Structure, governance and management

Wah Hep Chinese Community Association was set up in 1999 as an unincorporated organisation governed by its Constitution.

Objectives and activities

Objectives

The aim of Wah Hep is to unite the Chinese Community in the Southern Area by:
celebrating and promoting an understanding of Chinese culture;
building the capacity of the Chinese Community to achieve its potential;
helping members of the Chinese Community to access the services and support required to meet their needs and aspirations;

helping the Chinese Community to feel included as active citizens of Northern Ireland; and working within the framework of social equality in partnership with statutory and voluntary bodies, to promote community development and work for the benefit of all sectors of the community.

Values and Principles

Wah Hep's work is guided by the following values and principles.

Values : "Self-help" - this is the central value of Wah Hep and relates to helping the Chinese community to become active members of the wider community through helping each other;

Culture - the promotion and celebration of Chinese cultures and traditions;

Rights & Equality - for the Chinese community to be active citizens and to be able to make their own choices and decisions; and all are treated as equals

Unity between different Chinese communities; and Integration with the wider community.

Achievements and performance

There are an estimated 2000 people of Chinese and Vietnamese origin living in County Armagh. The majority live in the Greater Craigavon area: making it the largest settled Chinese ethnic minority grouping outside of Belfast. The Chinese community are from Hong Kong, Vietnam and Mainland China. The majority of the Chinese population are born in UK. In past years there has been an increase in the number of immigrants from the People's Republic of China. However, the needs of the community share a common base given that its members are ethnic Chinese, originating from the provinces of southern China and share therefore a common culture and heritage.

As in the rest of Northern Ireland most of the Chinese communities in County Armagh are engaged in the catering industry, working in family run restaurants and take-aways, this involves long, unsociable working hours and few opportunities for integrating into the wider community.

The needs audit and social profile survey which was carried out has highlighted:

49% of the Chinese community are 18 and under.

91.1% of the Chinese community have difficulty with access to Information and Services.

13.7% (mainly adults) could speak no English at all and 37.5% could only speak a little English.

Currently the centre is also being used by wider community groups within the Craigavon area.

The Wah Hep Advocacy work & interpreting service has been very successful since it came into service in February 2003. We provide practical help and support to the Chinese Community for example we arrange appointments for clients in various statutory agencies and also provide an interpreting and translation service. Our advocacy work concerning: social security, health, education and housing. Also, quite often we are the first point of contact for the client therefore we often have to help register them with a suitable GP and assist with the collection and explanation of prescriptions. This often involves providing practical assistance: telephoning on client's behalf and assisting them to set up bank accounts.

We also run be-friending service for older / vulnerable community member. Proving hand-holding process: Home Hospital visits, accompany them to essential services, introduce them to the local leisure centre and get involved in a healthy life style
