ACTIVITIES TO FURTHER CHARITABLE PURPOSES FOR PUBLIC BENEFIT

The year 2022-23 was marked by several developments intended to raise the profile and public awareness of BIPS's research programmes and contributions to the study of Iran and the Persianate world in the UK and internationally. The first of these is the inauguration of the 'Flagship' projects – substantial multi-year funding for research that fulfils our own objectives and priorities: currently with a focus on the regions beyond Iran's current borders that contributed to the enrichment of Persian culture. The two projects awarded are on 'The Agricultural sustainability of the Otrar oasis in Kazakhstan, from the 8th to the 18th century', and 'Persian manuscripts between East and West: Britain, India and the circulation of the Persianate literary heritage'. Both engage with broad areas of study concerning Central Asia and India and will involve rich programmes of conferences and publications, indicative also of BIPS's aim to widen our scholarly networks and support research partnerships in these regions.

The second development is the initiation of a major digitisation project, in collaboration with other Schools and Institutes of the British Academy, with an initial focus on the archives of our first director, David Stronach, whose excavation records and supporting materials are currently held in UCLA and being researched by our newly-appointed Stronach Research Fellow, based at York University. Both these initiatives will dominate our work and research expenditure in the coming years.

Unrestricted funds decreased by £4,737 (2022: £4,518) to £244,022 (2022: £248,759). A restricted fund was created in the financial year ended 31 March 2012 in respect of a donation of £4,000 towards funding book publication grants. This fund had a balance of £2,000 (2022: £2,000) as at 31 March 2023. A restricted fund was created in 2013 for advanced language training. There was a balance of £13,260 on this fund as at 31 March 2023 (2022: £13,260). The Bruce Wannell fund was setup in 2022 to fund an annual public lecture in honour of the Iranian Scholar Bruce Wannell. The fund is supported by external individual sponsorship and decreased to £25,693 as at 31 March 2023 (2022: £26,043). The Digitisation fund was a new fund in 2022 which arose from a generous UK donation in the year towards the cost of digitisation of BIPS archive of historical archaeological and research records. The balance on the fund is £6,250 as at 31 March 2023 (2022: £6,250). The designated funds set aside by the trustees for a new motor vehicle and to facilitate travel grants for research students continued to be carried forward.

RISK MANAGEMENT

The trustees have examined the major strategic, business and operational risks to which the charity is exposed and can confirm that systems have been established and are in place to enable the early identification of issues so that the necessary steps can be taken to mitigate those risks.

RESERVES POLICY

It is the policy of the trustees to maintain reserves at a level to ensure obligations relating to restricted funds can be met, to allow funds to be set aside for future investment when the situation eases in Iran, and to maintain free reserves at a level which equates to approximately between three and six months of the total expenditure of the charity. The trustees believe that this provides a sufficient level of funding buffer to cover the expenditure arising in furtherance of the charity's objectives, and in its management and administration.

TRUSTEES' RESPONSIBILITIES

The charity trustees (who are also the directors of The British Institute of Persian Studies for the purposes of company law) are responsible for preparing a trustees' annual report and financial statements in accordance with applicable law and United Kingdom Accounting Standards (United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice).

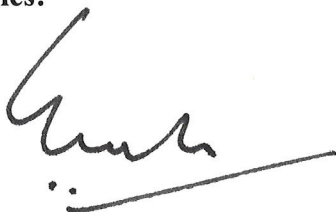

Company law requires the charity trustees to prepare financial statements for each year which give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the charitable company and of the incoming resources and application of resources, including the income and expenditure, of the charitable company for that period. In preparing the financial statements, the trustees are required to:

- select suitable accounting policies and then apply them consistently;
- observe the methods and principles in the Charities SORP;
- make judgements and estimates that are reasonable and prudent;
- state whether applicable UK accounting standards have been followed, subject to any material departures disclosed and explained in the financial statements;
- prepare the financial statements on the going concern basis unless it is inappropriate to presume that the charity will continue in operation.

The trustees are responsible for keeping proper accounting records that disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the charity and to enable them to ensure that the financial statements comply with the Companies Act 2006. They are also responsible for safeguarding the assets of the charity and hence taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

The trustees are responsible for the maintenance and integrity of the corporate and financial information included on the charitable company's website. Legislation in the United Kingdom governing the preparation and dissemination of financial statements may differ from legislation in other jurisdictions.

INDEPENDENT EXAMINER'S REPORT TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE BRITISH INSTITUTE OF PERSIAN STUDIES FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31 MARCH 2023

I report to the charity trustees on my examination of the accounts of the company for the year ended 31 March 2023, which are set out on pages 7 to 20.

