What the charity does: Linlithgow Heritage Trust operates Linlithgow Museum, a fully accredited, local, independent, volunteer led museum situated in the heart of the historic town of Linlithgow. It comprises three galleries featuring the story of the Royal Burgh, its history, trades and industries and life on the Loch. The fourth gallery is our Community Space used to mount temporary revolving exhibitions curated by local people and organisations. Children's activities themed around the objects and exhibitions are provided together with school visits, reminiscence sessions and events. With the exception of one part time member of staff, our volunteers fill many roles including front of house, collection care, education visits, events, and fund raising. The museum welcome over 6000 visitors a year from all over the world.
