Purposes

The advancement of environmental protection and improvement for UK and European wild mammals through

- enabling citizen science camera trapping by school children, enthusiasts, researchers, and the general public
- facilitating the use of data gathered for scientific, policy and management purposes
- enhancing the connection of people to nature and its benefits for health and well-being

Activities

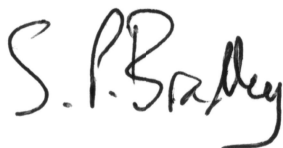

MammalWeb has supported and further developed the web site at www.mammalweb.org, allowing citizen scientists to upload and classify image sequences taken by camera traps. Specific projects that were supported during this period, and who contributed towards funding MammalWeb include:

- National Hedgehog Monitoring Programme, led by People's Trust for Endangered Species (PTES)
- Analysis of data on squirrels, led by Animal and Plant Health Agency (APHA)
- Ecology of Predator Communities, led by St Andrew's university

Compliance

The trustees have complied with the duty in section 4 of the 2006 Act to have due regard to guidance on public benefit published by the Commission