Responsibilities and basis of report

As the charity's trustees (and also its directors for the purposes of company law) you are responsible for the preparation of the accounts in accordance with the requirements of the Companies Act 2006 ('the 2006 Act').

Having satisfied myself that the accounts of the company are not required to be audited under Part 16 of the 2006 Act and are eligible for independent examination, I report in respect of my examination of your charity's accounts as carried out under section 145 of the Charities Act 2011 (the '2011 Act'). In carrying out my examination I have followed the Directions given by the Charity Commission under section 145(5)(b) of the 2011 Act.

Independent examiner's report

I have completed my examination. I confirm that no matters have come to my attention in connection with the examination giving me cause to believe:

- (1) accounting records were not kept in respect of the company as required by section 386 of the 2006 Act; or
- (2) the accounts do not accord with those accounting records; or
- (3) the accounts do not comply with the accounting requirements of section 396 of the 2006 Act other than any requirement that the accounts give a 'true and fair' view which is not a matter considered as part of an independent examination; or
- (4) the accounts have not been prepared in accordance with the Charities SORP (FRS102).

I have no concerns and have come across no other matters in connection with the examination to which attention should be drawn in this report in order to enable a proper understanding of the accounts to be reached.

These accounts have NOT yet been signed by the accountants.
The name and address of the accountants has therefore been suppressed.

BALANCE SHEET AS AT 31 MARCH 2023 (continued)

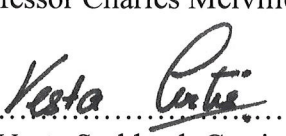

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the special provisions of Part 15 of the Companies Act 2006 relating to small companies.

In preparing the financial statements:

- a) The directors are of the opinion that the company is entitled to the exemption from audit conferred by Section 477 of the Companies Act 2006;
- b) No notice has been deposited under Section 476 of the Companies Act 2006 in relation to its financial statements for the financial year, and
- c) The directors acknowledge their responsibility for:
 - i. Ensuring that the company keeps accounting records which comply with Section 386 of the Companies Act 2006, and
 - ii. Preparing financial statements which give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the company as at the end of the financial year and of its profit or loss for the financial year in accordance with the requirements of Sections 394 and 395, and which otherwise comply with the requirements of the Companies Act 2006.

The accounts were approved and signed on behalf of the Council by:-

Professor Charles Melville - President

Dr Vesta Sarkhosh Curtis – Vice President

Dated 24/10/2023

Company registration number: 00740813

NOTES TO THE ACCOUNTS FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31 MARCH 20231. ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The accounts have been prepared under the historical cost convention, modified by the revaluation of investments. Investments are included at market value.

The financial statements have been prepared to comply with the requirements of the Companies Act 2006, Charities Act 2011, Financial Reporting Standard 102 and the 'Statement of Recommended Practice' (SORP): Accounting and Reporting by Charities Financial Reporting Standard 102. The company is a public benefit entity as defined by Financial Reporting Standard 102.

The trustees consider that there are no material uncertainties about the charity's ability to continue as a going concern.

The accounts are prepared in sterling, being the functional currency of the charity.

Fund accounting

- Unrestricted funds are available for use at the discretion of the trustees in furtherance of the general objectives of the charity. Unrestricted funds include a revaluation reserve representing the restatement of investment assets at market values.
- Designated funds are unrestricted funds earmarked by the Governing Council for particular purposes.
- Restricted funds are subject to restrictions on their expenditure imposed by the donor.

Tangible fixed assets and depreciation

Depreciation has been provided at the following rates, in order to write off the assets over their estimated useful lives:-

Leasehold Buildings	2.5% straight line

The leasehold building was fully depreciated to a £nil net book value as at 31 March 2016. Library books are no longer capitalised but shown as an expense in the statement of financial activities. Furniture and equipment and motor vehicles bought before 1995 were formerly depreciated at 15% and 25% respectively on the reducing balance basis. Those assets have now been fully depreciated. Since 1995 assets purchased by the charity have been expensed through the statement of financial activities. However, if a significant capital expenditure is being proposed, the trustees consider whether this treatment is appropriate in relation to the specific transaction concerned.

Investments

Short term investments are held to generate funds. They are included at market value with gains and losses on revaluation being shown in the statement of financial activities.

All incoming resources are included in the statement of financial activities when the charity is entitled to the income and the amount can be quantified with reasonable accuracy. The following specific policies are applied to particular categories of income:

- Income received by way of grants, donations and gifts is included in full in the statement of financial activities when receivable. Grants, where entitlement is not conditional on the delivery of a specific performance by the Institute, are recognised when the Institute becomes unconditionally entitled to the grant.
- Investment income is included as it accrues.
- Income from charitable trading activities is accounted for when earned.

