Rural poverty and deprivation coupled with loneliness and isolation, lack of services, poor transport infrastructure and access to broadband continues to have an impact on our service users. This is why services, programmes and activities provided by age concern are key to the people living in the Castlberg area.

Our volunteers continue to provide vital support to older people by holding information and awareness sessions on how to stay safe in their homes, accessing winter warm initiatives and facilitating referrals to outreach services such as Citizen Advice. In addition in the 2023 - 2024 year we delivered a number of cooking programmes aimed at helping with the cost of living increases. The programmes included cooking on a budget, cooking nutritional low cost meals and how to use leftovers for additional meals.

Our volunteers also support our local community by facilitating support groups, as well as opportunities for people to participate in various programmes and activities. We also hold monthly social cafe and each year we bring over 80 older people to the Derg Valley centre for Christmas dinner, this includes people who may not have engaged with Age Concern before.

We have continued to work in partnership with Derg Valley Care to access a range of holistic health programmes which included physical, educational, social and emotional support some examples are :

- Rural Ramblers - A walking group specifically developed to suit people with a long term condition. Small scale walks on flat ground and when possible in areas of interest.

Age Concern recognises that not everyone can come to programmes or social cafes which is why our befriending scheme continues to be a vital service. The service enables a designated volunteer to visit services users in their own home, or talk to them on the phone which in many cases maybe the only person they will hear from week to week.

We have continued to work in partnership with Derg Valley Care which has enabled us to signpost some of our service users to specific holistic health programmes The types of activities include physical, educational, social and emotional support some examples are :

- Rural Ramblers - A walking groups specifically developed to suit people with a long term condition. Small scale walks on flat ground and when possible in areas of interest.
- Paint Your Pain - Painting programme that is designed to take service users minds of their pain during the two hour classes.
- Stepping On Programme - A community Falls Prevention programme for people over the age of 65 who have already experienced a fall or who are at risk of falling.
- Otago Exercise Programme- Follow on from the Stepping on Programme designed to improve strength and balance.
- Better Days Pain Management programme - Award winning programme that provides participants with coping mechanisms to deal with their day to day pain.
