Trustees' Annual Report

For the Year 1 April 2024 – 31 March 2025

Introduction

The trustees present their Annual Report for the Ryhope Engines Trust for the year ended 31 March 2025. The report outlines the Trust's activities, achievements, governance, and financial position during the period and demonstrates how the Trust has continued to meet its charitable objectives.

Objectives and Activities

The Ryhope Engines Trust exists to preserve, maintain, and promote the historic Ryhope Pumping Station and its engines for the benefit of the public. The Trust seeks to advance education in industrial heritage, provide public access to an important historic site, and encourage community engagement through volunteering, events, and learning opportunities.

During 2024–2025, the trustees continued to focus on conservation, education, accessibility, and long-term sustainability. Activities were delivered through public open days, exhibitions, educational visits, and ongoing maintenance and conservation work.

Achievements and Performance

The year was marked by significant progress and consolidation following earlier development work.

Key achievements during the period included:

- Continued growth in volunteers, reflecting sustained public interest and community support.
- Ongoing operation and maintenance of the pumping engines and site infrastructure, ensuring the preservation of the Trust's core heritage assets.
- Removal of asbestos from around the Crab winch in anticipation of future restoration work.
- Continued engagement with stakeholders, partners, and volunteers, strengthening the Trust's profile and resilience.

Public Benefit

Through public open days and events all of which are free to the public.

Financial Review

The Trust's financial position remained stable during the year. Income was derived from a combination of grants, donations, some location fees for film work for the upcoming "night and day film" and trading activities. Expenditure primarily supported conservation works, operational costs, educational activities, and fuel for our Lancashire boilers.

The Trust recorded a modest surplus for the year, which has been retained to support future restoration projects and to maintain adequate reserves. The trustees consider the current financial position to be satisfactory and appropriate for the scale and nature of the Trust's activities.

Reserves Policy

The trustees maintain a reserves policy designed to ensure financial stability and continuity of operations. Reserves are held to meet unexpected costs, support planned maintenance, and provide resilience against fluctuations in income. The level of reserves is reviewed regularly as part of financial oversight.

Governance and Management

The Ryhope Engines Trust is governed by its trustees, who are responsible for setting strategy, ensuring compliance, and safeguarding the Trust's assets. Trustees are appointed in accordance with the Trust's governing document.

The trustees are grateful for the dedication and commitment of the Trust's volunteers, whose contribution remains essential to the success of the organisation.

Plans for Future Periods

Looking ahead, the trustees aim to:

- Progress new restoration initiatives including being able to exhibit a Crab Winch that has been inaccessible for some time and the restoration of a World War 2 air raid shelter on the site.
- Enhance the visitor experience through improved interpretation and accessibility.
- Expand educational and community engagement activities.
- Strengthen partnerships with local and national heritage organisations.
- Ensure the long-term sustainability of the Trust through careful financial and strategic planning.