Expenditure recognition

Expenditure is recognised on an accrual basis as a liability is incurred. Expenditure includes any VAT which cannot be recovered, and is reported as part of the expenditure to which it relates.

Charitable expenditure comprises those costs incurred by the Institute in the delivery of its activities and services for its beneficiaries. It includes both costs that can be allocated directly to such activities and those costs of an indirect nature necessary to support them.

Other costs include those costs associated with meeting the constitutional and statutory requirements of the Institute and include the independent examiners' fees and costs linked to the strategic management of the Institute.

All costs are allocated between the expenditure categories of the statement of financial activities on a basis designed to reflect the use of the resource. All costs are allocated directly to a particular activity.

2. GRANTS FROM GOVERNMENT AND OTHER PUBLIC BODIES

Grants received from government and other public bodies comprised £196,750 from The British Academy for the Humanities and Social Sciences and £6,000 from The Iran Society paid specifically for and on the occasion of bursaries to scholars in the final year of their PhD. The grant from The British Academy has been given on a restricted basis since 2015/16.

14. GENERAL INFORMATION

The Charity is constituted by its memorandum and articles of association. The registered office is 10 Carlton House Terrace, London, England, SW1Y 5AH. The company's registered number is 00740813 and the charity number is 231161.

15. TRANSFERSYear Ended 31 March 2023

A transfer of £6 was made during the year from the unrestricted General fund to the restricted Basic Fund, to cover the small shortfall of grants received in the year.

A transfer of £8,079 was made during the year from the restricted Business Development Fund to the unrestricted General Fund. This was in respect of a retrospective reallocation relating to expenses paid out of the General Fund during the year ended 31 March 2020. The reallocation was agreed by the British Academy.

About the British Institute of Persian Studies

The British Institute of Persian Studies (BIPS) continues to be the UK's foremost learned society dedicated to increasing public knowledge and supporting scholarship on Iran and the wider Persianate world, including South and Central Asia. The Persianate world includes territories historically associated with Persian and Iranian culture and language, these areas are, but not limited to Iran, Afghanistan, Central Asia, Transcaucasia, Iraq, the Persian Gulf littoral and South Asia. BIPS is invested in supporting a range of disciplines in the humanities and social sciences, and subjects include Anthropology, Archaeology, Art, Classics, Cultural Studies, History, Language, Linguistics, Politics, Religious Studies and Sociology.

BIPS is a UK charity and company limited by guarantee, with a self-governing membership organisation, whose members are elected on a three-yearly basis to serve on BIPS Governing Council as trustees of the charity and directors of the company. Most Governing Council members are academics in the field of Persianate studies, but some offer expertise in other areas, as do our co-opted members.

BIPS is one of the British International Research Institutes (BIRI) – a group of research institutes with overseas centres in Europe, Southwest Asia, North and East Africa. The BIRI are financially supported by and headquartered in the British Academy.

BIPS was founded in the UK in 1961 and in Iran in 1963; however the Institute in Tehran remains closed to the public. In the UK, BIPS plays a key role in sustaining the academic vitality and increasing the visibility of the field, by campaigning for greater provision for its study in higher education. BIPS's activities include the biannual awarding of research and travel grants and an extensive programme of workshops, events, lectures, as well as recitals in the UK. BIPS has published its journal, IRAN, every year since 1963. It also publishes the Studies in the History and Culture of the Persianate World Series in conjunction with Bloomsbury/I.B. Tauris and the Archaeological Monograph Series with Oxbow Books.

BIPS has approximately 270 members from around the world. Our membership year runs January to December, but we welcome new member applications at any time. Member benefits include receipt of our journal, IRAN, twice yearly and discounts on other publications and exclusive access to events, (both BIPS and other institutions). BIPS publishes its Annual Review in the Autumn of each year. This is the 2023 Annual Review (covering the financial year 1 April 2022 to 31 March 2023). It is sent to all the Institute's members in hard copy and is available to download from the BIPS website.

Letter from the President, Professor Charles Melville

The year under review, to the end of March 2023, is a bit of a blur. This could be because of the advancing senility of the current president as he nears the end of his term in office, or it could be due to the non-stop pace of activities and developments that reduce down to a sort of Futurist, slightly out of focus moving scene of hurtling sports cars or pounding machinery. Whatever the cause, the effort to freeze this panorama into discrete episodes does lead to a few highlights and also lowlights coming into focus. Let's ignore the lowlights, into which we could also merge the 'business as usual' aspects of our task, the regular holding of meetings of Council, the Management Committee, the Research Committee and Outreach Committee, all of which have been faced with a seemingly steady rise in business requiring attention and decisions and occupy much time and energy of our Trustees. It has been difficult to fulfil the aspiration that Trustees should not serve on more than one committee, but we are looking to increase the number of Trustees in the next round of elections at the AGM in November 2023 and get back to full strength.

