Achievements against objectives set	Para 1.41	During the charity's first operational period, the trustees made substantial progress toward the objectives established at inception. The primary goal for the year was to build the organisational foundations necessary to deliver high-quality support to current and former members of the British Armed Forces and their families. In line with these objectives, the charity successfully completed several key milestones, including establishing its banking facilities, registering with major fundraising platforms, creating and launching its website, and developing an online shop to support trading and fundraising activities.

		To strengthen engagement and future service delivery, the charity developed mental-health-focused art therapy kits and began forming a network of artists whose work supports the charity's mission. Considerable effort was also devoted to expanding the charity's visibility through the creation of social media channels and proactive engagement with the armed forces community. These actions have increased awareness of the charity's aims and enhanced its capacity to deliver impactful support in future periods. The trustees also advanced preparations for the charity's initial fundraising event - the Royal Marines "30-Miler" and secured early donations through crowdfunding and JustGiving campaigns. Collectively, these achievements lay strong foundations for delivering art-based mental health support and establishing community outreach workshops in the coming year, demonstrating clear progress against the charity's early strategic objectives.
Performance of fundraising activities against objectives set	Para 1.41	During the reporting period, the charity made strong progress in delivering its fundraising objectives, which were focused on generating the initial income required to establish the charity's operations and begin preparing for future programme delivery. Fundraising activities were successful across multiple channels, demonstrating both growing public support and increasing awareness of the charity's mission. The charity raised £2,271 through Crowdfunding, providing essential early-stage funding to support the set-up of core functions and operational foundations. In addition, a significant £3,794 was raised via JustGiving, including Gift Aid, in support of the Royal Marines "30-Miler" fundraising event. This campaign not only generated vital income but also strengthened engagement within the armed forces community and broadened the charity's visibility. Further income was secured through the sale of merchandise, generating £477, alongside £320 in regular donations and £9 in bank interest, reflecting the development of diverse income streams. Collectively, these fundraising activities performed well against the objectives set for the first operational period, providing a solid financial base to advance the charity's aims and support the delivery of future art-based mental health initiatives.

Statement explaining the policy for holding reserves stating why they are held	Para 1.22	The trustees have established a reserves policy to ensure that the charity maintains a prudent level of unrestricted funds to safeguard its ability to continue delivering its charitable purposes. Reserves are held to provide financial resilience against unexpected fluctuations in income, to manage operational and financial risks, and to ensure the charity can meet essential commitments as they fall due. This approach reflects the trustees' responsibility to manage resources responsibly and maintain stability in line with Charity Commission guidance. The level of reserves is reviewed annually, taking into account the charity's financial risks, planned activities, and future funding needs. The trustees consider this level appropriate to protect the charity's operations while ensuring that funds are used effectively to advance its charitable objectives.
