TRUSTEES ANNUAL REPORT
YEAR ENDED 30 SEPTEMBER 2022

The trustees, who are also directors for the purposes of company law, have pleasure in presenting their report and the audited financial statements of the charity for the year ended 30 September 2022.

Reference and Administrative Details

Reference and administrative details are shown in the schedule of members of the board and professional advisers officers and professional advisers on page 1 of the financial statements.

The Trustees

The trustees who served the company during the period were as follows:

Mr B F McLaughlin
Mr T E Fleming
Mrs A M Culbert
Mr J H Wilson MBE

Structure, Governance and Management

The trustees have adopted the provisions of the Statement of Recommended Practice [SORP] "Accounting and Reporting by Charities" issued in 2005 in preparing the report and financial statements of the charity. They have also had regard for any other information required by law or the charity's governing document.

Governing Document

Country Comes to town is constituted as a charity under a trust deed dated 30 September 2010 and is recognised as a charity by HM Revenue & Customs (reference number NI074062), and The Charity Commission for Northern Ireland (Reference Number NIC 102271).

Objectives and Activities

The objectives and principal activities of the charity are to promote good community relationships and social cohesion between the different communities, both ethnic and local, and to attract visitors from all ages and backgrounds into the town of Portadown. Thereby benefiting all the inhabitants of Craigavon District and surrounding areas by holding an annual community festival, celebrating rural life and activity, past and present.

Achievements and Performance

Established since 1999, as Portadown's only major outdoor cross-community festival, last years event attracted in excess of 30,000 visitors into the town centre on 8th October. (Traditionally, CCTT takes place on the third Saturday in September; however, the death of Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II in 2022 necessitated a date change.). The event, as usual, ran smoothly, due to extensive pre-planning and working in partnership with statutory agencies such as ABC Borough Council, PSNI, Translink, Roads Service etc. And the co-operation of town centre traders was also invaluable; along with the financial support they provided. The event organisers were pleased to host a group of representatives from the Ballina Salmon Festival in Co. Mayo; a group with which Country Comes To Town has had long-established links.

Subsequent analysis of the CCTT events activities revealed that approximately 50% of visitors came from the Greater Craigavon Area with around 20% from the town of Portadown itself. A further 30% of visitors were attracted from all other parts of N Ireland, with notable coachloads arriving from locations such as Ballymena, Omagh and Ards. The remainder were made up of visitors from ROI counties such as Donegal, Meath, Monaghan, Louth, Galway and Dublin. There were also coaches from Scotland and an 80 strong motorhome group from all over Ireland. One family actually travelled from Ontario in Canada!

Public Benefit

There are a number of public benefits that accrue from the CCTT festival. The first of these relates to the substantial amount of community co-operation and interaction that it engenders in what is still, even in 2022, a significantly fractured political society within Portadown. The second public benefit to arise is the close involvement of civic, commercial and community groups, working in unison to ensure the annual success of this very large event. A third benefit is drawn from the craft exhibits and living history demonstrations that are a feature of the Country Comes To town festival. These provide increased education and knowledge of history and culture for young people through artifacts, activities and demonstrations. These events also create points of stimulation and commentary from older visitors who may have grown up in an era when such activities as woodturning, blacksmithing, thatching, home butter-making and threshing were everyday events.

Demonstrating the Benefits

In Portadown and it's environs, there are still many communities and organisations that tend to restrict their activities to their own district; or to other like-minded groups with similar cultural or political backgrounds as their own. Groups encouraged to participate in CCTT are afforded opportunities to meet with others whose backgrounds and environments differ from their own. Feedback from such interactions indicates that individuals from such intermixing groups are more likely to reflect on the nature of their cultural, political and/or religious differences in a non- threatening and neutral environment. And, equally importantly, take advantage of the CCTT activities to identify the numerous areas of common interest on show. Some such will frequently include shared interest in e.g. country music; vintage vehicles and home crafts.