One initiative to overcome 'meeting fatigue', especially on zoom, was to hold an Awayday for all members of Council; this took place in Oxford in February 2023 and was a pleasant chance to meet and discuss matters of immediate concern, as well as volunteer visions of where BIPS should be in five years' time – punctuated by an agreeable lunch. This underlined the value of meeting in person and bouncing ideas around, and I hope will be a regular practice in future.

Of the pressing concerns, one is to review and update our policies and strategic documentation to ensure that we remain in conformity with our legal obligations as a charity and in accordance with company law. This work continues and benefits from the cogent advice of John Drake, a co-opted member of Council, and the rich experience of our Honorary Treasurer, Hossein Hamedani.

The highlights reflect the exciting and productive directions in which BIPS's research funding is taking us. First, the inauguration of the 'Flagship' projects – substantial multi-year funding for research that fulfils our own objectives and priorities:

currently with a focus on the regions beyond Iran's current borders that contributed to the enrichment of Persian culture. Both successful applications meet these criteria admirably. Katie Campbell's project on the Agricultural sustainability of the Otrar Oasis in Kazakhstan, from the 8th to the 18th century, and Andrew Peacock's on Persian manuscripts between East and West: Britain, India and the circulation of the Persianate literary heritage, both engage with broad areas of study concerning Central Asia and India and will involve rich programmes of conferences and publications, which we hope will attract further funding. BIPS can thank Richard McClary for his energy and vision in pushing through these initiatives. We naturally remain ready to support smaller grant applications in the usual way.

Secondly, given the importance of pursuing BIPS's programme of digitising its archives along with the Academy's other Research Institutes (the BIRIs) and with a view to participating in shared website platforms, we have received a generous grant from the British Academy to establish a Fellowship named after David Stronach, to carry out research on David's archives and prioritise work on unpublished materials for digitisation and publication. We are lucky to have been able to appoint Dr Gareth Brereton to carry out this work, liaising with Dr Ali Mousavi at the Pourdavoud Center, UCLA, where the archive is stored currently. The Fellowship is hosted at York University with thanks to Richard McClary for facilitating this arrangement. This is envisaged as a long-term project that will require further substantial funding being raised beyond the initial two-year grant from the BA.

BIPS's stated aims to widen our networks to include research in Indian contexts continued with a conference in Kolkata on 1–2 March 2023, on the topic of the Persian Impact on the History, Literature and Culture of Central and South Asia. This was organised by Andrew Peacock on behalf of BIPS, which supported the attendance of speakers from Iran and the UK, together with Mahmood Alam of the Institute of Indo-Persian Studies. The conference provided an opportunity to discuss further collaborations with the IIPS.

There are many other ongoing activities, such as the collaborative Parthian coin project led by Vesta Sarkhosh Curtis for the British Museum and BIPS, and the subject of her AGM lecture in November 2022, as well as ideas for the future, of which BIPS can be proud. As reported in this Review, the Outreach programme is reaching large audiences and continues to investigate new possibilities under Andrew Newman's fertile chairmanship.

We believe that the direction in which we are heading has the approval of the British Academy, with their encouragement to diversify and, to some extent, re-invent ourselves in the changing intellectual, financial and legal frameworks in which we operate, always putting the pursuit of research excellence at the heart of our efforts.

It is a matter of great regret to everyone at BIPS that direct dealings with Iran and opportunities for safe and productive travel there have been so hampered by the continuing deterioration of Anglo-Iranian relations during the year under review. Nevertheless, we maintain regular contact with Tehran, thanks to our Vice-President Vesta Sarkhosh Curtis, and we were delighted to welcome Daneh Kordmahini in London shortly before Christmas; it was a pleasure to meet her and recognise that the Institute is indeed fortunate to be maintained in the safe hands of her and her mother, Sima Mohannak, for whose prudent guidance on our behalf we are extremely grateful.

Richard McClary and Andrew Peacock stood down at the end of the year and I would like to acknowledge their work on BIPS's behalf while on Council and beyond. I am grateful to Dr Shabnam Holliday for taking on the chairmanship of the Research Committee. Imogen Edwards eased into her first year as Executive Officer in trying times, and we owe a great debt to Silvia Ferreri (Outreach and Digitisation Co-ordinator) and Hossein Hamedani for their dedicated response to the endless and often outrageous demands put on their time. Thanks to our Honorary Secretary Narguess Farzad and all Trustees for their continuing support and commitment.

I would like to end with the observation that there is a lot happening at BIPS, a lot that needs to happen, and a conducive environment for those with fire in their bellies for Persian and Iranian studies in the UK and a willingness to promote them at all levels of engagement, from schools' programmes to research at the highest academic level. There are many obstacles to success, of which inadequate funding is only one; we are open to all offers of support and commitment to help fulfil BIPS's ambitious but necessary aspirations to play the leading role in furthering the study of this magnificent but increasingly neglected civilisation.

