Activities

Activities: 'It carries out activities or services itself'

Purposes: 'the advancement of education'

What the charity does: sound is a new music incubator based in North East Scotland which increases access to new music, encourages excellence and experimentation and nurtures talent. It does this through three main strands of activity: 1. Commissioning, producing and promoting new work through the soundfestival of new music which takes place annually in North East Scotland. 2. A year-round programme of workshops giving young people in North East Scotland access to creative music making opportunities, including an annual composition course. 3. A year-round programme of online and in-person composer support activities giving composers, and in particular Scottish composers of all generations, access to ongoing support throughout their careers.

Beneficiaries: 'Children or young people','Older People','People with disabilities or health problems','No specific group, or for the benefit of the community','Other charities or voluntary bodies'

Objectives: The aim of the Society shall be to advance the education of the public in the art of new or contemporary music by the presentation of public performances, workshops and other related activities.
