Activities

Activities: 'It makes grants, donations, loans, gifts or pensions to individuals'

Purposes: 'the prevention or relief of poverty', 'the advancement of education'

What the charity does: The Riddell Bequest was set up following the donation by the original benefactor to set up the award by Sheila Riddell, a former President of the Aberdeen Society of Architects. The fund provides cash awards for the benefit of Architecture students studying at the Scott Sutherland School of Architecture, Robert Gordon University, Garthdee Campus, Aberdeen in the event of hardship. A Student facing hardship can make, via the Secretary to The School of Architecture, an application for assistance funding noting the reasons and implications. The Trustees can then make payment for any purposes connected with the maintenance, welfare and education of students at the School where hardship is providing a negative impact on them being able to complete their studies. The Trustees have awarded grants to applicable students following a suitable interview process although the Trustees retain the right to withhold payments.

Beneficiaries: 'Other defined groups'

Objectives: To provide a fund for the benefit of Architecture students studying at the Scott Sutherland School of Architecture, Robert Gordon University, Garthdee Campus, Aberdeen ('the School'). The Trustees shall be entitled to make payment for any purposes connected with the maintenance, welfare and education of students at the School. The Trustees shall be entitled to grant any such application but shall have the right to refuse any application, without having to make their reasons known.