Research

Umbrella programmes

The Research programme at BIPS is managed by the Research Committee chaired by Shabnam Holliday, Associate Professor in International Relations, University of Plymouth. Dr Holliday replaced Dr Richard Piran McClary as Research Director in March 2023. BIPS thanks Dr McClary for his work as Research Director.

At the end of the financial year 2022-2023, the three Umbrella Programmes focussing on the study of the Ancient, Medieval and Modern Persianate world came to an end. BIPS is grateful to the Programme Directors, Lloyd Llewellyn Jones, Professor in Ancient History at the University of Cardiff, Andrew Peacock, Professor of Middle Eastern and Islamic History at the University of St Andrews, and Shabnam Holliday, for their work over the years and for ensuring the success of the Programmes.

Objects of Empire: Imperial Elites and Material Cultures of Ancient Iran will be credited. The creation of the costumes and the research undertaken will be published in a British Museum press edited volume (forthcoming). A private viewing of the British Museum exhibition, led by its curator Dr James Fraser, for members of BIPS is planned in July 2023.

Finally, arising from the exhibition, and with an underspend contribution from the Outreach Committee, we have prepared four 10-minute videos on Persian and Greek objects from the exhibition aimed at A-level students and undergraduates. The BIPS logo is used. Links to these open-access videos will be placed on the BIPS website.

Thanks to all BIPS colleagues who have worked alongside me over the last five years I have spent on the Research Committee. I look forward to working alongside the Outreach team.

Persianisation and Persianate Cosmopolises in the Medieval World

The theme of the Medieval Research Programme is Persianisation and Persian Cosmopolises, examining the role of Persianate culture across Eurasia. In October 2022 the programme organised a major international conference at St Andrews on the theme of Iran and Persianate Culture in the Indian Ocean World, bringing together researchers from the UK, Iran, US and Europe to look at this important but neglected subject. Chronologically papers ranged from Sasanian engagement in the Gulf and Indian Ocean to Reza Shah's exile to Mauritius, and brought together studies from archaeology, literature, linguistics and history. Geographically papers ranged from studies of the controversy of the medieval Shirazi migration to East Africa to the Iranian role in the Islamisation of the Maldives, to the influence of Persian literature on the intellectual history of Southeast Asia. Other papers examined newly discovered Persian manuscripts bringing to light fresh evidence for Persian engagement in the Indian Ocean. The rich range of themes represented will form the basis for a publication that builds on the work presented at the conference.

Iran and the International in the Modern Period

The Iran and Sovereignty Project, the final part of the Modern Research Project, 'Iran and the International' was launched. This is a collaborative interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary project, led by Dr Shabnam Holliday, that brings together scholars from the UK, the EU, and the USA in the fields of Archaeology, Cultural Studies, Ancient, Medieval and Modern history, Politics, and International Relations.

It explores the complexity of sovereignty in Iran and highlights the importance of 'Area Studies' to address Eurocentrism in the humanities and social sciences. The first part of the project was an online workshop held on 10 and 11 January 2023. The second workshop will be held at the University of Plymouth on 6 and 7 July 2023.

Research, Research Assistant and Travel Grants Programme

About the BIPS Grant Programme

BIPS supports UK-based post-doctoral researchers and UK-based students to carry out humanities and social science research into Iran and the Persianate world, and invites grant applications three times a year, usually in January, April, and October.

BIPS has traditionally supported a broad range of research projects and funded travel for research and conference attendance. This year we have added a new category of grants, the Research Assistant Grants, which have proven to be very popular and opened up a new avenue for funding research.

The Research Grants and Research Assistant Grants, generally up to a maximum of £5,000, can be awarded to applicants who have completed a PhD and hold a research-active position at a UK Higher Educational Institution (HEI). HEIs are usually universities but may also be museums or similar organisations. Research Grants are given for a range of purposes, including fieldwork, archival research and the organisation of conferences, with academic publications as the primary output.

The Research Assistant Grants are designed to allow academics to hire assistants to help develop a research project, allow for the research of an established academic to be supported, with an income to be provided to an early-career scholar or postgraduate student who will conduct the majority of the research.

To qualify for a Travel Grant, applicants must be currently enrolled as a student (undergraduate or postgraduate, including doctoral candidates) at a UK HEI. The awards are limited to £1,200 and are normally awarded to assist with the costs of travel to the Persianate world, in its widest sense, but we may make awards for travel to conferences or to other regions if a strong rationale is made in the application. All grant applications are assessed by the BIPS Research Committee, and their recommendations are then reviewed and ratified by BIPS Council.

