open to collaboration with aligned charities or community groups as activities expand.

The charity has no formal relationships with related parties. Trustees have declared any potential conflicts of interest, and no trustee has received remuneration or reimbursement during the year. All transactions are reviewed to ensure they are in the charity's best interest.

Trustees have considered the principal risks facing the charity, including financial sustainability, governance compliance, and reputational risk. Given the charity's limited income (£500 in donations during the year) and low operational activity, risks are currently minimal. Nonetheless, basic procedures are in place to ensure financial oversight, secure record-keeping, and compliance with reporting obligations. Trustees will review risks annually and adapt controls as the charity grows.

Section C Objectives and activities

Summary of the objects of the charity set out in its governing document

Healing Mankind HMK is established to advance education, health, and community support, particularly for underserved populations in the UK and internationally.

Summary of the main activities undertaken for the public benefit in relation to these objects (include within this section the statutory declaration that trustees have had regard to the guidance issued by the Charity Commission on public benefit)

During its first year of operation, Healing Mankind HMK focused on foundational setup and community engagement. No major projects were undertaken.
