Activities

Activities: 'It makes grants, donations, loans, gifts or pensions to individuals'

Purposes: 'the advancement of education', 'the advancement of the arts, heritage, culture or science'

What the charity does: Highland Music Trust (HMT) is a Scottish charity (originally based in Inverness) that focuses on the preservation, encouragement and celebration of Scottish national and traditional music and working to make Scottish music widely available. HMT believes that the revival of classic collections (often held in libraries and other archives) is a vital aspect of Scottish culture. Therefore on the HMT website you can find a vast collection of traditional Scottish music all of which has been clearly reprinted / scanned to make it as accessible as possible to music lovers and musicians – either by purchase or free downloads. We also have a couple of instruments on long term loan to Ceolas for their young students, and have in the past, when funds allowed, gave funding and/or publications to support young musicians in their skills development.

Beneficiaries: 'No specific group, or for the benefit of the community'

Objectives: The Trustees shall apply the Trust Fund for the advancement of education in and knowledge of Scottish national and traditional music and that of related cultures and art forms, including without prejudice to the generality promoting and supporting research, study, compositions, publications, recordings and educational projects and making payments by way of grants or loans to any individuals or bodies for such purposes, all as the Trustees in their absolute discretion shall determine, declaring that the Trustees shall have the widest discretion both in the interpretation and in the execution of these purposes, within the powers competent to charitable trustees in Scotland