At the time of taking their grant, successful applicants must be members of BIPS. Award holders must provide a financial report, for internal use, and a short narrative report that will be uploaded to the BIPS website.

For more information on our current grant rounds see the BIPS website.

In addition to the Research Grants, Research Assistant Grants and Travel Grants, BIPS also administers the Iran Society PhD Bursary of £5,000. This is for students entering their final year of a PhD programme at a UK university.

2022-2023 BIPS Grant Awards

During the financial year 2022-2023 BIPS has awarded a total of twenty-two grants, which have supported important research projects. These cover a broad chronological span and a variety of disciplines, and the Research Assistant Grants continue to prove very successful, with five awarded.

The third, and final, Iran Society Bursary was divided between Sean Strong (Cardiff University) and Friederike Jürcke (University of Cambridge).

In the financial year 2022-2023 the following grants were awarded:

BIPS Flagship Research Project

In 2022, BIPS launched its Flagship Research Project which aimed to fund innovative research projects related to the history, literature and culture of the Iranian world in its widest sense. Two projects were selected. These will run over three years, from April 2023 to March 2026.

Persian Manuscripts between East and West: Britain, India and the Circulation of the Persianate Literary Heritage. This project, led by Professor Andrew Peacock, University of St Andrews, explores British engagement with Persian manuscript culture through British collections of Persian manuscripts, and the British role in forming Indian collections. It contributes to a more nuanced public debate over questions such as the origins and restitution of colonial artefacts by highlighting the complex histories of these manuscripts even before they reached British hands.

Agricultural Sustainability of the Otrar Oasis. This project, led by Dr Katie Campbell (King's College, University of Cambridge), investigates the reasons for population decline in Otrar Oasis in southern Kazakhstan and its agricultural economy. It contributes to a better understanding of a somewhat overlooked part of the Persianate world and will transform our understanding of the agricultural economy at Otrar.

Collaboration between the Iran Society and BIPS

In the third and final year of our joint programme, the Iran Society is pleased to have provided funds to BIPS to award grants to two PhD students to assist them in their final write-up year, when their funds are drying up. The aim was to support students working on subjects that are of general interest.

£5000 was awarded, split between the following students:

Sean Strong (Cardiff University), Generals and Rulers in Theophylact Simocatta's History: Ideals and Practices of Roman and Sasanian Leadership in a Time of Transition.

Friederike Jürcke (Cambridge University), Modelling movement across the Iranian Plateau in the 4th and 3rd millennia BCE.

Sean Strong subsequently gave an excellently polished lecture on his subject to a joint Iran Society/BIPS audience. Those who received awards in previous years have all completed their theses.

The Iran Society is grateful to BIPS for adjudicating the awards and to Imogen Edwards for her efficient organisation of the applications and interviews with the short-listed candidates.

Excavating the Archives: David Stronach's fieldwork in Iran with BIPS

David Stronach OBE FSA (1931 - 2020) was a leading figure in the field of Iranian archaeology and founding Director of the British Institute of Persian Studies. He left behind an extensive archive of his pioneering excavations in Iran, which are currently being digitised at the Pourdavoud Centre at UCLA (a first report on these activities is in the BIPS Annual Review 2022, pp. 18-20). The digitised files are then sent to the UK to be reviewed and catalogued, with the eventual aim of making the digitised archive freely available online via a BIPS hosted website. The archive will also be used to generate new research and scholarly publications.

In March 2023 I travelled to the Pourdavoud Centre at UCLA, where I was kindly hosted by Dr Ali Mousavi, to begin sorting through the wealth of archival material currently held in his office. My task during the initial visit was to examine and organise the archival material in preparation for digitisation and cataloguing. From this initial review, it was evident that the archive contained extensive documentation relating to David Stronach's early excavations with BIPS at the archaeological sites of Pasargadae, Nush-i Jan, Shahr-i Qumis and Yarim Tepe.

Pasargadae, the grand capital of Cyrus the Great, was surveyed and excavated over three field seasons between 1961 and 1963, the results of which significantly advanced our understanding of this important Achaemenid centre. The excavations are well published, most notably in David's substantial final report of 1978, which remains the standard work on the site. The archival material for Pasargadae includes 1,000 slides documenting the excavations that have now been digitised and catalogued in preparation for publication online.

Nush-i Jan is an important Median and Parthian period settlement located in the Malayer plain, which was excavated by David over five field seasons between 1967 and 1977. Related publications include three preliminary reports published in Iran and two monographs covering the architectural remains of the Median period as well as the small finds. Planned volumes on the ceramics, the later Parthian settlement, and a related survey of the Malayer plain remain unpublished. In terms of research and publication potential, the extensive archive for Nush-i Jan - which includes the original field notebooks, registers, drawings, plans and photographs - is of great importance and should be prioritised for digitisation. To date, over 500 negatives documenting the excavations and finds have been digitised alongside a number of field notebooks and registers.

