Activities

Activities: 'It carries out activities or services itself'

Purposes: 'the advancement of education', 'the promotion of equality and diversity', 'the relief of those in need by reason of age, ill-health, disability, financial hardship or other disadvantage'

What the charity does: Abused Men in Scotland (AMIS) provides specialist support to men aged 18 and over who experience domestic abuse across Scotland. We deliver a confidential national helpline and email support service offering emotional support, risk assessment, safety planning, and practical advice to men who are experiencing physical, emotional, sexual and financial abuse, coercive control, and post-separation abuse. Many of the men who contact us are living with fear, isolation and trauma, often alongside mental health distress, financial hardship, housing insecurity, and the impact of family separation. In addition to direct support, we work with statutory and third-sector partners including police, housing, health services and social care to improve understanding of male victimisation and strengthen responses to men affected by abuse. We provide training, consultation and information to professionals, and awareness-raising to challenge stigma and improve access to help.

Beneficiaries: 'Other defined groups'

Objectives: 4.1 To support men who are experiencing or who have experienced domestic abuse and also to offer advice to those concerned about the position of such men and their children. 4.2 To work with any man over 16 concerned about domestic abuse, regardless of sexuality, transgender status or history, age, disability, religion, race, nationality or ethnic origin. 4.3 To advance education by distributing educational information relating to. undertaking training and research in. and raising public awareness of domestic abuse experienced by men and their children. 4.4 To promote full recognition for male victims of domestic abuse and their affected children. 4.5 To promote specialist services to help relieve the isolation, distress and hardship faced by male victims and enable men and their children to recover from domestic abuse. 4.6 To advance the equality, safety, dignity, and health (both physical and mental) of male victims of domestic abuse. 4.7 To promote early intervention and prevention of domestic abuse.