In the years before COVID, the CCTT organisers had taken the opportunity to facilitate local migrant groups as participants within the festival. In the past, peoples from Lithuania, Poland, East Timor, Portugal, Morocco, Nigeria and Brazil have all taken featured spots in the event. In 2022, it was a group from Romania who came along to occupy a centre spot from which they could showcase their music, food, dance, costume, culture and crafts. They thoroughly enjoyed themselves and were very well received. They also made many new friends Citizens able to work together at the same level with professional civic officers regularly report to CCTT directors that such interceptions permit community activists the opportunity to learn how civic action is created and managed. The converse also applies. Council officers report that working with community teams affords some excellent opportunities to observe, at first hand, the desires and priorities of local communities.

The three-way spirit of support and co-operation between the town's commercial sector, its civic management and its communities can be further evidenced by the spirit of goodwill that is engendered by Country Comes To Town through the positive manner that charities and church groups report that they are received on the stands and pitches that the festival organisers provide for them.

Is there harm?

It is highly unlikely that the positive nature of these purposes would be likely to create harm.

Beneficiaries

The beneficiaries of the purposes of Country Comes To Town are, primarily, the groups and individuals from all over Ireland and further afield, who attend the festival as visitors, traders and entertainers. The longer-term benefits of the festival lie in the closer relationships that involvement in CCTT participation brings to broadening the cross-community friendship bonds that are thus created.

Private Benefit

Arising from the very large numbers of people attending Country Comes To Town, there are private financial benefits that accrue to both temporary street traders and resident retailers – through increased trade in the town.

However, this is incidental to the main purposes of holding this festival in order to enhance the quality of the town's community relations.

Financial Review

It is the policy of the charity to maintain restricted reserves which matches the needs of the trust, both at the current time and the foreseeable future. This provides sufficient funds to cover running costs which include management, administration, and support costs. Restricted reserves must be spent in accordance with the donor's wishes.

Plans for Future Periods

It is the intention of Country Comes To Town to further enhance the experience for visitors to the Festival by enlarging the programme on the day [the committee is always looking for more diverse exhibitors] and also by extending the events in the week leading up to the main Saturday, to include Country Music, etc. The Festival is vitally important for the social cohesion, community well-being, and the economic benefits derived for the entire community, enlisting the support of as many people as possible.

INDEPENDENT EXAMINER'S REPORT TO THE MEMBERS OF COUNTRY COMES TO TOWN
YEAR ENDED 30 SEPTEMBER 2022

We report on the Accounts of the Charity for the Year Ended 30 September 2022 set out on page 15.

Respective Responsibilities of Trustees and Independent Examiner

The charity's trustees [who are also the directors of Country Comes To Town for the purposes of company law] are responsible for the preparation of the accounts. Having satisfied ourselves that the charity is not subject to audit under company law and is eligible for independent examination, it is our responsibility to state – on the basis of our examination – whether particular matters have come to our attention.

Basis of Independent Examiner's Statement

Our examination includes a review of the accounting records kept by the charity and a comparison of the accounts presented with those records. It also includes consideration of any unusual items or disclosures in the accounts, and seeking explanations from you as trustees concerning any such matters. The procedures undertaken do not provide all the evidence that would be required in an audit, and consequently we do not express an audit opinion on whether the accounts present a 'true and fair view'.

Independent Examiner's Statement

In connection with our examination, no matter has come to our attention :

- 1 which gives us reasonable cause to believe that in any material respect the trustees have not met the requirements to ensure that :
 - proper books of account are kept [in accordance with Section 386 of the Companies act 2006];
- and*
 - accounts are prepared which agree with the books of account and comply with the accounting requirements of Section 396 of the Companies Act 2006 and with the methods and principles of the Statement of Recommended Practice : Accounting and Reporting by Charities;
- or*
- 2 to which, in our opinion, attention should be drawn in order to enable a proper understanding of the accounts to be reached.
