What the charity does: The Charity promotes the advancement of public participation in sport, providing year round tennis, training and competition for individuals from 8 years of age and above with a physical, sensory or learning disability. Through this, those attending have the opportunity to develop physical fitness and skills, develop friendships with other tennis players, families and friends and the community, so that their quality of life can be improved. We provide tennis opportunities on a regular basis which supports and promotes healthy living styles. For those who want to compete, we provide recreational and regional opportunities for match play. We work to raise the profile of tennis and the benefits it can offer for people with a physical, sensory or learning disability. Athletes can attend as a member of GDT but also our training is open to non-members

Beneficiaries: 'People with disabilities or health problems'