Shahr-i Qumis is an extensive Parthian period site located in north-eastern Iran. David's work at the site, which was co-directed with Dr John Hansman, took place over four field seasons between 1967 and 1978. Related publications include preliminary reports published in JRAS and a more recent paper on the Parthian pottery from Qumis published in Iran. In terms of research potential, a final report has yet to be published and only short reports exist for the final two field seasons. The Shar-i Qumis archive is similarly extensive and comprises the original field notebooks, registers, drawings, plans, photographs, and pottery statistics. A full appraisal of this archive can significantly enhance our understanding of this important Parthian site.

David's early work at Yarim Tepe, a mound located on the Gorgan plain, revealed an archaeological sequence spanning the Late Neolithic through to the Iron Age.

The mound was excavated over two seasons between 1960-62, the results of which remain largely unpublished. On reviewing the available archival material for Yarim Tepe, which again includes much of the original field notebooks, registers, drawings, plans, and photographs, it was decided that the material should be digitised in preparation for a final report on the excavations. To achieve this, I travelled to UCLA for a second time in May to catalogue and collect the Yarim Tepe archive.

Currently, I am in the process of sorting, digitising, and transcribing the available material in preparation for publication. Despite the wealth of material to hand, this is proving to be quite the puzzle, involving the slow but rewarding processes of patching together descriptions, sketches, photographs, and notes – some of which are scribbled on the back of envelopes – to build up a picture of the excavations. Unfortunately, there appears to be some gaps in the documentation. As is often the case with archaeological excavations, the amount of detail recorded can vary considerably between trenches and their respective supervisors. Some field notebooks feature thorough descriptions of the excavations accompanied by drawings, plans and levels. Others contain very little in the way of useful information. Many of the excavation photographs do not have accompanying captions, the subjects of which must be identified by comparing images with plans, sketches, and field descriptions. The same is true of the pottery drawings, which require considerable work before we can start to produce a valuable ceramic sequence for the site. Nevertheless, much progress is being made and the preliminary results look very promising. It is hoped that the publication of this material can make a significant contribute to the field and will provide a fitting tribute to the pioneering work of David Stronach.

The enhancement of BIPS' online presence continued to be of particular importance over this period. Ms Silvia Ferreri spearheaded this process. BIPS now has a growing social media footprint across the most important platforms, as the accompanying data shows.

The monthly BIPS' webinar series continued apace over this past year. We held 11 events on topics ranging from Isfahani households in the Safavid period, manuscripts of the Malaysian-Indonesian world, Persianate culture in the Indian Ocean, urban life in Persianate Rajasthan, and the economic and cultural renaissance of Kartid Herat.

In addition, BIPS continued its collaboration with Durham University with which it organises the Annual Ann Lambton Memorial Lecture. In April 2022 the Lambton Memorial Lecture was delivered by Professor Ali Gheissari on the topic Unequal Treaties and the Question of Sovereignty in Qajar and early Pahlavi Iran. In March 2023, the lecture was Modern Iran: A global history "from below" delivered by Dr Stephanie Cronin.

In June 2022, William Dalrymple in Conversation was the Inaugural Bruce Wannell Memorial Lecture, held at York in partnership with University of York and the Jaipur Literature Festival.

During this year, BIPS (co-) sponsored three conferences in St Andrews, Oxford, and Kolkata. BIPS also collaborated with the Invisible East programme at the University of Oxford to organise a series of five lectures which were live-streamed on the BIPS' Zoom platform. A full list of all BIPS' events over the period can be found on the BIPS website.

The weekly student newsletter, started in March of 2022, also with the assistance of Ms Silvia Ferreri, continued to be circulated over the past year. The newsletter contains news of events, publications, job postings and other academic announcements. Past newsletters can be found in the Newsletter Archive page on the BIPS website.

BIPS is supporting Professor Lloyd Llewellyn-Jones' production of a series of videos in conjunction with the Luxury and Power: Persia to Greece exhibit at the British Museum from May 2023.

Conference Persian Impact on the History, Literature and Culture of Central and South Asia. Kolkata, March 2023

BIPS co-organised a conference on the Persian Impact on the History, Literature and Culture of Central and South Asia, which was held in Kolkata, India on 1-2 March 2023 in conjunction with the Institute for Indo-Persian Studies.

This highly successful conference saw a range of papers stretching from pre-Islamic to modern times delivered by representatives of BIPS, Indian and Iranian scholars, which highlighted to depth and breadth of Persian influences in South Asia.

