Activities

Activities: 'It carries out activities or services itself'

Purposes: 'the advancement of the arts, heritage, culture or science'

What the charity does: To develop awareness of contemporary visual culture through the work of artists on a long term, sustainable basis, helping to create a critically engaged public cultural life. To increase public access to contemporary art through the on-going presentation of exhibitions and projects. To support the work of artists, local and international, through exhibition, commission, publication and discussion, and do so mindful of our role as host of both artist and artwork. To promote a strong, confident image of contemporary art and artists in Scotland through creating a vibrant context for both art and audiences. To foster long-term approaches to education around contemporary art and culture and an environment in which it can occur. To work with the relevant partners on the development of contemporary collecting. To establish a sound financial basis and relevant business plan. To work closely with the relevant partners, actual and potential, locally, nationally and internationally

Beneficiaries: 'No specific group, or for the benefit of the community'

Objectives: organise and conduct public exhibitions of visual art.
