Activities

Activities: 'It carries out activities or services itself'

Purposes: 'the relief of those in need by reason of age, ill-health, disability, financial hardship or other disadvantage'

What the charity does: TripleTapTech helps people with a visual impairment to access and use technology in order to help them live an independent life. We do this by offering 3 core services. Our telephone helpline that people can call up and get advice and support on technology and sight loss. We have our office service which include tuition of how to use different devices and demos so people can find the right technology for them. We also use our office to run groups and events. We do not sell any equipment as to be able to give an honest and unbiased opinion to the people we support. We also have a home visit service. This service lets us go out into people's home and show them and teach them whatever tech they are interested in and also fix up peoples devices if they are broke. TripleTapTech is a voluntary organisation run by a group of volunteers lead by Fraser Fleming and Graham Gunning who do this voluntary too.

Beneficiaries: 'People with disabilities or health problems'

Objectives: The relief of need though providing training and support to those with a visual impairment, to assist them in using technology to combat the disadvantages they face in daily life and to enhance their independence, confidence and social inclusion
