Activities

Objects: The charity's objects are: To advance education in the arts, music, and culture, particularly of African and Christian heritage, by organising festivals, workshops, and performances that promote understanding, creativity, and public appreciation. To advance religion for the public benefit by promoting the teachings, music, and worship of the Celestial Church of Christ and other Christian expressions of faith through public events and educational activities. To promote racial harmony and community cohesion for the public benefit by fostering understanding and mutual respect among people of diverse backgrounds through cultural exchange, music, and educational programmes. To relieve poverty and financial hardship among individuals and families, particularly within African and minority communities in the UK, by providing access to support, resources, and charitable aid. To advance the wellbeing of the public by providing community-based activities, food support, and charitable services that encourage social inclusion and positive mental and spiritual health.

Activities: LULI International Festival is a UK-registered charity delivering year-round educational, religious, and community programmes for the public benefit. The charity advances arts, music, culture, and Christian faith education through ongoing training, workshops, and outreach. Public events and festivals form part of programme outcomes, supporting inclusion, wellbeing, and community cohesion.
