Scottish Wild Land Group SCIO

Report and Accounts for the year ended 31 March 2025

The Scottish Wild Land Group SCIO is a membership body, which welcomes new members who support Scotland's wild land.

Charity Trustees

General control and management of the Scottish Wild Land Group SCIO resides with the Steering Committee, the members of which are therefore the "Charity Trustees" for the purposes of The Charities and Trustee Investment (Scotland) Act 2005. They are elected annually by the members in general meeting.

During the year to 31 March 2025, the Steering Committee comprised:

Constitution

The Office of the Scottish Charity Regulator approved the Constitution of the Scottish Wild Land Group SCIO and admitted this body to the Scottish Charity Register on 22 March 2022, with Charity number SC051654. The Constitution may be found on the Charity's website, or from the Treasurer on request.

Recruitment of Charity Trustees

The trustees of the Scottish Wild Land Group SCIO comprise the Steering Committee which manages the activities of the Group. The Committee welcomes communication from members and the public. The Steering Committee is elected by members at the Annual General Meeting, to which all members are invited, and welcomes nominations to join the Committee.

The purposes and public benefit of the Scottish Wild Land Group SCIO (the Group)

The Group's purposes are to promote the conservation of wild land in Scotland, and to promote public awareness of problems facing Scotland's wild land, including man-made developments and reductions in biodiversity. It aims to promote and encourage the implementation of good planning policies and to co-operate with other bodies to achieve these objects.

The Group is a campaigning body, which aims to protect and preserve Scotland's wild land. It publishes Wild Land News, a magazine sent free to members and to politicians and other decision makers to highlight issues threatening Scotland's wild land, and to generate discussion and educate the public on land conservation matters. The Group encourages sound effective planning policies to protect and enhance wild land and supports those local communities that nurture good land management.

Its activities carry a clear public benefit, aiming to preserve Scotland's wild land for future generations to enjoy and appreciate.

Main activities and achievements during the year to 31 March 2025:

As in previous years, the activities of the Group were more constrained by a shortage of volunteers than by the limitation of funds.

Wild Land News

'Wild Land News' is the magazine of the Group, edited by James Fenton until his resignation in December 2024. It is circulated to all members and also distributed around Scotland to various venues, including climbing shops and bothies. Issue No. 104 came out in Spring 2024 and focused, amongst other things, on the unnecessary proliferation of phone masts in the wilderness areas, and the Loch na h-Earba pumped storage scheme on the Ardverikie Estate, south of Loch Laggan. Issue 105 was published in Autumn 2024 and highlighted the problems created by the need for massive amounts of electrical storage capacity which will inevitably be required if the country is to depend upon intermittent wind energy as a principal source.

SWLG Website

The website is our main means to keep members up to date with current matters, campaigns, petitions, and when we have needed to encourage our members to take action such as writing to their MSP. It includes an archive of past issues of Wild Land News, and details of recent objections and our responses to many planning applications in wild land areas.

Membership and participation in Scottish Environment LINK

SWLG has been an active member of the Scottish Environment LINK network of environmental and bio-diversity charities and NGOs for many years. The SWLG participated in LINK's "Fight for Scotland's Nature" campaign, and was a leading proponent, as in previous years, in LINK's advocacy of bringing all bulldozed Hill Tracks into the planning system, with proper approval required for all additions and extensions.

Financial Review and Policy on Reserves

The Scottish Wild Land Group SCIO's income in the year to 31 March 2025 was £3,892 (previous year £4,351) and expenditures were £2,884 (previous year £3,362) resulting in a surplus of £1,008 (2024 - £989). The Group's Income was from its members, subscriptions and donations, and the costs were primarily the printing and mailing of two editions of Wild Land News, all as fully set out on the Statement of Income and Expense.

The Scottish Wild Land Group SCIO aims to retain reserves around the level of one year's gross income, to ensure adequate funds to meet day to day expenses, and a sufficient level of continuity. At present, funds exceed this level, which is welcome as it enables the SCIO to embark upon larger projects. All funds are available for the general purposes of the SCIO.

Report of the Independent Examiner to the Trustees of the Scottish Wild Land Group SCIO

I report on the Accounts of the Scottish Wild Land Group SCIO for the year ended 31 March 2025 in accordance with the terms of the Charities and Trustee Investment (Scotland) Act 2005, “the Act”, and the Charities Accounts (Scotland) Regulations 2006 – “the Regulations”. The Trustees consider that the audit requirement of Regulation 10(1)(d) does not apply.

Respective responsibilities of Trustees and Independent Examiner

As the trustees of the Charity, you are responsible for the preparation of the accounts. It is my responsibility under S 44(1)(c) of the Act to examine these accounts, and to report whether particular matters have come to my attention.

Basis of Independent Examiner’s Report

My examination is carried out in accordance with Regulation 11, and includes a review of the accounting records kept by the charity, and a comparison of the accounts presented with those records. It also includes consideration of any unusual items or disclosures in the accounts, and seeks explanations from the trustees concerning such matters. The procedures undertaken do not provide all the evidence that would be required in an audit, and consequently I do not express an audit opinion on the view given by the accounts.

Independent Examiner’s statement

In connection with my examination, no matter has come to my attention:-

(1) which gives me reasonable cause to believe that in any material respect the requirements to keep accounting records in accordance with Section 44 of the Act and Regulation 4; and to prepare accounts which accord with the accounting records; and to comply with the accounting requirements of the Act and Regulation 9, have not been met; or,

(2) to which, in my opinion, attention should be drawn in order to enable a proper understanding of the accounts to be reached.