A number of papers dealt in particular with Indo-Persian manuscripts, which represent a research priority for BIPS. In the future, BIPS hopes to expand its collaboration with the Institute of Indo-Persian Studies to shed further light on this crucial aspect of the broader Persianate world.

Publications

BIPS has continued to be busy with publications with four new volumes to appear in the Persian Studies Series and the Archaeological Monograph Series.

Each year, a new volume of its journal IRAN is published (in two issues, one in the Spring and one in the Autumn). BIPS members receive a hard copy by post as a benefit of membership. An online version is available to members through BIPS's website.

IRAN LX.I and LX.II (2022)

In 2022-23, IRAN was edited by Professor Cameron Petrie and Professor Charles Melville, both Trustees of BIPS. The journal is peer reviewed, and has an international editorial board. It also receives assistance from BIPS Trustees and Honorary Vice Presidents in reviewing submitted articles. For 60 years IRAN has maintained an international reputation for publishing significant academic articles on all aspects of Persianate study (except for modern politics), and in addition to the two issues of the journal that are published in hard copy each year, articles are also available online, and an increasing number are being published Open Access and are thus available to the general public.

Submissions are made online and the guidelines are available on the BIPS's website.

Studies in the History and Culture of the Persianate World Series

BIPS are delighted to announce that we are entering a new publishing collaboration with Bloomsbury/IB Tauris for the publication of this series.

We have two books currently under production with our new partners. One, by Nahid Assemi, is entitled Piety and Politics in Qajar Iran: The Takkiyya Mu'avin al-Mulk in Kermanshah and is a study of an important Qajar architectural monument. The other book is edited by Saeed Talajooy and comprises a collection of essays on the Iranian playwright and cinematographer Bahram Beyzaei, entitled Bahram Beyzaie's Drama and Cinema: Origins, Forms and Functions.

Both books will appear in early 2024, and we look forward to a productive publishing partnership with Bloomsbury.

Archaeological Monograph Series

The Archaeological Monograph Series was established in 2009 as a joint publishing venture between BIPS and Oxbow Books to create a venue for the publication of archaeological research, particularly the results of large-scale surveys and excavations. The series is edited by Professor Cameron Petrie.

The series' seventh volume edited by Eberhard Sauer, Jebrael Nokandeh and Hamid Omrani Rekavandi entitled Ancient Arms Race: Antiquity's Largest Fortresses and Sasanian Military Networks of Northern Iran: A joint fieldwork project by the Iranian Cultural Heritage, Handcraft and Tourism Organisation and the Universities of Edinburgh and Durham (2014-2016) was published in 2022.

The eighth volume, by Seth M. N. Priestman and Derek Kennet entitled Sasanian and Islamic Settlement and Ceramics in Southern Iran (4th to 17th Century AD): The Williamson Collection Project is due to be published in 2023, and presents the results of fieldwork, research and analysis that has been supported by BIPS since the 1970s. It is available for pre-order from Oxbow Books.

Financial Report

The year 2022-23 was marked by several developments intended to raise the profile and public awareness of BIPS's research programmes and contributions to the study of Iran and the Persianate world in the UK and internationally. The first of these is the inauguration of the 'Flagship' projects – substantial multi-year funding for research that fulfils our own objectives and priorities: currently with a focus on the regions beyond Iran's current borders that contributed to the enrichment of Persian culture. The two projects awarded are on 'The Agricultural sustainability of the Otrar oasis in Kazakhstan, from the 8th to the 18th century', and 'Persian manuscripts between East and West: Britain, India and the circulation of the Persianate literary heritage'. Both engage with broad areas of study concerning Central Asia and India and will involve rich programmes of conferences and publications, indicative also of BIPS's aim to widen our scholarly networks and support research partnerships in these regions.

The second development is the initiation of a major digitisation project, in collaboration with other Schools and Institutes of the British Academy, with an initial focus on the archives of our first director, David Stronach, whose excavation records and supporting materials are currently held in UCLA and being researched by our newly-appointed Stronach Research Fellow, based at York University. Both these initiatives will dominate our work and research expenditure in the coming years.

MEMBERSHIP

Membership of BIPS is open to all, and we welcome new members. BIPS organises an extensive programme of talks, conferences and workshops throughout the year in the UK and overseas. It publishes its journal IRAN twice a year and occasional books in its Persian Studies Series or Archaeological Monograph Series. Becoming a member is your chance to support our work and contribute to our efforts to broaden appreciation of the cultural heritage of the Persianate world.

Membership runs from January to December, but new members can apply any time of the year. We offer four types of membership: Student (£20 a year); Corresponding (£30 a year - for non-UK members); Full (£40 a year) and Fellow (£50 a year for academics). Membership renewals or applications can be made via our website: www.bips.ac.uk/join-us/
